Waterloo Relics Famous Battles:

Waterloo Relics Gilles Bernard, Gérard Lachaux, 2015 Waterloo morne plaine Waterloo sad plain These three words still echo in French people's minds Beyond Victor Hugo's writings they remember that it was a defeat rather than a battle and also depending on where your opinions lie the final act of a fantastic epic or that of a terrible despot June 1815 the 18th a day which will give Wellington and Blücher immortal glory and sealed the fate of Europe for decades Authentic proof of the battle has had to be found at its source Two centuries afterwards the only valid proof in our opinion was those objects which had really been at Waterloo Strangely enough with all the books and publications on the subject nobody ever seemed to have taken an interest in this aspect And yet their emotional capital still remains intact from the very famous hat belonging to Napoleon to the uniform button of an obscure infantry fusilier

Waterloo 1815 John Grehan, 2015-05-30 For more than twenty years Europe had been torn apart by war Dynasties had crumbled new states had been created and a generation had lost its young men When it seemed that peace might at last settle across Europe terrible news was received Napoleon had escaped from exile and was marching upon Paris Europe braced itself once again for war The allied nations agreed to combine against Napoleon and in May 1815 they began to mass on France's frontiers The scene was set for the greatest battle the world had yet seen Composed of more than 300 eyewitness accounts official documents parliamentary debates and newspaper reports Voices from the Past tells the story of Napoleon's last battles as they were experienced and reported by the men and women involved Heroic cavalry charges devastating artillery bombardments terrible injuries heart breaking encounters and amusing anecdotes written by aristocratic officers and humble privates alike fill the pages of this ambitious publication Many of these reports have not been reproduced for almost 200 years

Britons and their Battlefields Ian Atherton, 2024-08-19 While much attention has been paid to the commemoration of conflict in the twentieth century this book is the first to consider conflict memory in the long term arguing that modern practices were not created out of the mud of the trenches but evolved from much longer practices From the fourteenth century to the present day this work analyses the changing commemoration and memories of British battlefields at home and overseas from Bannockburn 1314 to Bosworth 1485 to Basra 2003 9 Across these seven centuries there has been a series of recurring post battle rituals that have shaped and continue to shape memories of conflict Three distinct but overlapping periods of memory can be delineated In the later Middle Ages battlefields were consecrated by the burial of the fallen and often by the erection of a battlefield cross or chapel or chantry to pray for the dead The second phase began with the Protestant Reformation in the 1530s when pilgrimage and prayers for the dead were abolished and battlefield chantries were dissolved and many battlefield crosses were demolished Memories shifted from the dead to the living especially the bodies of surviving veterans who commemorated the conflict by their wounds and from soil and stone to print and ink The third phase began in the eighteenth century when antiquaries and others established new monuments on past battlefields Monuments to survivors and the dead were established on contemporary battlefields such as Waterloo once again hailed as sacred ground hallowed by bloodshed fit destinations for a pilgrimage Not just officers but ordinary soldiers began to be memorialized by name on the battlefield culminating in the cult of the names of the dead enshrined by the creation of the War Graves Commission in 1917 and the idea that battlefields should be preserved unchanged as seen in modern heritage management Drawing on a wide variety of literary and historical sources and taking a uniquely longue dur e approach the book explores and links memory making practices from across the period to reconsider the ways in which battlefields are commemorated and re commemorated In so doing it makes a unique contribution to a wide range of historiographical fields British history since the fourteenth century memory studies heritage studies landscape history conflict archaeology and military history

