

A woman dressed as La Llorona stands in a cemetery. She has long black hair, pale skin, and red eye makeup with tears. She wears a light-colored dress and a dark shawl, holding a large cross necklace. In the background, there are tombstones, including one shaped like a skeleton, and some orange flowers.

There Was A Woman La Llorona From Folklore To Popular Culture

John Alba Cutler

There Was A Woman La Llorona From Folklore To Popular Culture:

There Was a Woman Domino Renee Perez, 2008-07-01 How is it that there are so many lloronas A haunting figure of Mexican oral and literary traditions La Llorona permeates the consciousness of her folk community From a ghost who haunts the riverbank to a murderous mother condemned to wander the earth after killing her own children in an act of revenge or grief the Weeping Woman has evolved within Chican imaginations across centuries yet no truly comprehensive examination of her impact existed until now Tracing La Llorona from ancient oral tradition to her appearance in contemporary material culture There Was a Woman delves into the intriguing transformations of this provocative icon From La Llorona's roots in legend to the revisions of her story and her exaltation as a symbol of resistance Domino Renee Perez illuminates her many permutations as seductress hag demon or pitiful woman Perez draws on more than two hundred artifacts to provide vivid representations of the ways in which these perceived identities are woven from abstract notions such as morality or nationalism and from concrete often misunderstood concepts from advertising to television and literature The result is a rich and intricate survey of a powerful figure who continues to be reconfigured

Companion to American Studies John Carlos Rowe, 2010-02-12 A Companion to American Studies is an essential volume that brings together voices and scholarship from across the spectrum of American experience A collection of 22 original essays which provides an unprecedented introduction to the new American Studies a comparative transnational postcolonial and polylingual discipline Addresses a variety of subjects from foundations and backgrounds to the field to different theories of the new American Studies and issues from globalization and technology to transnationalism and post colonialism Explores the relationship between American Studies and allied fields such as Ethnic Studies Feminist Queer and Latin American Studies Designed to provoke discussion and help students and scholars at all levels develop their own approaches to contemporary American Studies

Medea's Long Shadow in Postcolonial Contexts Ana Filipa Prata, Rodrigo Verano, 2024-06-10 This interdisciplinary volume explores the ancient Greek myth of Medea and its global analogues found in other mythic and folk tales of deadly exiled women such as those of La Malinche and La Llorona examining the connections between these figures and their depictions from antiquity to modernity The book considers the figure of the foreign woman her exile fratricide and infanticide in its ancient Greek form and in global postcolonial receptions in a range of media including drama film novels and the visual arts The chapters illuminate the contradictions of considering the classical Medea as a central reference point for analysis of other female figures from peripheral territories while simultaneously acknowledging the insights that such comparisons can yield Emphasizing the ways in which Medea's seditious nature enables the establishment of an extensive and heterogeneous intertextual network with other mythic characters who represent a similarly disruptive role in their specific local historical and cultural contexts the book argues for a comparative analysis that is equally attentive to myths and folk tales from all regions These essays by scholars of classics comparative and world literatures and postcolonial studies represent a plurality of perspectives from different academic contexts in Africa Latin America North America and Europe and examine how different cultures have depicted women foreigners crime and abjection The foundations of Greek myth and subsequently of the classical tradition itself are interrogated from a postcolonial perspective In tracing the portrayals of Medea and other mythic women through the overlapping features of different female characters and plots and intertwining local cultural and literary materials with broader debates this volume challenges Eurocentric narratives of power and cultural domination and works to decentralize the discussion of Medea from the exclusive domain of classical studies Medea's Long Shadow in Postcolonial Contexts will be of interest to students and scholars working on Greek tragedy and its reception as well as to those studying postcolonial and global approaches to literature culture and gender studies

Ecological Borderlands Christina Holmes, 2016-10-13 Environmental practices among Mexican American woman have spurred a reconsideration of ecofeminism among Chicana feminists Christina Holmes examines ecological themes across the arts Chicana activism and direct action groups to reveal how Chicanas can craft alternative models for ecofeminist processes Holmes revisits key debates to analyze issues surrounding embodiment women's connections to nature and spirituality's role in ecofeminist philosophy and practice By doing so she challenges Chicanas to escape the narrow frameworks of the past in favor of an inclusive model of environmental feminism that alleviates Western biases Holmes uses readings of theory elaborations of ecological narratives in Chicana cultural productions histories of human and environmental rights struggles in the Southwest and a description of an activist exemplar to underscore the importance of living with decolonializing feminist commitment in body nature and spirit Global Issues in Contemporary Hispanic Women's Writing Estrella Cebreiro, Francisca López, 2013 Carolyn Tuttle led a group that interviewed 620 women maquila workers in Nogales Sonora Mexico The responses from this representative sample refute many of the hopeful predictions made by scholars before NAFTA and reveal instead that little has improved for maquila workers The women's stories make it plain that free trade has created more low paying jobs in sweatshops where workers are exploited Families of maquila workers live in one or two room houses with no running water no drainage and no heat The multinational companies who operate the maquilas consistently break Mexican labor laws by requiring women to work more than nine hours a day six days a week without medical benefits while the minimum wage they pay workers is insufficient to feed their families These findings will make a crucial contribution to debates over free trade CAFTA DR and the impact of globalization The book visits continuities and discontinuities among Spanish and Latin American women with regards to the ways in which they approach writing as a political weapon to express ecological concerns to denounce social injustice to re-articulate existing paradigms such as local versus global violence versus pacifism immigrant versus citizen and to raise consciousness about racist sexist and other discriminatory practices Such use of writing as an instrument of ethical and political exploration is underlined throughout the different articles in the volume as the authors emphasize pluralism social justice gender equality tolerance and political representation This book offers readers a broad perspective on the multiple ways in which Hispanic women writers are explicitly exploring the social political and economic realities of our era and integrating global perspectives and gender concerns into their writing highlighting the unprecedented level of sociopolitical engagement practiced by 20th and 21st century Hispanic women writers Latinos and Narrative Media F. Aldama, 2013-11-07 This is the first book to explore the multitude of narrative media forms created by and that feature Latinos in the twenty first century a radically different cultural landscape to earlier epochs The essays present a fresh take informed by the explosion of Latino demographics and its divergent cultural tastes
