

BOOK REVIEWS: How to write a book review

There are two approaches to book reviewing:

Descriptive reviews give the essential information about a book. This is done with description and exposition, by stating the perceived aims and purposes of the author, and by quoting striking passages from the text.

Critical reviews describe and evaluate the book, in terms of accepted literary and historical standards, and supports this evaluation with evidence from the text. The following pointers are meant to be suggestions for writing a critical review.

Basic requirements

To write a critical review, the reviewer must know two things:

Knowing the work under review: This demands not only attempting to understand the author's purpose and how the component parts of the work contribute to that purpose, but also knowledge of the author: his/her nationality, time period, other works etc.

Requirements of the genre: This means understanding the art form and how it functions. Without such context, the reviewer has no historical or literary standard upon which to base an evaluation.

Reviewing essentials

Description of the book. Sufficient description should be given so that the reader will have some understanding of the author's thoughts. This account is not a summary. It can be woven into the critical remarks.

Discuss the author. Biographical information should be relevant to the subject of the review and enhance the reader's understanding of the work under discussion.

Appraise the book. A review must be a considered judgment that includes:

- a statement of the reviewer's understanding of the author's purpose
- how well the reviewer feels the author's purpose has been achieved
- evidence to support the reviewer's judgement of the author's achievement.

While you read:

- Read the book with care.
- Highlight quotable passages.
- Note your impressions as you read.
- Allow time to assimilate what you read so that the book can be seen in perspective.
- Keep in mind the need for a single impression which must be clear to the reader.

Gabriele Ponti, Murray Brightman, Esra Bulbul, Renee Ludlam, Daniel Stern, Javier A. García, 2025-06-02

The Astro 2020 Decadal report Pathways to Discovery in Astronomy and Astrophysics for the 2020s identified the need for a new class of mission for the next decade that fills the gap between a Mid sized Explorer MIDEX and Flagship Large mission. The report specifically recommends that a cadence of one probe mission per decade with a cost cap of 1.5 billion balances scientific scope with timeliness. NASA has followed this recommendation and opened a call for Astrophysics Probe Explorer APEX proposals restricted to either a far infrared or an X ray mission due in Fall 2023 with a planned launch date in no later than 2032. In response to this call the High Energy X ray Probe HEX P concept has been developed as a partnership between NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory JPL, the California Institute of Technology Caltech and the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center GSFC with international partnership from the Italian Space Agency ASI, Italy, the German Space Agency DLR and the Max Planck Institute for Extraterrestrial Physics MPE, Germany. HEX P is a mission concept that offers sensitive broad band coverage from soft to hard X rays 0.2–80 keV with an exceptional combination of spectral timing and angular capabilities. It features two high energy telescopes HETs that focus hard X rays and one low energy telescope LET that focuses lower energy X rays building upon the heritage of previous successful missions such as XMM-Newton and NuSTAR. With this leap in observational capability HEX P will be capable of addressing fundamental questions about the extreme environments around black holes and neutron stars: map the growth of supermassive black holes and quantify the effect they have on their environments; HEX P will resolve the hard X ray emission from dense regions of our Galaxy to understand the high energy source populations and investigate dark matter candidate particles through their decay channel signatures. In this Frontiers Research Topic we present a collection of papers which delve into some of the most exciting scientific questions that can be addressed with a mission like HEX P. The papers have been prepared by members of the HEX P collaboration which is organized into four main scientific pillars: Black Hole Growth, Accretion Power, Stellar Evolution, Time Domain and Multi Messenger Astronomy. The individual papers cover a range of topics including: The cosmic X ray background, Seyfert galaxies, Compton thick active galaxies and blazars, Black hole binaries, neutron stars, magnetars, ultraluminous X ray sources and tidal disruption events, The physics of the X ray corona, X ray populations in nearby galaxies, Supernova remnants, pulsar wind nebulae and nuclear astrophysics, Galactic PeVatrons, star clusters, superbubbles, microquasar jets and gamma ray binaries, The Galactic Center, Supermassive black spin measurements and dual active galaxies, Pulsar Timing, electromagnetic counterparts of gravitational wave sources and transient phenomena. The main goal of this Research Topic is to present detailed modeling and simulations for a range of HEX P science cases in order to demonstrate the capabilities of HEX P in serving the astrophysics community in the next decade. The members of the HEX P mission are welcome to present Original Research papers as well as any other kind of article types that fit their manuscript. Please have a look at here to choose the appropriate article type to submit to this collection. This Research Topic is organized by the researchers of the HEX P mission.
