The Wisdom Of The Bones In Search Of Human Origins:

The Wisdom of the Bones Alan Walker, Pat Shipman, 1997-09-02 Fascinating As engaging an explanation of how scientists study fossil bones as any I have ever read John R Alden Philadelphia Inquirer In 1984 a team of paleoanthropologists on a dig in northern Kenya found something extraordinary a nearly complete skeleton of Homo erectus a creature that lived 1.5 million years ago and is widely thought to be the missing link between apes and humans The remains belonged to a tall rangy adolescent male The researchers called him Nariokotome boy In this immensely lively book Alan Walker one of the lead researchers and his wife and fellow scientist Pat Shipman tell the story of that epochal find and reveal what it tells us about our earliest ancestors We learn that Nariokotome boy was a highly social predator who walked upright but lacked the capacity for speech In leading us to these conclusions The Wisdom of the Bones also offers an engaging chronicle of the hundred year long search for a missing link a saga of folly heroic dedication and inspired science Brilliantly captures an intellectual odyssey One of the finest examples of a practicing scientist writing for a popular audience Portland Oregonian A vivid insider's perspective on the global efforts to document our own ancestry Richard E Leakey The Wisdom of Bones Alan Walker, Pat Shipman, 1996 A groundbreaking book concerning the excavation of Nariokotome Boy which asserts among other things that Homo Erectus lacked language Human Origins, 2011 Describes how mapping the human genome has aided paleoanthropologists in their study of ancient bones used to explore human origins from the earliest humans bipedal apes up to Martin Pickford's Millennium Man The Story of Life in 25 Fossils Donald R. Prothero, 2015-08-25 Every fossil tells a story Best selling paleontology author Donald R Prothero describes twenty five famous beautifully preserved fossils in a gripping scientific history of life on Earth Recounting the adventures behind the discovery of these objects and fully interpreting their significance within the larger fossil record Prothero creates a riveting history of life on our planet The twenty five fossils portrayed in this book catch animals in their evolutionary splendor as they transition from one kind of organism to another We witness extinct plants and animals of microscopic and immense size and thrilling diversity We learn about fantastic land and sea creatures that have no match in nature today Along the way we encounter such fascinating fossils as the earliest trilobite Olenellus the giant shark Carcharocles the fishibian Tiktaalik the Frogamander and the Turtle on the Half Shell enormous marine reptiles and the biggest dinosaurs known the first bird Archaeopteryx the walking whale Ambulocetus the gigantic hornless rhinoceros Paraceratherium the largest land mammal that ever lived and the Australopithecus nicknamed Lucy the oldest human skeleton We meet the scientists and adventurers who pioneered paleontology and learn about the larger intellectual and social contexts in which their discoveries were made Finally we find out where to see these splendid fossils in the world's great museums Ideal for all who love prehistoric landscapes and delight in the history of science this book makes a treasured addition to any bookshelf stoking curiosity in the evolution of life on Earth The World from Beginnings to 4000 BCE Ian Tattersall, 2008-02 In this lively and readable introduction renowned anthropologist Ian Tattersall thoroughly examines both fossil and archaeological records to trace human evolution from the earliest beginnings of our zoological family Hominidae through the appearance of Homo sapiens to the Agricultural Revolution

Human Ecology of Beringia John F. Hoffecker, Scott A. Elias, 2007-06-26 Twenty five thousand years ago sea level fell more than 400 feet below its present position as a consequence of the growth of immense ice sheets in the Northern Hemisphere A dry plain stretching 1 000 miles from the Arctic Ocean to the Aleutians became exposed between northeast Asia and Alaska and across that plain most likely walked the first people of the New World This book describes what is known about these people and the now partly submerged land named Beringia which they settled during the final millennia of the Ice Age Humans first occupied Beringia during a twilight period when rising sea levels had not yet caught up with warming climates Although the land bridge between northeast Asia and Alaska was still present warmer and wetter climates were rapidly transforming the Beringian steppe into shrub tundra This volume synthesizes current research some previously unpublished on the archaeological sites and rapidly changing climates and biota of the period suggesting that the absence of woody shrubs to help fire burn fuel may have been the barrier to earlier settlement and that from the outset the Beringians developed a postglacial economy similar to that of later northern interior peoples The book opens with a review of current research and the major problems and debates regarding the environment and archaeology of Beringia It then describes Beringian environments and the controversies surrounding their interpretation traces the evolving adaptations of early humans to the cold environments of northern Eurasia which set the stage for the settlement of Beringia and provides a detailed account of the archaeological record in three chapters each of which is focused on a specific slice of time between 15 000 and 11 500 years ago In conclusion the authors present an interpretive summary of the human ecology of Beringia and discuss its relationship to the wider problem of the peopling of the New World

