Golden Days for Boys and Girls , 1883 The Poetical Works of Thomas Moore Thomas Moore, 1868 Love and Need Adam Plunkett, 2025-02-18 Braiding together biography and criticism Adam Plunkett challenges our understanding of Robert Frost s life and poetic legacy in a pathbreaking new work By the middle of the twentieth century Robert Frost was the best loved poet in America He was our nation s bard simple and sincere accompanying us on wooded roads and articulating our hopes and fears After Frost s death these cliches gave way to equally broad though opposed portraits sketched by his biographers chief among them Lawrance Thompson When the critic Helen Vendler reviewed Thompson s biography she asked whether anyone could avoid the conclusion that Frost was a monster In Love and Need The Life of Robert Frost s Poetry Adam Plunkett blends biography and criticism to find the truth of Frost s life one that lies between the two poles of perception Plunkett reveals a new Frost through a careful look at the poems and people he knew best showing how the stories of his most important relationships heretofore partly told mirror dominant themes of Frost s enduring poetry withholding and disclosure privacy and intimacy Not least of these relationships is the fraught intense friendship between Frost and Thompson the major biographer whose record of Frost Plunkett seeks to set straight Moving through Frost s most important work and closest relationships with the attention to detail necessary to see familiar things anew Plunkett offers an original interpretation of Frost s poetry tracing Frost s distinctive achievement to an engagement with poetic tradition far deeper and more extensive than he ever let on Frost invited his readers into a conversation like the one he sustained with his literary forebears intimate and profound yet Frost kept his private self at a remove Here Plunkett brings the two together the poet and the poetry and draws us back into conversation with America's poet Actually Anna Ziegler,2018-02-07 Amber and Tom finding their way as freshmen at Princeton spend a night together that alters the course of their lives They agree on the drinking they agree on the attraction but consent is foggy and if unspoken can it be called consent With lyricism and wit ACTUALLY investigates gender and race politics our crippling desire to fit in and the three sides to every story The Literary Digest International Book Review ,1926 The Handbook for Catholic Moms Lisa M. Labor Day weekend of 1968 my family traveled toward a dream we believed would be found or made in the land of gold I had lived my entire life in Northern New Mexico and never traveled more than 150 miles in any direction My parents had suffered a few financial setbacks and my father and eighteen year old brother Louie went to California to find work Two months later my father returned for the rest of the family My two younger brothers were soon asleep with the hum of the motor and movement of the car My seventeen year old sister Marcella was irritable but quiet It had been a tiring day renting and hitching the tiny U haul trailer and stuffing our belongings before driving three hours to the airport to pick up Dad He had worked in the morning and taken a late flight from San Francisco to Albuquerque How long will we be on the road asked Marcella We should be in San Jose by Monday morning said Dad It was a long trip compounded by the slow speed we were forced to travel The U haul had signs painted on all sides that read 45 MPH Dad violated the limit most of the time but not by much Although there were six of us in the car we were not cramped Joseph being only three sat in front between my parents There were no seat belts to worry about at the time so he was able to stretch out and sleep Mej r ladeate You d better pull over said Mom when she noticed the car weaving Dad drove the car off the shoulder of the highway where we d be safe from traffic Are we going to sleep in the car I asked No said Dad V mos a sacar un colch n Let s pull out a mattress Dad and I unlocked the trailer and tossed a twin size mattress on the ground The night was dark but warm and comfortable The only noise was the occasional sound of passing cars We stretched out with a thin blanket and a couple of pillows The rest of the family stayed in the car Dad shook me V mos Let s go I felt a chill as Dad pulled off the blanket I wanted to sleep longer The darkness was disappearing Ahorita paramos a comer We ll stop to eat soon said Dad starting the motor and pulling onto the highway I envied Johnny and Joseph for their peaceful sleep Marcella was curled up like a possum Give me room I said claiming space with my elbows Why don t you ride in the trailer grunted Marcella Dad looked at us through the rear view mirror and I held my tongue Although I was nearly sixteen years old I knew better than to make Dad angry A few miles inside Arizona we stopped at a service station It had clean restrooms and an outside picnic table We enjoyed Mom s baloney and green chile sandwiches and apples we d picked from the trees back home The morning chill gave way to a harsh sun We have to get moving said Dad We ll rest later when the day gets hot We had never owned a vehicle with air conditioning and had never missed it until now The mid afternoon sun beat on the car threatening to melt the windows It s like an oven in here said Marcella She rolled down her window and a gush of hot air assaulted us like a torch Close it cackled Johnny At eight years of age his shrill voice annoyed everybody I had my shirt unbuttoned and wat
