The Ships of the Ancient Near East (c. 1000-500 B.C.) Marie-Christine de Graeve,1981 Ships and Seafaring in Ancient Times Lionel Casson,1994 Ever since the earliest travellers took to the water on reed rafts or inflated goatskins ships and boats have played a paramount role in the history of the western world The invention of the sail in Egypt in about 3500 BC resulted in ever faster and more efficient water transport and the nations that surrounded the Mediterranean in ancient times depended on ships and seafarers for their prosperity Roman Warships Michael Pitassi,2011 An examination of Roman naval development drawing upon archaeological evidence documentary accounts and visual representation Greek Oared Ships 900-322 Bc John Morrison,1998-12 This fundamental work has been out of print for many years but it is now at last once again available It is written in the belief that a proper understanding of Greek civilization in antiquity requires some knowledge of its background of seafaring A knowledge of nautical practice is required for an understanding of some passages of Greek poetry and prose writing and for a correct interpretation of numerous historical events This is an attempt at a thorough study of the evidence both literary and archaeological Modern reference books tend to repeat the misconceptions of nineteenth century scholars In contrast Mr Morrison and Mr Williams have written a scholarly and scientific study of the subject They collect in this volume evidence for Greek oared ships between 900 and 322 BC The book is primarily a catalogue of decorated pottery and quotations from literature and from naval inventories The pottery is illustrated by diagrams and plates and the quotations are given in full
