Treating The Self Elements Of Clinical Self Psychology:

Treating the Self Ernest S. Wolf, 2002-09-24 Now available in paper for the first time this classic text is about how an analyst analyzes Rooted in the theory of psychoanalytic self psychology as put forth by Heinz Kohut and his colleagues Treating the Self focuses on the application of the self psychological concept of the psyche to the actual conduct of psychoanalytic treatment The result is not a how to approach but rather a volume that suggests a theory of treatment and offers guidelines for creative ways of thinking about therapy Written by Ernest Wolf a close collaborator of Heinz Kohut this is a personal account of the process of self psychology presented by one of the foremost experts in the field Self Psychology Jill Gardner, 2024-09-04 This book offers an in depth explanation of the concepts of self psychology and pragmatic steps for recognizing and using these concepts in clinical work helping clinicians move from theory to practice Both early and contemporary concepts in self psychology and intersubjectivity theory are discussed in successive chapters of the book with illustrative examples drawn from the author's experience working in diverse settings with a wide range of mental health practitioners Individual chapters shed light on brief treatment supervision interpretation development agency and nuances of empathic communication among other topics In addressing these topics specific tools for conceptualizing clinical data and guidelines for intervention are also described The emphasis on helping people via a sustained focus on their internal subjective experience and creating a new selfobject bond with the therapist unifies the chapters in this volume With its rich clinical vignettes and accessible language Self Psychology Moving from Theory to Practice is also a valuable resource for supervisors and teachers of self psychology whether in analytic training institutes graduate schools of psychology counseling and social work or continuing education programs Psychodynamic Self Psychology in the Treatment of Anorexia and Bulimia Analu Verbin, Eytan Bachar, 2020-12-30 This book presents an implementation of psychodynamic self psychology in the treatment of anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa using a theoretical and therapeutic approach to examine the way that patients turn to food consumption or avoidance in order to supply needs they do not believe can be provided by human beings The book starts with an overview of self psychology presenting both the theory of self psychology and its specific application for the etiology and treatment of eating disorders Featuring contributions from eating disorder professionals the book then integrates this theory with 16 compelling case studies to explore how the eating disordered patient is scared to take up space in a society that encourages precisely that Professionals in the field of psychotherapy for eating disorders as well as the entire community of psychotherapists will benefit from the empirical capability of the theory to predict the development as well as remission from eating disorders Progress in Self Psychology, V. 10 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-09-05 The tenth volume in the Progress in Self Psychology series begins with four timely assessments of the selfobject concept followed by a section of clinical papers that span the topics of homosexuality alter ego countertransference hypnosis trauma dream theory and intersubjective approaches to conjoint therapy Section III A Dialogue of Self Psychology offers Merton Gill's astute appreciation of Heinz Kohut's Self Psychology followed by commentaries by Leider and Stolorow and Gill's reply. The concluding section offers Stolorow and Atwood's The Myth of the Isolated Mind followed by discussions by Gehrie and the Shanes. A forum for the kind of spirited productive exchanges that have long found a home within the self psychological community. A Decade of Progress builds on the past in responding to the theoretical and clinical challenges of the present. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 12 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-06-17. Volume 12 of the Progress in Self Psychology series begins with reassessments of frustration and responsiveness optimal and otherwise by MacIsaac Bacal and Thomson the Shanes and Doctors. The philosophical dimension of self psychology is addressed by Riker who looks at Kohut's bipolar theory of the self and Kriegman who examines the subjectivism/objectivism dialectic in self psychology from the standpoint of evolutionary biology. Clinical studies focus on self and mutual regulation in relation to therapeutic action, countertransference and the curative process and the consequences of the negative selfobject in early character formation. A separate section of child studies includes a case study exemplifying a self psychological approach to child therapy and an examination of pathological adaptation to childhood parent loss. With a concluding section of richly varied studies in applied self psychology. Basic Ideas Reconsidered promises to be basic reading for all students of contemporary self psychology.