Deeds That Won the Empire: Historic Battle Scenes William Henry Fitchett, 2020-09-28 The tales here told are written not to glorify war but to nourish patriotism They represent an effort to renew in popular memory the great traditions of the Imperial race to which we belong The history of the Empire of which we are subjects the story of the struggles and sufferings by which it has been built up is the best legacy which the past has bequeathed to us But it is a treasure strangely neglected The State makes primary education its anxious care yet it does not make its own history a vital part of that education There is real danger that for the average youth the great names of British story may become meaningless sounds that his imagination will take no colour from the rich and deep tints of history And what a pallid cold blooded citizenship this must produce War belongs no doubt to an imperfect stage of society it has a side of pure brutality But it is not all brutal Wordsworth s daring line about God s most perfect instrument has a great truth behind it What examples are to be found in the tales here retold not merely of heroic daring but of even finer qualities of heroic fortitude of loyalty to duty stronger than the love of life of the temper which dreads dishonour more than it fears death of the patriotism which makes love of the Fatherland a passion These are the elements of robust citizenship They represent some at least of the qualities by which the Empire in a sterner time than ours was won and by which in even these ease loving days it must be maintained These sketches appeared originally in the Melbourne Argus and are republished by the kind consent of its proprietors Each sketch is complete in itself and though no formal quotation of authorities is given yet all the available literature on each event described has been laid under contribution The sketches will be found to be historically accurate

Deeds That Won The Empire: Historic Battle Scenes [Illustrated Edition] W. H. Fitchett, 2015-11-06 Includes 15 portraits and 11 maps IT is with great pleasure that we welcome this admirable little book and its short clear sketches of some of the great deeds which made the Empire There have been plenty of attempts to write the story of England s battles on sea and land in a language which shall while plain and easily understood give a true picture of the events depicted but we have never met with one which has proved so successful The method as well as the tone and temper of the little book before us it is in size hardly more than a pamphlet is entirely satisfactory The writing of Vedette without being pompous or exaggerated is full of life and colour and dull must he be who can read its pages without a thrill of pride and pleasure Only about twenty pages are devoted to each of the twelve episodes chosen from the history of the last hundred and fifty years and therefore there is little room for minute detail or fine shading With true literary and historic discretion however Vedette has seized the important points in each incident narrated and has made them living and real Whether it is the fight off Cape St Vincent or Lord Hawke s victory the night attack on Badajos or the storming of the Heights of Abraham that is being described Vedette contrives to give us the essentials of the story Again he makes the nature of each incident clearly visible and by a few swift and bold touches Wolfe or Jervis Sir Sidney Smith or Sir Philip Broke stand out before us as they lived an I fought But this happy result is achieved by no elaborate artifices of style but by the simplest of devices Vedette has clearly got the historical literature of each event at his fingers The Spectator Napoleonic Objects and their Afterlives Matilda Greig,Nicole Cochrane,2025-01-09 Two centuries after Napoleon Bonaparte s death this edited volume brings together a diverse group of historians art historians and museum professionals to critically examine the enduring power of visual and material culture in the making of Napoleonic memory While most discussions surrounding the legendary figure explore his impact on legislative political or military reform this innovative volume explores the global dimensions of the trade in Napoleonic collectibles art and relics over time Representing new avenues of research and scholarship Napoleonic Objects and their Afterlives investigates the material objects and cultural forms that Napoleon inspired through a range of themes These include art collecting the circulation and display of objects political and imperial symbolism and the flexibility and ambiguity of Napoleon s enduring legacy The essays examine how and why despite his contentious role in contemporary memory Napoleon continues to escape much historical and popular censure They explore the ways people have connected with the idea of him on stage and screen in museums and galleries and most intimately of all by gathering items said to have belonged to him right down to his toothbrush and locks of his hair Napoleonic items can be official or personal serious or comical luxury or disposable yet little work has been done to bring together these diverse cultural histories into conversation with one another With its broad multi disciplinary approach including perspectives from art history film studies cultural history and museum curation the book provides a deep critical insight into the cult of personality surrounding Napoleon and its effect on our understanding of celebrity culture today and in the future Includes an additional foreword by Napoleon s biographer Ruth Scurr author of In Gardens and Shadows 2021 Famous and Decisive Battles of the World Charles King,1884 The Great Events by Famous Historians: A.D. 1800-1815 Charles Francis Horne,1905 The Historic Note-book Ebenezer Cobham Brewer,1891 Sharpe's London magazine, a journal of entertainment and instruction.
