Veiled Empire Gender And Power In Stalinist Central Asia:

Veiled Empire Douglas T. Northrop, 2016-06-08 Drawing on extensive research in the archives of Russia and Uzbekistan Douglas Northrop here reconstructs the turbulent history of a Soviet campaign that sought to end the seclusion of Muslim women In Uzbekistan it focused above all on a massive effort to eliminate the heavy horsehair and cotton veils worn by many women and girls This campaign against the veil was in Northrop's view emblematic of the larger Soviet attempt to bring the proletarian revolution to Muslim Central Asia a region Bolsheviks saw as primitive and backward The Soviets focused on women and the family in an effort to forge a new liberated social order This unveiling campaign however took place in the context of a half century of Russian colonization and the long standing suspicion of rural Muslim peasants toward an urban colonial state Widespread resistance to the idea of unveiling quickly appeared and developed into a broader anti Soviet animosity among Uzbeks of both sexes Over the next quarter century a bitter and often violent confrontation ensued with battles being waged over indigenous practices of veiling and seclusion New local and national identities coalesced around these very practices that had been placed under attack Veils became powerful anticolonial symbols for the Uzbek nation as well as important markers of Muslim propriety Bolshevik leaders who had seen this campaign as an excellent way to enlist allies while proving their own European credentials as enlightened reformers thus inadvertently strengthened the seclusion of Uzbek women precisely the reverse of what they set out to do Northrop's fascinating and evocative book shows both the fluidity of Central Asian cultural practices and the real limits that existed on Stalinist authority even during the ostensibly totalitarian 1930s

Movement, Power and Place in Central Asia and Beyond Madeleine Reeves, 2013-09-13 Central Asia is a region singularly marked by attempts to transform social life by transforming place Drawing together established scholars and a new generation of historians geographers and anthropologists this volume brings empirical specificity and theoretical depth to debates about the politics of place making in this diverse region making an important contribution to Central Asian studies and a distinctive regional comparison to the spatial turn in social analysis Case studies draw on archival research and oral history to explore the workings and unintended consequences of policies aimed at sedentarizing collectivizing and resettling populations as a means to fix and territorialize space The book also examines ethnographic studies attuned to the role of movement in sustaining social life from Soviet era trade networks that linked rural Central Asia and the Russian metropolis to pilgrimage routes through which Kazakhness is articulated to the contemporary moralization of migration abroad in search of work Rather than analysing flows as abstract processes the book enquires about effortful activity material infrastructures political relations and social habits through which people ideas knowledge skills and material objects move or are prevented from moving As such it offers new insights into the complex intersections of movement power and place in this important region over the last two centuries This book was originally published as a special issue of Central Asian Survey

Atomic Collective Magdalena E. Stawkowski, 2025-04-30 In the aftermath of the Soviet Union's collapse Kazakhstan inherited the remnants of one of the world's most contaminated landscapes the Semipalatinsk Test Site known locally as the Polygon Resigned to dispossession residents have chosen to remain on the abandoned nuclear test site despite the isolation and the radioactive environment rather than face marginalization or the rigors of a neoliberal world Atomic Collective examines this nuclear legacy through a decade long ethnographic examination of the village of Koian situated on the border of the test site Facing residual radiation all around them and isolation Koianers persist reshaping their pastoral existence among the ruins and scientific debates surrounding genetic damage Drawing on first hand accounts and archival research this book explores the resilience and everyday survival strategies of a community left behind to fend for itself in the shadow of nuclear testing It offers a unique perspective on life in a nuclear zone and poses fundamental questions about human resilience and the impact of historical events on a collective identity Atomic Collective sheds light on a community overlooked in the larger Cold War histories of atomic testing

Living Language in Kazakhstan Eva Marie Dubuisson, 2017-06-30 Eva Marie Dubuisson provides a fascinating anthropological inquiry into the deeply ingrained presence of ancestors within the cultural political and spiritual discourse of Kazakhs In a climate of authoritarianism and economic uncertainty many people in this region turn to their forebearers for care guidance and advice invoking them on a daily basis This living language creates a powerful link to the past and a stable foundation for the present Through Dubuisson's participatory observational and lived experience among Kazakhs we witness firsthand the public performances and private rituals that show how memory and identity are sustained through an oral tradition of invoking ancestors This ancestral dialogue sustains a unifying worldview by mediating questions of faith and morality providing role models and offering a mechanism for socio political critique change and meaning making Looking beyond studies of Islam or heritage alone Dubuisson provides fresh insights into understanding the Kazakh worldview that will serve students researchers NGOs and policymakers in the region