Controversy Catastrophism and Evolution Trevor Palmer, 2012-12-06 In Controversy Trevor Palmer fully documents how traditional gradualistic views of biological and geographic evolution are giving way to a catastrophism that credits cataclysmic events such as meteorite impacts for the rapid bursts and abrupt transitions observed in the fossil record According to the catastrophists new species do not evolve gradually they proliferate following sudden mass extinctions Placing this major change of perspective within the context of a range of ancient debates Palmer discusses such topics as the history of the solar system present day extraterrestrial threats to earth hominid evolution and the fossil record

Made in Africa Steve Webb, 2018-05-07 Made in Africa Hominin Explorations and the Australian Skeletal Evidence describes and documents the largest collection of modern human remains in the world from its time period These Australian fossils which represent modern humans at the end of their great 20 000 km journey from Africa may be reburied in the next two years at the request of the Aboriginal community Part one of the book provides an overview of modern humans their ancestors and their journeys explores the construct of human evolution over the last two and half million years and defines the background to the first hominins and later modern humans to leave Africa cross the world and meet other archaic peoples who had also travelled and undergone similar evolutionary pathways Part two focuses on Australia and the evidence for its earliest people The Willandra Lakes fossils represent the earliest arrivals and are the largest and most diverse late Pleistocene collection from this part of the world Although twenty to twenty five thousand years younger than the oldest archaeological site in Australia they exemplify the migrating end point of the human story that reflect a diversity and culture not recorded elsewhere in the world Part three records the Willandra Lake Collection itself from a photographic and descriptive perspective Evolutionary biologists and geneticists will find this book to be a valuable documentation of the 20 000 km hominid migration from Africa to the most distant parts of the world and of the challenges and findings of the Willandra Lake Collection Provides perspective for dispersal of the earliest hominins from Africa and the possible routes they took Describes both the evolutionary development and demographic exit of intermediate and modern humans from Africa and incorporates the final stages of modern human migrations Provides a full documentation of the Willandra Lakes skeletal collection and its place in developing a picture of the earliest as well as later Aboriginal Australians

A Prehistory of the North John F. Hoffecker, 2005 Annotation Early humans did not drift north from Africa as their ability to cope with cooler climates evolved Settlement of Europe and northern Asia occurred in relatively rapid bursts of expansion This study tells the complex story spanning almost two million years of how humans inhabited some of the coldest places on earth

Dawn of Man Robin McKie, 2000 This story has been pieced together from a myriad of fossil finds prehistoric cave paintings discarded stone tools and traces of ancient genetic material In this account Robin McKie Science Editor of The Observer unravels the saga of how these discoveries form a picture of our ancestors lives It is a scientific detective story full of paleontologist detectives whose intellect and foibles add to the adventure The story arrives at a revelation of how our world became dominated by a single primate species Homo sapiens

How Compassion Made Us

Human Penelope Spikins, 2015-05-07 An intriguing look at how our capacity to care about and connect with others has contributed to our evolutionary success as a species Our ability to care about the wellbeing of others whether they are close family or strangers can appear to be unimportant in today's competitive societies But in this volume archaeologist Penny Spikins argues that compassion lies at the heart of what makes us human She takes us on a journey from the earliest Stone Age societies two million years ago to the lives of Neanderthals in Ice Age Europe using archaeological evidence to illustrate the central role that emotional connections had in human evolution Simple acts of kindness left to us from millions of years ago provide evidence for how social emotions and morality evolved and how our capacity to reach out beyond ourselves into the lives of others allowed us to work together for a common good and form the basis for human success African Genesis

Sally C. Reynolds, Andrew Gallagher, 2012-03-29 This book reviews key themes and developments in palaeoanthropology exploring their impact on our understanding of human origins in Africa Restoring the Human Context to Literary and Performance Studies Howard Mancing, Jennifer Marston William, 2022-01-28 Restoring the Human Context to Literary and Performance Studies argues that much of contemporary literary theory is still predicated at least implicitly on outdated linguistic and psychological models such as post structuralism psychoanalysis and behaviorism which significantly contradict current dominant scientific views By contrast this monograph promotes an alternative paradigm for literary studies namely Contextualism and in so doing highlights the similarities and differences among the sometimes conflicting contemporary cognitive approaches to literature and performance arguing not in favor of one over the other but for Contextualism as their common ground Encyclopedia of Anthropology H. James Birx, 2006 Focuses on physical social and applied anthropology archaeology linguistics and symbolic communication Topics include hominid evolution primate behaviour genetics ancient civilizations cross cultural studies and social theories The Animal in the Secret World of Darwin

