OPCEPAST is a German word meaning the handling of heat and cold without using special heat transfer substances. It has been a well-known fact for decades in applications like water-air heat exchangers or air-to-air heat exchangers that the heat transfer is not influenced by the temperature difference between the two heat transfer partners. However, the existing belief, that the temperature water around 0 °C has no impact, is incorrect. It is relevant if the product itself gets underneath 0 °C. In this case, phase shift and heat transfer are investigated. A future air product will only be possible once the heat exchanger is designed. It is a long process, but the product is better than the state of the art. The product is not a new, previously unknown material, but a new design of the existing material, which is made with a new, previously unknown design.
