Trends In Ecological Research For The 1980s Nato Conference Series I Ecology:

Trends in Ecological Research for the 1980s June H. Cooley, 2013-03-13 Is ecology at a crossroad After three decades of rapid though somewhat anarchic development many ecologists now are beginning to ask this question They have the feeling of no longer belonging to a unified and mature scientific discipline Many of them claim to be mere empiricists whereas others are proud to be considered theoreticians Each side has its own journals and holds its own specialists meetings tending to disregard the achievements of the other The communication gap between the two schools is quickly widening to the detriment of both To make things worse the word ecology now has a different meaning for the professional biologists and the general public Ecology is still considered as a creditable though rather soft scientific discipline by the former whereas it is perceived as a new non conformist political philosophy by the latter Empirical ecologists are fundamentally naturalists who enjoy the immense complexity of the natural world and devote their lifetimes to the description of the many adaptive characteristics morphological biological or behavioral of the hundreds of thousands of species sharing the earth with us They generally are ignorant of if not allergic to the use of any mathematical representation of living phenomena They feel that ecological theory is rapidly becoming a mathematical game that has lost any contact with the realities of life

Tropical Rainforest Research — Current Issues D.S. Edwards, W.E. Booth, S.C. Choy, 2012-12-06 Proceedings of the conference held in Bandar Seri Begawan April 1993 Igapó (Black-water flooded forests) of the Amazon Basin Randall W. Myer, 2018-10-22 Igap forests are a common part of the Amazon whose ecosystems are critical to our shared human future The introduction addresses the structure function and dynamics of igap forests in the Amazon basin focusing on their uniqueness due to their high level of complexity defined as the many ways that different components of igap forests in the Amazon basin ecosystem interact and also on how those interactions are on a higher order compared to other tropical forests The text then breaks down the igap ecosystem using these sections 1 Igap forests over space and time 2 Water light and soils 3 The carbon cycle 4 Litter fungi and invertebrates 5 Vertebrates 6 Plant population studies 7 Plant community studies and 8 Human impacts and management Experts from around the world serve as chapter authors that review what is known about their specific part of the igap ecosystem what research they have done and also what needs to be done in the future proposal for a U S National Biodiversity Information Center Application of techniques developed in the human genome project to species identification and classification The Gap Analysis Program of the National Biological Survey which uses layered satellite climatic and biological data to assess distribution and better manage biodiversity The significant contribution of museum collections to identifying and categorizing species which is essential for understanding ecological function and for targeting organisms and regions at risk The book describes our growing understanding of how megacenters of diversity e g rainforest insects coral reefs are formed maintained and lost what can be learned from mounting bird extinctions and how conservation efforts for neotropical primates have fared It also explores ecosystem restoration sustainable development and agricultural impact Biodiversity II reinforces the idea that the conservation of our biological resources is within reach as long as we pool resources better coordinate the efforts of existing institutions museums universities and government agencies already dedicated to this goal and enhance support for research collections and training This volume will be important to environmentalists biologists ecologists educators students and concerned individuals