Soviet Influences on Postwar Yugoslav Gender Policies Ivan Simic, 2018-08-01 This book explores Soviet influences on Yugoslav gender policies examining how Yugoslav communists interpreted adapted and used Soviet ideas to change Yugoslav society The book sheds new light on the role of Soviet models in producing Yugoslav family and reproductive laws and in framing the understandings of gender which affected key policies such as the collectivisation of agriculture labour policies policies towards Muslim populations and policies concerning youth sexuality Through a gender analysis of all these policies this book points to the difficulties of applying Soviet solutions in Yugoslavia Deeply entrenched patriarchal attitudes undermined Yugoslav communists ability to challenge gender norms causing many disputes and struggles within the Communist Party over the meanings and application of Soviet gender models Yet Soviet models informed how Yugoslav communists approached gender related issues for many years even after the conflict erupted between these two countries

Separate Schools E. Thomas Ewing, 2010-11-01 Starting in 1943 millions of children were separated into boys and girls schools in cities across the Soviet Union The government sought to reinforce gender roles in a wartime context and to strengthen discipline and order by separating boys and girls into different classrooms The program was a failure Discipline further deteriorated in boys schools and despite intentions to keep the education equal girls schools experienced increased perceptions of academic inferiority particularly in the subjects of math and science The restoration of coeducation in 1954 demonstrated the power of public opinion even in a dictatorship to influence school policies In the first full length study of the program Ewing examines this large scale experiment across the full cycle of deliberating advocating implementing experiencing criticizing and finally repudiating separate schools Looking at the encounters of pupils in classrooms policy objectives of communist leaders and growing opposition to separate schools among teachers and parents Ewing provides new insights into the last decade of Stalin s dictatorship A comparative analysis of the Soviet case with recent efforts in the United States and elsewhere raises important questions Based on extensive research that includes the archives of Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan Separate Schools will appeal to historians of Russia those interested in comparative education and educational history and specialists in gender studies

