What About Us An Open Letter To The Mothers Feminism Forgot:

What About Us? Maureen Freely, 2012-02-16 This work explores why feminism comes into conflict with women who have children and why women with children suffer when they try to put feminist ideas into practice

The Miseducation of Women James Tooley, 2003-01-04 To what extent has feminism benefited women To what extent have women really been liberated James Tooley argues that the implication of many women's testimony is that feminism so far has failed to deliver the promised benefits and has even in some ways proved harmful Bringing together many women's voices from Bridget Jones to Simone de Beauvoir he provides a radical rethinking for feminism and sexual politics in the 21st century

What Women Want Next Susan Maushart, 2008-12-17 With all the choices available to today's women why don't they more feel fulfilled What Women Want Next is Susan Maushart's meditation by turns profound and laugh out loud funny on that central dilemma of postfeminist life At one point she had it all so why wasn't she happy With What Women Want Next Maushart combines research with personal history in a dynamic attempt to answer this question Feminism may have led women to life's banquet table but the meal they make of it is up to them How to balance life and work sex and sleep child care and self care And why has women's guilt that glass ceiling of the soul become the biggest barrier they face What Women Want Next is the first book to look at the spectrum of a woman's life and attempt to demonstrate how she can shape her own destiny throughout all its stages

Lean on Me Lynne Segal, 2023-11-14 Have you ever relied on the kindness of strangers What brings people together to find hope and solidarity What do we owe each other as citizens and comrades Questions of care intimacy education meaningful work and social engagement lie at the core of our ability to understand the world and its possibilities for human flourishing In Lean On Me feminist thinker Lynne Segal goes in search of hope in her own life and in the world around her She finds it entwined in our intimate commitments to each other and our shared collective endeavours Segal calls this shared dependence radical care In recounting from her own life the moments of motherhood and of being on the front line of second wave feminism she draws upon lessons from more than half a century of engagement in left feminist politics with its underlying commitment to building a more egalitarian and nurturing world The personal and the political combine in this rallying cry to transform radically how we approach education motherhood and our everyday vulnerabilities of disability ageing and enhanced needs Only by confronting head on these different forms of interdependence and care can we change the way we think about the environment and learn to struggle together against impending climate catastrophe

Ending the Mother War Jayne Buxton, 1998 This book is a deconstruction of the myths that clouds emotive debates about working mothers Taking concrete examples of companies and industries Buxton presents a blueprint for a future where family friendly policies are implemented

Soundings, 1997 Transformative Power in Motherwork Marie Porter, 2008 This book explores the experiences of a group of Australian women who became first time mothers between 1950 and 1965 A grounded theory of transformative power in motherwork is presented that has emerged from the analysis of interviews The mothers talked about what they did in their active mothering years The author argues that despite being constrained by the gender bias in the patriarchal context these mothers were agents who developed skills that enabled them to resist or creatively deal with most of the constraints they faced Their emphasis was on their agency and the power to nurture their children into responsible adults Their awareness of the importance of their motherwork acted as a motivator in this development The author further argues that the relationship between each mother and each of her children is a transformative power relationship in which both mother and child are transformed the child into an independent adult and the mother into a skilled self motivated agent through her motherwork Any threat to this process resulted in the mother doing all she could to resist or counteract the constraints she was encountering Transformative power expressed in motherwork can be recognised analytically by several characteristics It empowers both parties in the mother child duality Complexity diversity fluidity and responsiveness to the physical intellectual and emotional aspects of the relationship are all evident in transformative power relationships

Overloaded Imelda Whelehan, 2000 This volume examines the phenomenon of laddishness and the cult of the girlie in film TV advertising music politics literature and society It interprets these trends as a nostalgic longing for a pre feminist society which through the medium of comedy and irony has been manipulated by popular media as a liberation from political correctness Contrasting the culture icons of the 1990s with the 1970s tough chicks and the 1980s New Man and Have It All Woman the book aims to show how the rhetoric of laddism emerged and how it has infused so many aspects of our cultural identity

