The Volume And Dynamics Of International Migration And Transnational Social Spaces:

The Volume and Dynamics of International Migration and Transnational Social Spaces Thomas Faist, 2000 This text analyses the causes nature and extent of the movement of migrants between affluent and poorer countries It also examines the adaptation of immigrants to their surroundings and asks why many uphold ties to their places of origin The Volume and Dynamics of International Migration and Transnational Social Spaces Thomas Faist, 2000 This text analyses the causes nature and extent of the movement of migrants between affluent and poorer countries It also examines the adaptation of immigrants to their surroundings and asks why many uphold ties to their places of origin The Volume and Dynamics of International Migration and Transnational Migration and Transnational Social Spaces Thomas Faist, 2000 The book offers an innovative theoretical account of the causes nature and extent of the movement of international migrants between affluent and poorer countries The book also provides a conceptual study of migration decision making and the dynamics of international movement Migration and Organized Civil Society Dirk Halm, Zeynep Sezgin, 2013-05-07 Migrant organizations are of vital importance for countries of residence and countries of origin but the empirical and theoretical knowledge of the cross border character of migrant organizations remains incomplete It is clear that migrant transnationalism challenges the governance of nation states on the local and national levels This book the outcome of an ECPR joint session systematically and empirically analyzes the differing roles that transnational migrant organizations play in their countries of residence and origin Drawing on research conducted in Belgium England Germany Holland Poland and Portugal it focuses on the relations between migrant organizations and the state Offering an opportunity for comparative analysis it also examines why migrants and their organizations engage in different forms of border crossing activities and how various political systems influence and are influenced by these forms of engagement Migration and Organized Civil Society will be of strong interest to students and researchers of political science political sociology migration studies transnationalism and Diaspora studies Language and Space Peter Auer, Jürgen Erich Schmidt, 2010 The dimensions of time and space fundamentally cause and shape the variability of all human language To reduce investigation of this insight to manageable proportions researchers have traditionally concentrated on the deepest dialects But it is increasingly apparent that although most people still speak with a distinct regional coloring the new mobility of speakers in recently industrialized and postindustrial societies and the efflorescence of communication technologies cannot be ignored This has given rise to a reconsideration of the relationship between geographical place and cultural space and the fundamental link between language and a spatially bounded territory Language and Space An International Handbook of Linguistic Variation seeks to take full account of these developments in a comprehensive theoretically rich way The introductory volume examines the concept of space and linguistic approaches to it the structure and dynamics of language spaces and relevant research methods A second volume offers the first thorough exploration of the interplay between linguistic investigation and cartography and subsequent volumes uniformly document the state of research into the spatial dimension of particular language groupings. Key features: comprehensive coverage of the field in terms of theory and methods; the unique volume stands alone since it neither is a handbook of dialectology or of areal linguistics nor a handbook on language variation alone; gathers together a great number of distinguished scholars and experts in the field.

Humanitarianism from Below Alejandro Olayo-Méndez, 2025-08-05

Challenges the definition of humanitarian aid. Aside from being one of the most important migration corridors in the world, Mexico is becoming an immigrant destination itself with more and more migrants deciding or needing to stay in the country after failing to enter the United States. In the absence of state aid, migrant shelters have emerged as an informal welfare system for migrants, asylum seekers, refugees, and deportees in Mexico. Largely run by faith-based humanitarian organizations, these shelters have grown significantly in recent years. Humanitarianism from Below examines the significance of these casas de migrantes (migrant shelters) in the migration process in Mexico. The book also reviews the role of faith-based humanitarian organizations whose engagement with migrants is perceived more as charity work than professional humanitarian work. The volume argues that faith-based humanitarian organizations work challenges traditional understandings of what counts as humanitarian aid. It makes the case that in order to understand the full ecology of migration, we need to understand not only how large organizations like the Red Cross work but also how these smaller and local entities with fewer resources interact with migrants on their journeys. Most migration research tends to focus on its impact within home countries or in destination contexts, rarely focusing on the actual migration process, including the interactions that influence the course of the migration journey itself. In conducting this research, Alejandro Olayo Méndez traveled along migrant routes several times in order to gain knowledge about how migrants move and how they interact with the migrant shelters. He offers a detailed look at the experiences and challenges of casas de migrantes in Mexico, situating these faith-based shelters as an integral part of Mexico's humanitarian ecosystem.

Iran and the International System Anoushiravan Ehteshami, Reza Molavi, 2012-03-29

Much attention in the West has focused on Iran as a problem country. This book challenges the representations of Iran as a hostile regional power, led by ideologues, and goes further by discussing how international relations are viewed from inside Iran itself, outlining the factors which underpin Iranian thinking on international relations and considering what role Iran as a large and significant country in the Middle East ought to play in a fairly constructed international system. The book is written by leading scholars and policy makers from inside as well as from outside Iran and includes academics with unparalleled access and insights into the world views of the Iranian leadership. Subjects covered include the rationale of Iran's Islamic constitution, including its electoral system and the impact this has on international relations; Iran's view of the ideal international system, including the place therein of ethics, justice, and security; Iran's international interests, including energy needs and relations with the West, including the clash between Iranian and Western views of the world order.

Asian Cities, Migrant Labor and Contested Spaces Tai-Chee Wong, Jonathan
