Kass Fleisher, 2004-02-01 At dawn on January 29 1863 Union affiliated troops under the command of Col Patrick Connor were brought by Mormon guides to the banks of the Bear River where with the tacit approval of Abraham Lincoln they attacked and slaughtered nearly three hundred Northwestern Shoshoni men women and children Evidence suggests that in the hours after the attack the troops raped the surviving women an act still denied by some historians and Shoshoni elders In exploring why a seminal act of genocide is still virtually unknown to the U S public Kass Fleisher chronicles the massacre itself and investigates the National Park Service s proposal to create a National Historic Site to commemorate the massacre but not the rape When she finds herself arguing with a Shoshoni woman elder about whether the rape actually occurred Fleisher is forced to confront her own role as a maker of this conflicted history and to examine the legacy of white women busybodies

Removal Acts Erin Marie Lynch, 2023-10-03 FINALIST FOR THE 2023 CALIBA GOLDEN POPPY BOOK

AWARD FOR POETRY Drawing its title from the 1863 Federal Act that banished the Dakota people from their homelands this remarkable debut collection reckons with the present day repercussions of historical violence Through an array of brief lyrics visual forms chronologies and sequences these virtuosic poems trace a path through the labyrinth of distances and absences haunting the American colonial experiment Removal Acts takes its speaker s fraught methods of accessing the past as both subject and material family photos the fragile artifacts of primary documents and the digital abyss of web browsers and word processors Alongside studies of two of her Dakota ancestors Lynch has assembled an intimate record of recovery from bulimia insisting that self erasure cannot be separated from the erasures of genocide In these rigorous scrutinizing examinations of removal in its many forms as physical displacement archival absence Whiteness and vomit Lynch has crafted a harrowing portrait of the entwined relationship between the personal and historical The result is a powerful affirmation of resilience and resolute presence in the face of eradication
