War On Waste Can America Win Its Battle With Garbage:

War on Waste Louis Blumberg, Robert Gottlieb, 1989 Examines the debate on the environmental issue of garbage control

Garbage In The Cities Martin V. Melosi, 2004-11-26 As recently as the 1880s most American cities had no effective means of collecting and removing the mountains of garbage refuse and manure over a thousand tons a day in New York City alone that clogged streets and overwhelmed the senses of residents In his landmark study Garbage in the Cities Martin Melosi offered the first history of efforts begun in the Progressive Era to clean up this mess Since it was first published Garbage in the Cities has remained one of the best historical treatments of the subject This thoroughly revised and updated edition includes two new chapters that expand the discussion of developments since World War I It also offers a discussion of the reception of the first edition and an examination of the ways solid waste management has become more federally regulated in the last quarter of the twentieth century Melosi traces the rise of sanitation engineering accurately describes the scope and changing nature of the refuse problem in U S cities reveals the sometimes hidden connections between industrialization and pollution and discusses the social agendas behind many early cleanliness programs Absolutely essential reading for historians policy analysts and sociologists Garbage in the Cities offers a vibrant and insightful analysis of this fascinating topic

Why Do We Recycle? Frank Ackerman, 2013-04-15 The earnest warnings of an impending solid waste crisis that permeated the 1980s provided the impetus for the widespread adoption of municipal recycling programs Since that time America has witnessed a remarkable rise in public participation in recycling activities including curbside collection drop off centers and commercial and office programs Recently however a backlash against these programs has developed A vocal group of anti recyclers has appeared arguing that recycling is not an economically efficient strategy for addressing waste management problems In Why Do We Recycle Frank Ackerman examines the arguments for and against recycling focusing on the debate surrounding the use of economic mechanisms to determine the value of recycling Based on previously unpublished research conducted by the Tellus Institute a nonprofit environmental research group in Boston Massachusetts Ackerman presents an alternative view of the theory of market incentives challenging the notion that setting appropriate prices and allowing unfettered competition will result in the most efficient level of recycling Among the topics he considers are externality issues unit pricing for waste disposal effluent taxes virgin materials subsidies advance disposal fees the landfill crisis and disposal facility siting container deposit bottle bill legislation environmental issues that fall outside of market theory calculating costs and benefits of municipal recycling programs life cycle analysis and packaging policy Germany's Green Dot packaging system and producer responsibility the impacts of production in extractive and manufacturing industries composting and organic waste management economics of conservation and material use and long term sustainability Ackerman explains why purely economic approaches to recycling are incomplete and argues for a different kind of decisionmaking one that addresses social issues future as well as present resource needs and non economic values that cannot be translated into dollars and cents Backed by empirical data and replete with specific examples the book offers valuable guidance for municipal planners environmental managers and policymakers responsible for establishing and implementing recycling programs It is also an accessible introduction to the subject for faculty students and concerned citizens interested in the social economic and ethical underpinnings of recycling efforts Designing America's Waste Landscapes Mira Engler,2004-05-31 Publisher Description Forum for Applied Research and Public Policy ,1992
