In the Shadow of Selma Cynthia Griggs Fleming, 2004 On March 7 1965 voting rights demonstrators were brutally beaten as they crossed the Edmund Petis bridge in Selma Alabama One of the most publicized incidents of the civil rights campaign images from that day have been seared into the nation's consciousness Yet little has been written about the civil rights events in the surrounding counties the vast sections of the rural south Cynthia

Griggs Fleming addresses this gap by bringing to light the struggle for equality of the citizens of Wilcox County Alabama Although right next door to Selma their story has been largely ignored Through the eyes of the residents of the county Fleming relates a struggle punctuated by cowardice and courage audacity and timidity fear and foolishness And in the end the entrenched power structure refused to yield and the county remains segregated to this day Personal and compelling In the Shadow of Selma is essential reading for everyone interested in the continuing struggle for civil rights in the United States

Robert R. Taylor and Tuskegee Ellen Weiss,2012-01-01 Ellen Weiss breaks important new ground in her remarkable monograph on Robert R Taylor This volume is by far the most detailed account we have of an African American architect Weiss vividly conveys the immense challenges faced by black architects and professionals of every kind especially during the rise of Jim Crow Along the way we get myriad insights on architectural education architect client relationships and the development of a major institution of higher learning Richard Longstreth George Washington University Architectural historian Ellen Weiss s book provides a wealth of little known factual information about Taylor and a scholarly historical analysis of his many contributions in architectural education and professional practice A must read for anyone with an interest in architecture and a certain reference for every architecture student Richard Dozier Dean Robert R Taylor School of Architecture Construction Science Tuskegee University Robert R Taylor s place in history as the first academically trained African American architect has been well known but an authoritative assessment of his contribution to American architectural and planning practice has remained elusive until now Weiss deftly interweaves the story of the Tuskegee campus with an examination of Taylor s pedagogy and the plight of black architects in the early twentieth century Gary Van Zante Curator of Architecture and Design Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Foreign Missions Year Book of North America, 1920 Roderick Beach,1920 25 Years in the Black Belt William J. Edwards,2010-09-16 In bringing this book before the public it is my hope that the friends of the Snow Hill School and all who are interested in Negro Education may become more familiar with the problems and difficulties that confront those who labor for the future of a race I have had to endure endless hardships during these twenty five years in order that thousands of poor negro youths might receive an industrial education boys and girls who might have gone into that demoralized class that is a disgrace to any people and that these friends may continue their interest in not only Snow Hill but all the schools of the South that are seeking to make better citizens of our people I also hope that the interest may be sustained until the State and Nation realize that it is profitable to educate the black child as well as the white To me these have been twenty five years of self denial of self sacrifice of deprivation even of suffering but when I think of the results I am still encouraged to go on when I think of the work that Mr McDuffie is doing at Laurinburg N C Brown at Richmond Ala Knight at Evergreen Ala Mitchell at

W Butler Ala Carmichael at Perdue Hill Ala Brister at Selma Ala and hundreds of others I feel that the sacrifice has not been in vain so I continue believing that after all the great heart of the American people is on the right side I think that today the Negro faces the dawn not the twilight the morning not the evening A Bibliography of the Negro in Africa and America, 1928 Before Harlem Ajuan Maria Mance, 2016-03-15 Despite important recovery and authentication efforts during the last twenty five years the vast majority of nineteenth century African American writers and their work remain unknown to today's readers Moreover the most widely used anthologies of black writing have established a canon based largely on current interests and priorities Seeking to establish a broader perspective this collection brings together a wealth of autobiographical writings fiction poetry speeches sermons essays and journalism that better portrays the intellectual and cultural debates social and political struggles and community publications and institutions that nurtured black writers from the early 1800s to the eve of the Harlem Renaissance As editor Ajuan Mance notes previous collections have focused mainly on writing that found a significant audience among white readers Consequently authors whose work appeared in African American owned publications for a primarily black audience such as Solomon G Brown Henrietta Cordelia Ray and T Thomas Fortune have faded from memory Even figures as celebrated as Frederick Douglass and Paul Laurence Dunbar are today much better known for their cross racial writings than for the larger bodies of work they produced for a mostly African American readership There has also been a tendency in modern canon making especially in the genre of autobiography to stress antebellum writing rather than writings produced after the Civil War and Reconstruction Similarly religious writings despite the centrality of the church in the everyday lives of black readers and the interconnectedness of black spiritual and intellectual life have not received the emphasis they deserve Filling those critical gaps with a selection of 143 works by 65 writers Before Harlem presents as never before an in depth picture of the literary aesthetic and intellectual landscape of nineteenth century African America and will be a valuable resource for a new generation of readers Ajuan Maria Mance is a professor of English at Mills College in Oakland California She is the author of Inventing Black Women African American Poets and Self Representation which was named a Choice Outstanding Academic Title Her articles have appeared in the Journal of African American Studies Callaloo and several edited collections