Memories of Bliss Jo Ind, 2003 This book aims to relate the human experience of sex to our ultimate knowledge of God It focuses on how we should treat each other in the light of Jesus command and that we should love our neighbours as ourselves

Madonna and Child Melissa Benn, 1998 Benn argues that there has been an unrecognised social revolution centering on experience of motherhood versus society's ideas of women's lives in the 90s Whilst women are supposed to have it all there is a gap between women's experience of being mothers and societal perceptions of motherhood Originally published in 1998 by Jonathan Cape

Feminism's Forgotten Fight Kirsten Swinth, 2018-11-05 A spirited defense of feminism arguing that the lack of support for working mothers is less a failure of second wave feminism than a rejection by reactionaries of the sweeping changes they campaigned for When people discuss feminism they often lament its failure to deliver on the promise that women can have it all But as Kirsten Swinth argues in this provocative book it is not feminism that has betrayed women but a society that balked at making the far reaching changes for which activists fought Feminism's Forgotten Fight resurrects the comprehensive vision of feminism's second wave at a time when its principles are under renewed attack Through compelling stories of local and national activism and crucial legislative and judicial battles Swinth's history spotlights concerns not commonly associated with the movement of the 1960s and 1970s We see liberals and radicals white women and women of color rethinking gender roles and redistributing housework They brought men into the fold and together demanded bold policy changes to ensure job protection for pregnant women and federal support for child care Many of the creative proposals they devised to reshape the workplace and rework government policy such as guaranteed incomes for mothers and flex time now seem prescient Swinth definitively dispels the notion that second wave feminists pushed women into the workplace without offering solutions to issues they faced at home Feminism's Forgotten Fight examines activists campaigns for work and family in depth and helps us see how feminism's opponents not feminists themselves blocked the movement's aspirations Her insights offer key lessons for women's ongoing struggle to achieve equality at home and work Swimming Against the Tide Angela Kennedy,1997 The essays in this collection present a powerful challenge to the prevailing feminist dictum that abortion is something that women want or even need The authors explore the doubts and discomfort felt by many women about abortion Issues of equality violence and oppression are raised in the context of a feminist critique which seeks non violent solutions to the problems faced by modern women The authors offer an alternative feminist view of abortion a view that recognises the value of both women's bodies and children's lives and which demands equality respect and justice of both Compassionate and thought provoking this book is a valuable contribution to contemporary feminist discourse and abortion debate Political Ideology in Britain Robert Leach,2009-07-15 As well as introducing the mainstream ideologies of Liberalism Conservatism and Socialism this text also examines challenges from nationalists feminists and Green thinkers and the ideological controversy surrounding multiculturalism It concludes by reviewing the prospects for ideology in an increasingly depoliticised Britain The Oxford Book of Work Keith Thomas,1999 Compiled by a respected social historian this unique anthology on the changing experience of work draws upon more than 500 writers from classical antiquity to modern times The Guardian Index ,1995 New Statesman Society ,1995-10 CURRENT CONTENTS ,1996 Mothering in the Third Wave Amber E. Kinser,2008 Mothering in the Third Wave is a welcome addition to scholarship on both third wave feminism and feminist mothering The volume continues in the tradition of earlier third wave anthologies in its inclusive and diverse vision of feminisms and feminists while forging new ground in its focus on third wave mothers and third wave practices of mothering In exploring how the institution of motherhood is shaped by today's political and social realities Mothering in the Third Wave examines contemporary experiences of feminist mothering while connecting to earlier writing on the subject since the 1970s Recommended for readers of any generation interested in the complexities of feminist mothering in the twenty first century Astrid Henry author of Not My Mother's Sister Generational Conflict and Third Wave Feminism The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,1996 TŁS, the Times Literary Supplement ,1995