Becoming Turkish Hale Yilmaz, 2013-07-30 Becoming Turkish deepens our understanding of the modernist nation building processes in post Ottoman Turkey through a rare perspective that stresses social and cultural dimensions and everyday negotiations of the Kemalist reforms Yilmaz asks how the reforms were mediated on the ground and how ordinary citizens received reacted to and experienced them She traces the experiences of the subaltern as well as the experiences of the elites and the mediators in the overall narrative highlighting the relevance of class gender location and urban and rural differences while also revealing the importance of nonideological social and psychological factors such as childhood and generations Stalinist Society Mark Edele,2011-02-17 Stalinist Society offers a fresh analytical overview of the complex social formation ruled over by Stalin and his henchmen from the late 1920s to the early 1950s Drawing on declassified archival materials interviews with former Soviet citizens old and new memoirs and personal diaries as well as the best of sixty years of scholarship this book offers a non reductionist account of social upheaval and social cohesion in a society marred by violence Combining the perspectives from above and from below the book integrates recent writing on everyday life culture and entertainment ideology and politics terror and welfare consumption and economics Utilizing the latest archival research on the evolution of Soviet society during and after World War II this study also integrates the entire history of Stalinism from the late 1920s to the dictator s death in 1953 Breaking radically with current scholarly consensus Mark Edele shows that it was not ideology terror or state control which held this society together but the harsh realities of making a living in a chaotic economy which the rulers claimed to plan and control but which in fact they could only manage haphazardly Speaking Soviet with an Accent Ali F. Igmen,2012-07-31 Speaking Soviet with an Accent presents the first English language study of Soviet culture clubs in Kyrgyzstan These clubs profoundly influenced the future of Kyrgyz cultural identity and fostered the work of many artists such as famed novelist Chingiz Aitmatov Based on extensive oral history and archival research Ali Igmen follows the rise of culture clubs beginning in the 1920s when they were established to inculcate Soviet ideology and create a sedentary lifestyle among the historically nomadic Kyrgyz people These Red clubs are fondly remembered by locals as one of the few places where lively activities and socialization with other members of their ail village or tribal unit could be found Through lectures readings books plays concerts operas visual arts and cultural Olympiads locals were exposed to Soviet notions of modernization But these programs also encouraged the creation of a newfound Kyrgyzness that preserved aspects of local traditions and celebrated the achievements of Kyrgyz citizens in the building of a new state These ideals proved appealing to many Kyrgyz who for centuries had seen riches and power in the hands of a few tribal chieftains and Russian imperialists This book offers new insights into the formation of modern cultural identity in Central Asia Here like their imperial predecessors the Soviets sought to extend their physical borders and political influence But Igmen also reveals the remarkable agency of the Kyrgyz people who employed available resources to meld their own heritage with Soviet and Russian ideologies and form artistic expressions that continue to influence Kyrgyzstan today Allah's Kolkhozes Christian Noack,Stephane A. Hoffmann, 2018-11-15 Placing Stalinism in its international context David L Hoffmann presents a new interpretation of Soviet state intervention and violence Many Stalinist practices the state run economy surveillance propaganda campaigns and the use of concentration camps did not originate with Stalin or even in Russia but were instead tools of governance that became widespread throughout Europe during the First World War The Soviet system was formed at this moment of total war and wartime practices of mobilization and state violence became building blocks of the new political order Communist Party leaders in turn used these practices ruthlessly to pursue their ideological agenda of economic and social transformation Synthesizing new research on Stalinist collectivization industrialization cultural affairs gender roles nationality policies the Second World War and the Cold War Hoffmann provides a succinct account of this pivotal period in world history Constructing the Uzbek State Marlene Laruelle, 2017-12-20 Over the past three decades Uzbekistan has attracted the attention of the academic and policy communities because of its geostrategic importance its critical role in shaping or unshaping Central Asia as a region its economic and trade potential and its demographic weight every other Central Asian being Uzbek Uzbekistan's political social and cultural evolutions largely exemplify the transformations of the region as a whole And yet more than 25 years after the collapse of the Soviet Union evaluating Uzbekistan's post Soviet transformation remains complicated Practitioners and scholars have seen access to sources data and fieldwork progressively restricted since the early 2000s The death of President Islam Karimov in power for a quarter of century in late 2016 reopened the future of the country offering it more room for evolution To better grasp the challenges facing post Karimov Uzbekistan this volume reviews nearly three decades of independence In the first part it discusses the political construct of Uzbekistan under Karimov based on the delineation between the state the elite and the people and the tight links between politics and economy The second section of the volume delves into the social and cultural changes related to labor migration and one specific trigger the difficulties to reform agriculture The third part explores the place of religion in Uzbekistan both at the state level and in society while the last part looks at the renegotiation of collective identities

Why Do Uzbeks Have to be Muslims? Irene Hilgers, 2009 In this work the late Irene Hilgers analyses the revival of Islam in the public sphere in postsocialist Uzbekistan with particular reference to its role in the construction of a new national identity Data collected during fieldwork in 2003 2004 are contextualized with reference to the history of the Kokand Khanate and the suppression of religion during the Soviet era Hilgers analyses current state ideology and the official structures for controlling religion but also the continued significance of popular religion as expressed at shrines and in healing rituals and the tensions associated with Wahabi currents The tight association between Uzbek identity and Islam is also illustrated through the problems encountered by converts to Christianity Throughout the work Hilgers deploys her rich ethnographic materials to shed fresh light on major debates concerning secularization and the nature of Soviet and post Soviet modernity

Modernisation in Russia since 1900 Markku Kangaspuro, Jeremy Smith, 2006-12-27 Modernisation has been a constant theme in Russian history at least since Peter the Great launched a series of initiatives aimed at closing the economic technical and cultural gap between Russia and the more advanced countries of Europe All of the leaders of the Soviet Union and post Soviet Russia have been intensely aware of this gap and have pursued a number of strategies some more successful than others in order to modernise the country But it would be wrong to view modernisation as a unilinear process which was the exclusive preserve of the state Modernisation has had profound effects on Russian society and the attitudes of different social groups have been crucial to the success and failure of modernisation This volume examines the broad theme of modernisation in late imperial Soviet and post Soviet Russia both through general overviews of particular topics and specific case studies of modernisation projects and their impact Modernisation is seen not just as an economic policy but as a cultural and social phenomenon reflected through such diverse themes as ideology welfare education gender relations transport political reform and the Internet The result is the most up to date and comprehensive survey of modernisation in Russia available which highlights both one of the perennial problems and the challenges and prospects for contemporary Russia
