Waddington Test Marking Guide:

Evaluation and Translation Carol Maier, 2014-04-23 The definition of value or quality with respect to work in translation has historically been a particularly vexed issue Today however the growing demand for translations in such fields as technology and business and the increased scrutiny of translators work by scholars in many disciplines is giving rise to a need for more nuanced more specialized and more explicit methods of determining value Some refer to this determination as evaluation others use the term assessment Either way the question is one of measurement and judgement which are always unavoidably subjective and frequently rest on criteria that are not overtly expressed This means that devising more complex evaluative practices involves not only quantitative techniques but also an exploration of the attitudes preferences or individual values on which criteria are established Intended as an interrogation and a critique that can serve to prompt a more thorough and open consideration of evaluative criteria this special issue of The Translator offers examinations of diverse evaluative practices and contains both empirical and hermeneutic work Topics addressed include the evaluation of student translations using more up to date and positive methods such as those employed in corpus studies the translation of non standard language translation into the second language terminology the application of theoretical criteria to practice a social textual perspective and the reviewing of literary translations in the press In addition reviews by a number of literary translators discuss specific translations both into and out of English

Making it comparable David Waddington, Peter Nentwig, Sascha Schanze, 2007 One of the most significant developments in school education in recent years has been the development and introduction of standards a subject of considerable controversy This book is the result of a symposium held in Kiel a symposium that was arranged by two leading science education groups one at IPN Leibniz Institute for Science Education at the University of Kiel in Germany and the other at the University of York UK The seminar brought together experts from 15 countries These countries include those that have extensive experience with the effects of standards on the educational system on individual schools and teachers and on students Other reports concern countries which are introducing them shortly and yet others on countries that are in the early stages of development of standards 11 are from Europe and the others are from Australia Israel Taiwan and the U S The book is divided into three parts In Part A two of the organizers set the scene describing the reasons for arranging the symposium and outlining the preparations and the work done at the meeting Part B contains 17 reports from the 15 countries and in Part C there are two summaries analysing the conclusions taken from two different vantage points The controversies surrounding standards remain However this book gives a succinct and authoritative overall account of the advantages and disadvantages of their introduction taken from the experiences of many countries
