Weaver, 2009 Netherlands Yearbook of International Law 2016 Martin Kuijer, Wouter Werner, 2017-12-13 International law holds a paradoxical position with territory. Most rules of international law are traditionally based on the notion of State territory and territoriality still significantly shapes our contemporary legal system. At the same time new developments have challenged territory as the main organising principle in international relations. Three trends in particular have affected the role of territoriality in international law: the move towards functional regimes, the rise of cosmopolitan projects claiming to transgress state boundaries and the development of technologies resulting in the need to address intangible non territorial phenomena. Yet notwithstanding some profound changes it remains impossible to think of international law without a territorial locus. If international law is undergoing changes this implies a reconfiguration of territory but not a move beyond it. The Netherlands Yearbook of International Law was first published in 1970. It offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles of a conceptual nature in a varying thematic area of public international law.

Torts RUSSELL L. WEAVER, John T. Cross, 2018-08 Designed as a teacher's book the Fifth Edition of Torts Cases Problems and Exercises contains thought provoking problems designed to stimulate interesting classroom discussion that can be carried throughout each substantive chapter. The problems are designed to help students learn doctrine to illuminate trends in the law and to ultimately produce better learning. A secondary goal was to include a skills component with problems that place students in situations that they are likely to encounter in practice to encourage students to think about how they might handle these situations.

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Environmental Law Emma Lees, Jorge E. Viñuales, 2019-04-25 This Handbook is the first comprehensive account of comparative environmental law. It examines in detail the methodological foundations of the discipline as well as the substance of environmental law across countries from four vantage points: country studies from all continents; responses to common problems including air pollution, water management, nature conservation, genetically modified organisms, climate change and energy, chemicals, waste; foundational components of environmental law systems including principles, property rights, administrative and judicial organisation, command and control, regulation, market mechanisms, informational techniques and liability mechanisms; and common interactions of environmental protection with the broader public, private and criminal law contexts. The volume brings together the foremost authorities in this field from around the world to provide a concise, self-contained and technically rigorous account of environmental law as a single overall system.