Self Psychology and Diagnostic Assessment Marshall L. Silverstein, 1999-01-01. The self psychology of Heinz Kohut has been an important force in contemporary psychoanalytic thought and its ramifications for therapy have been extensively explored. Now Marshall Silverstein offers the first analysis of the application of self psychology to projective diagnostic assessment. Differentiating the self psychological approach from an ego psychological interpretation of classical drive theory, he clearly outlines the principal contributions of Kohut including the concepts of selfobject functions, empathy, transmuting internalization and compensatory structure. Providing numerous clinical examples, he shows how the major selfobject functions of mirroring, idealization and twinship can be identified on projective tests. Silverstein then demonstrates how conventional assessment approaches to grandiosity, self-esteem and idealization can be reconceptualized within the framework of self psychology and he also contrasts ego psychological interpretations with self psychological interpretations. This book makes a strong case for the importance of the clinical identification of self states. It will help practitioners understand their patients' varied attempts to repair an injury to the self to restore self-esteem, compensatory structure and the clinical consequences of self disorders including disintegration products such as narcissistic rage and affect states characterized by empty depression, chronic boredom and lack of zest. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 16 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-06-17. Volume 16 of Progress in Self Psychology. How Responsive Should We Be? illuminates the continuing tension between Kohut's emphasis on the patient's subjective experience and the post-Kohutian intersubjectivists' concern with the therapist's own subjectivity by focusing on issues of therapeutic posture and degree of therapist activity. Teicholz provides an integrative context for examining this tension by discussing affect as the common denominator underlying the analyst's empathy, subjectivity and authenticity. Responses to the tension encompass the stance of intersubjective contextualism, advocacy of active responsiveness and emphasis on the thoroughgoing bidirectionality of the analytic endeavor. Balancing these perspectives are a reprise on Kohut's concept of prolonged empathic immersion and a recasting of the issue of closeness and distance in the analytic relationship in terms of analysis of the tie to the negative selfobject. Additional clinical contributions examine severe bulimia and suicidal rage as attempts at self-state regulation and address the self-reparative functions that inhere in the act of dreaming. Like previous volumes in the series, volume 16 demonstrates the applicability of self psychology to nonanalytic treatment modalities and clinical populations. Here self psychology is brought to bear on psychotherapy with placed children, on work with adults with nonverbal learning disabilities and on brief therapy. Rector's examination of twinship and religious experience, Hagman's elucidation of the creative process and Siegel and Topel's experiment with supervision via the internet exemplify the ever-expanding explanatory range of self psychological insights.

Religious Experience and Self-Psychology Jung Eun Jang, 2016-11-09 This book explores the 1907 Korean Revival Movement from a self psychological perspective. The examination of the psychological processes in the movement based on Heinz Kohut's self psychology can shed light on religious experiences as selfobject experiences by identifying the sense of defeatedness and helplessness that Korean people experienced under Japanese occupation as what Kohut calls self fragmentation of the Korean group self and explaining its therapeutic functions which facilitate potential for the narcissistic nourishment of the fragmented group self leading to renewed self-esteem, transformation and empowerment of the Korean people. Korean people in the early 1900s experienced abuses and oppression by corrupt officials and exploitation by Japanese government. Through religious experiences which emphasized the individual repentance, the experience of God through the spirit, emphasis on prayer and eschatological faith, the Korean Revival Movement in 1907 enabled its followers to experience mirroring and idealizing selfobjects which function as a role of transforming the lower shape of narcissism into the higher one.

Contributions of Self Psychology to Group Psychotherapy Walter N. Stone, 2018-03-26 Stone's central interests include the development of the self, empathy, narcissism, shame, envy, rage and the group self. He is concerned with several aspects of clinical technique and is especially sensitive to our co-creation of so-called difficult patients. His understanding of dreams as both personal and group products which manifest visual narratives will be of particular interest to students of the social and collective unconscious. Stone's work with narcissistic and borderline patients developed in parallel with his work with the chronically mentally ill who are often institutionalised. He demonstrates that group therapy for such patients is not only a matter of containment and holding in the service of administrative control but also involves interpretative work based on an understanding of the primary need for a good enough self object.