Michel Bergeron, 2011-03-03 Scientist Charles Darwin discretely opened the possibility of a purely animalistic origin for the human species He repeatedly insisted that the differences between humans and others were a question of degree only Sciences were however taken in the opposite direction where these differences cannot have been generated by the natural processes of biological evolution In The Animal in the Secret World of Darwin author Michel Bergeron discusses the effects on the sciences caused by the presence of questions on humanity only answerable with religious beliefs His investigation suggests that significant elements of perceived humanity have remained sufficiently narrowly defined to continue to agree with religious beliefs over the entire period starting with the scientific revolution centuries ago and reaching the present Instead he questions could we be the simple animal who can only live on the belief not to be a simple animal To alleviate these biases on the sciences of life Bergeron advocates a different synthesis between Darwinism and Lamarckism He further asks How can sciences pretend to a cosmology neutral in term of religious influence since all of its complex mathematical developments were made under the constraint that we can link the present directly to the Big Bang History of

Language Steven Roger Fischer, 2004-10-03 It is tempting to take the tremendous rate of contemporary linguistic change for granted What is required in fact is a radical reinterpretation of what language is Steven Roger Fischer begins his book with an examination of the modes of communication used by dolphins birds and primates as the first contexts in which the concept of language might be applied As he charts the history of language from the times of Homo erectus Neanderthal humans and Homo sapiens through to the nineteenth century when the science of linguistics was developed Fischer analyses the emergence of language as a science and its development as a written form He considers the rise of pidgin creole jargon and slang as well as the effects radio and television propaganda advertising and the media are having on language today Looking to the future he shows how electronic media will continue to reshape and re invent the ways in which we communicate a delightful and unexpectedly accessible book a virtuoso tour of the linguistic world The Economist few who read this remarkable study will regard language in quite the same way again The Good Book Guide Catching Fire Richard Wrangham, 2010-08-06 In this stunningly original book Richard Wrangham argues that it was cooking that caused the extraordinary transformation of our ancestors from apelike beings to Homo erectus At the heart of Catching Fire lies an explosive new idea the habit of eating cooked rather than raw food permitted the digestive tract to shrink and the human brain to grow helped structure human society and created the male female division of labour As our ancestors adapted to using fire humans emerged as the cooking apes Covering everything from food labelling and overweight pets to raw food faddists Catching Fire offers a startlingly original argument about how we came to be the social intelligent and sexual species we are today This notion is surprising fresh and in the hands of Richard Wrangham utterly persuasive Big new ideas do not come along often in evolution these days but this is one Matt Ridley author of Genome Debating Humankind's Place in Nature, 1860-2000 Richard G. Delisle, 2015-07-14 This text the only one of its kind on the market surveys the development of the field of human evolution from its inception through today It provides students with a broad contrast enabling them to fully understand the value and role of current paleoanthropological research Features An historical approach Establishes for students the nature of paleoanthropology through the historical development of the field from 1860 through 2000 and shows students that paleoanthropology is a remarkably progressive field A focus on the debates in the field of human evolution especially the phylogenetic or genealogical debates Analyzes four distinct debates presented separately from their inception to the present 1 Humankind's place among the primates 2 The place of the australopithecines relative to the human line 3 Debates on human phylogeny proper 4 Proposed scenarios of hominization Presentation and analysis of the viewpoints of over 150 scholars Gives students a valuable reference work for the future includes over 1200 references in the bibliography as well as a comprehensive text for today For junior senior courses in Human Evolution and Paleoanthropology in Anthropology departments To the Heart of the Nile Pat Shipman, 2024-06-11 In 1859 at age fourteen Florence Sz sz stood before a room full of men and waited to be auctioned to the highest bidder But slavery and submission were not to be her destiny Sam Baker a wealthy English gentleman and eminent adventurer was moved by compassion and an immediate overpowering empathy for the young woman and braved extraordinary perils to help her escape Together Florence and Sam whose love would remain passionate and constant throughout their lives forged into literally uncharted territory in a glorious attempt to unravel a mysterious and magnificent enigma called Africa A stunning achievement To the Heart of the Nile is an unforgettable portrait of an unforgettable woman a story of discovery bravery determination and love meticulously reconstructed through journals documents and private papers and told in the inimitable narrative style that has already won Pat Shipman resounding international acclaim
