Sculpture and the Vitrine JohnC. Welchman, 2017-07-05 Vitrines and glass cabinets are familiar apparatuses that have in large part defined modern modes of display and visibility both within and beyond the museum They separate objects from their contexts group them with other objects both similar and dissimilar and often serve to reinforce their intrinsic or aesthetic values The vitrine has much in common with the picture frame the plinth and the gallery but it has not yet received the kind of detailed art historical and theoretical discussion that has been brought to these other modes of formal display The twelve contributions to this volume examine some of the points of origin of the vitrine and the various relations it brokers with sculpture first in the Wunderkammer and cabinet of curiosities and then in dialog with the development of glazed architecture beginning with Paxton's Crystal Palace 1851 The collection offers close discussions of the role of the vitrine and shop window in the rise of commodity culture and their apposition with Constructivist design in the work of Frederick Kiesler as well as original readings of the use of vitrines in Surrealism and Fluxus and in work by Joseph Beuys Paul Thek Claes

Oldenburg and his collaborators Jeff Koons Mike Kelley Dan Graham Vito Acconci Damien Hirst and Josephine Meckseper among others Sculpture and the Vitrine also raises key questions about the nature and implications of vitrinous space including its fronts onto desire and the spectacle transparency and legibility and onto ideas and practices associated with the archive collecting preserving and ordering

Art and Science Sian Ede, 2012-11-13 Is science the new art Scientists weave incredible stories invent wild hypotheses and ask difficult questions about the meaning of life They have insights into the workings of our bodies and minds which challenge the myths we make about our identities and selves They create visual images models and scenarios that are gruesome baffling or beguiling They say and do things that are ethically and politically shocking Contemporary scientists frequently talk about beauty and elegance artists hardly ever do While demonstrating how science is affecting the creation and interpretation of contemporary art this book proposes that artistic insights are as important on their own terms as those in science and that we can and should accommodate both forms of knowledge Featuring the work of artists such as Damien Hirst Christine Borland Bill Viola and Helen Chadwick and art science collaborative ventures involving Dorothy Cross Eduardo Kac and Stelarc it looks at the way new scientific explanations for the nature of human consciousness can influence our interpretation of art at the squeamish interventions being produced by artists relishing in new technologies and at art which takes on the dangers facing the fragile environment Seeing the world from the other point of view can inform the practice of both sides this book will provide new insights to artists scientists and the wider public
