Tools for Teaching Conceptual Understanding, Elementary Julie Stern, Nathalie Lauriault, Krista Ferraro, 2017-09-16 Harness natural curiosity for conceptual understanding Young children are naturally curious asking deep questions about complex concepts This tendency is a talent that can be nurtured so that children grow to be deep thinkers and innovators later in life However in our complex world it is impossible to teach students everything they need to know Pushing more factual content ignores what we know about how children learn and endangers their love of learning Concept based teaching helps young learners uncover conceptual relationships in a way that is developmentally appropriate Readers of this guide will learn Why conceptual learning is a natural fit for children Strategies for introducing conceptual learning Instructional strategies to help students uncover and transfer concepts How to write lessons assess understanding and differentiate in a concept based classroom How concept based teaching aligns with best practices and initiatives Written for educators who strive to cultivate conceptual understanding while honoring students innate curiosity this is a must have road map for implementing concept based teaching in elementary classrooms This book provides the research and resources educators need to help students take ownership of their learning It fosters students curiosity about their environment and it allows them to explore and become life long learners Ellen Asregadoo Fifth Grade Teacher Public School 190 Brooklyn NY This is an important book for all teachers We need to be honoring our students as thinkers who deserve developmentally appropriate intellectual rigor in the classroom We will not achieve this in our traditional coverage based classroom I am so inspired and can't wait to start this journey making mistakes and learning along the way Sarah Gat Second Grade Teacher Ecole Arbour Vista Public School Guelph Ontario Tools for Teaching Conceptual Understanding, Secondary Julie Stern, Krista Ferraro, Juliet Mohnkern, 2017-02-02 Students become experts and innovators through Concept Based teaching Innovators don't invent without understanding how the world works With this foundation they apply conceptual understanding to solve problems We want students to not only retain ideas but relate them to other things they encounter using each new situation to add nuance and sophistication to their thinking Discover how to help learners uncover conceptual relationships and transfer them to new situations Teachers will learn Strategies for introducing conceptual learning to students Four lesson frameworks to help students uncover conceptual relationships How to assess conceptual understanding and How to differentiate concept based instruction Transitioning to Concept-based Teaching William Howard Deane, 2016 Many associate degree nursing programs throughout the United States U S have adopted a concept based curriculum CBC The limited number of research studies completed to date have primarily focused on student learning and end of program outcomes. Additionally, there is a dearth of research on the experience of nurse educators who have transitioned from traditional to concept based teaching. The aims of this study were to 1 describe the experience of nurse educators who transition to concept based teaching 2 identify whether a common process of transitioning to concept based teaching exists amongst study participants 3 identify facilitators and barriers faculty encounter in the process of transitioning to concept based teaching and 4 compare study findings to the managing transitions model to determine areas of congruence and the need to refine or expand the model. A qualitative description design with responsive interviewing as the principle method was used to elicit data in this study. The purposive sample of 19 participants consisted of faculty who taught in associate degree programs in the U S that deliver a concept based curriculum. Participants were recruited from an Internet nurse educator email discussion group as well as an e mail invitation sent to deans/directors of associate degree programs that deliver a concept based curriculum. Email interviews were conducted between March and April 2016. Content analysis was used to derive initial codification of interview data as well as within and between interview comparison of codes to arrive at theme and sub themes. Five major themes with associated sub themes emerged from the data analysis that represented the participant's description of the transition experience. The major themes were recognizing fears/facing conflict/working out of one's comfort zone/seeing successes and self talk and questioning self. A purpose of participant transition from traditional to concept based teaching emerged consisting of five phases that included responding to the decision to adopt a CBC, developing the curriculum, implementing the curriculum, seeing results and reflecting back, and a continuing journey. Self talk and questioning self transcended all the phases and provided a framework for reflection that assisted the individual with moving forward with the transition process. Participants described emotional reactions such as fear of failure and questioned whether they could be successful in working in a team, which were generally analyzed through self talk. Seeing positive student outcomes helped to convince faculty of the decision to move to a CBC, while others continued to question the effectiveness of the change. Four major themes arose that best represented facilitators that assisted the participant throughout the transition process. These facilitators included identifying inner support, building team cohesiveness, learning from and sharing knowledge with others, and seeing positive student outcomes. Three major themes emerged that represented barriers throughout the participant's transition to concept based teaching. These major themes included dealing with personal struggles, lacking support within the school of nursing, and lacking support outside the school of nursing. Similarities arose that were consistent with the three stages of the managing transitions model. Future refinement of the managing transitions model may include reflective question cues to assist individuals as they transition through the phases of change, as well as guidance to assist those who continue to resist change. Implications for theory, education, policy, practice, and research are also discussed.

Student-Focused Learning Darrel W. Staak, 2020-06-15 Learning methods for the twenty first century will include those which are student centered learning focused and digitally enhanced Teaching will become learning management the lecturer will become a learning guide and students will become learning inventors This book provides chapters describing a number of methods to be used in higher education in the twenty first century Some methods have been in existence for a period of time others are literally at the front edge of development Trying them out piloting them and experimenting with them for the benefit of the student is well worth the effort It is best to be as prepared as possible for future changes rather than waiting to see what is going to happen Those who try and are successful will be the leaders in learning management of the near future In the digital world being at the leading edge has definite advantages No matter which method is used it should focus on the student as learner with the faculty member as a learning guide To survive in the twenty first century students will need to become continuous learners developing with changes at an exponential velocity Educators need to keep this critical concept in mind Stirring the Head, Heart, and Soul H. Concept-based Curriculum Judy R. Hyland, 2019 This hermeneutic phenomenological study explored the lived experiences of nurse educators practicing within a concept based curriculum CBC Given the significant change in the framework of the nursing content and the pedagogical model changes of a concept based curriculum nurse educator experiences have provided insight to the efficacy and pedagogical usability of this type of curriculum Using an inductive process a set of themes emerged that represented the participants meaning about working in a concept based curriculum The shared experiences of the nurse educators uncovered the overall essence of their world This new truth uncovered four themes The themes included 1 a need for change which highlighted administration faculty motivation for a radical shift in program teaching 2 life during transition which described the process faculty underwent as they worked to make program changes 3 the teaching experiences which focused on the faculty experience after the transition and 4 usefulness and efficacy which addressed the faculties appraisal of the CBC This research revealed that the faculty perception regarding the students ability to make clinical judgments was strengthened by the use of a CBC and conceptual teaching practices They attributed this skill improvement to the introduction to clinical judgement earlier in the curriculum and frequency of practice throughout the curriculum as a factor Findings suggest that the transition of the adoption of the curriculum is difficult at best After proper training and time to practice the faculty found the curriculum to be efficacious and the pedagogical model useful in preparing students for entry level practice The study elicited possible actions by nurse educational leaders that will make the transitioning into concept based curricula less arduous Findings from this study can provided guidance for future adoption of concept based curricula
