Contesting Islam, Constructing Race and Sexuality Sunera Thobani, 2020-12-10 The current political standoffs of the War on Terror illustrate that the interaction within and between the so called Western and Middle Eastern civilizations is constantly in flux A recurring theme however is how Islam and Muslims signify the Enemy in the Western socio cultural imagination and have become the Other against which the West identifies itself In a unique and insightful blend of critical race feminist and post colonial theory Sunera Thobani examines how Islam is foundational to the formation of Western identity at critical points in its history including the Crusades the Reconquista and the colonial period More specifically she explores how masculinity and femininity are formed at such pivotal junctures and what role feminism has played in the wars against radical Islam Exposing these symbiotic relationships Thobani explores how the return of religion is reworking the racial gender and sexual politics by which Western society defines itself and more specifically defines itself against Islam

Contesting Islam Constructing Race and Sexuality unpacks conventional as well as unconventional orthodoxies to open up new spaces in how we think about sexual and racial identity in the West and the crucial role that Islam has had and continues to have in its development

Ethnicity and Inclusion David G. Horrell, 2020-10-29 Some of today s problematic ideologies of racial and religious difference can be traced back to constructions of the relationship between Judaism and early Christianity New Testament studies which developed contemporaneously with Europe s colonial expansion and racial ideologies is David Horrell argues therefore an important site at which to probe critically these ideological constructions and their contemporary implications In Ethnicity and Inclusion Horrell explores the ways in which ethnic and religious characteristics feature in key Jewish and early Christian texts challenging the widely accepted dichotomy between a Judaism that is ethnically defined and a Christianity that is open and inclusive Then through an engagement with whiteness studies he offers a critique of the implicit whiteness and Christianness that continue to dominate New Testament studies today arguing that a diversity of embodied perspectives is epistemologically necessary