Understanding and Treating Chronic Shame Patricia A. DeYoung, 2021-12-21 A masterful synthesis of relational and attachment theory, neurobiology and contemporary psychoanalysis. Understanding and Treating Chronic Shame has been internationally recognized as an essential text on shame Integrating new theory about trauma shame resilience and self compassion this second edition further clarifies the relational right brain essence of being in and with the suffering of shame New chapters carry theory further into praxis In the time of a national Truth and Reconciliation Commission and a global Black Lives Matter movement Societies of Chronic Shame invites therapists to deepen their awareness of collective societal trauma and of their own place within dissociated societal shame Three Faces of Shame organizes the clinical wisdom of the book into clear guidelines for differential diagnosis and treatment Lucid and compassionate this book engages with the most profound challenges of clinical practice and touches into the depths of being human

The Moral Self Pauline Chazan,2002-11-01 The Moral Self addresses the question of how morality enters into our lives Pauline Chazan draws upon psychology r ral philosophy and literary interpretation to rebut the view that morality s role is to limit desire and control self love Perserving the ancients connection between what is good for the self and what is morally good Chazan argues that a certain kind of care for the self is central to moral agency Her intriguing argument begins with a critical examination of the views of Hume Rousseau and Hegel The constructive part of the book takes a more unusual turn by synthesising the work on the analyst Heinz Kohut and Aristotle into Chazan s own positive account which is then illustrated by the use of Russian literature optimally responsive as they can to their patients and students The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC 4.0 license

The Therapist'S Use Of Self Rowan, John, Jacobs, Michael, 2002-10-01 This book deals with what is perhaps the central question in therapy who is the therapist And how does that actually come across and manifest itself in the therapeutic relationship A good deal of the thinking about this in psychoanalysis has come under the heading of countertransference Much of the thinking in the humanistic approaches has come under such headings as empathy genuineness nonpossessive warmth presence personhood

The Transformational Self Harold K. Bendicson, 2018-05-01 This book is an attempt to add to the theoretical discussion regarding the nature of the intrapsychic and interpersonal transformational changes associated with the transition from adolescence to young adulthood The author introduces the concept of the Transformational Self a phase specific dimension of the neural self and demonstrates the enhanced explanatory power that it offers in attempting to examine the sometimes dramatic shifting self states accompanying the metamorphosis from adolescence into young adulthood A necessary precondition for the emergence of the Transformational Self is the maturation of the pre frontal cortex and its enhanced neural connectivity With this biological achievement executive functioning a strengthened ego self capacity can arrive at a mature level of external stabilization and internal intrapsychic structuralization Conceptualized in self referencing metaphor and expressed and reinforced through long term potentiation repeated firing patterns of synchronous neural assemblies the late adolescent reconfigured self state becomes a true developmental potentiality evidenced by the use of different self and other representations

Self Experiences in Group Irene N. H. Harwood, Malcolm Pines, 1998 Using clinical examples the contributors demonstrate the good enough healing power of carefully constructed and supervised groups conducted by therapists who apply both Kohut's self psychological concepts and those currently evolving from intersubjectivity throughout the world Among the topics covered in this volume are the recent advances in hermeneutics self psychology and intersubjectivity theory the universal need for a group object Kohut's thinking on archaic and mature twinship the applicability of new infant research the need to examine early childhood multiple cross cultural selfobject and traumatic experiences within transferences the utilization of a co therapy model and how to create optimal group environments Mixing new theoretical developments with clinical research and practice Self Experiences in Group breaks new ground and illustrates how these concepts can be applied to work at infant child or adult level

Mirrors of Self Jonathan P. Badgett, 2021-10-14 Orthodox Christology maintains that Jesus Christ is both truly God and truly human As such he is the key to knowing both God and self In a series of applications of christological anthropology Mirrors of Self develops this epistemic premise in dialogue with a diversity of Christian and secular historical and modern perspectives Aspects of human personhood including the ever elusive self gain greater clarity and significance in the light of Christ's person and work At the center of individual human subjectivity we encounter a broken sin blinded self in need of renewal and release What healing

we find comes to us as Christ's ecological presence works in and through others the mirrors of self whose instrumental agency Christ employs in service to his own redemptive ends
