Understanding and Supporting Undocumented Students Jerry Price, 2010-10-19 This volume is about a student group whose particular needs are not well understood students without legal residency status better known as undocumented students Student affairs professionals may know that undocumented students are on campus but they often know little about them For many of these students this is by design they choose to exist in the campus shadows to avoid sharing their secret and jeopardizing their status Their fear of being discovered is understandable they believe that they could be deported if their residency status were disclosed This volume provides a broad overview of the factors that contribute to the experiences of undocumented students It examines the applicable federal and state laws and policies the students precollege experiences their academic and socioemotional experiences on campus and their lack of professional employment opportunities after college However when it comes to understanding the experiences of undocumented students the whole is greater than sum of its parts Understanding these students their experiences and their needs requires more than simply understanding the individual components of their social cultural and legal environment This volume also contains the actual stories of undocumented students graphically illustrating the cumulative effect their legal status has on their day to day lives This is the 130th volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs deans of students student counselors and other student services professionals New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual

Understanding the Institutionalization of Undocumented Student Support in Higher Education Using a Neoliberal Multiculturalism Framework Chantiri Duran Resendiz,2021 This dissertation examines the recent establishment and institutionalization of undocumented student services in two university campuses in California and analyzes the ways in which these projects of institutionalization and the undocumented student figure fits within the rationalities of neoliberal multiculturalism I explore how undocumented students multicultural racialized subjects who could in an ongoing process fashion and refashion themselves through the ethos of self reliance and competition came to be accepted at these universities and how undocumented immigrants were able to enter the public imaginary of the university s projects for diversity and inclusion I argue that neoliberal multiculturalism illuminates and explains how the ways narratives elevating the social value of undocumented students are congruent and simultaneously occur with the increasing privatization and expansion of the immigrant detention industrial complex increasing criminalization of immigrants daily life activities and record high number of immigrant deportations Furthermore this dissertation asserts that neoliberal multicultural rationalities shape advocacy efforts designed to support undocumented students in higher education These rationalities inform the scope of values principles and practices behind the forms of student advocacy that could be possible and intelligible in a university context I argue that neoliberal multicultural rationalities underlie the dominant frame shaping undocumented student advocacy that replicate the undocumented student subject figure as one contingent on disciplined integration This in turn limits discourses and frames in undocumented student advocacy This dissertation follows an intrinsic and instrumental case study design I conducted 30 interviews with institutional allies current and former student organizers I also analyzed written and digital records including institutional public statements institutionally affiliated research reports university taskforce recommendations university newspaper articles strategic plan publications newspaper articles student and university created resource guides course syllabi and student led publications Finally I conducted 180 hours of participant observation at various student and university sponsored events including summits student retreats educator workshops immigrant student conferences undocumented student welcome receptions and university and student sponsored webinars This dissertation contributes to scholarships in Critical Ethnic Studies and the emerging intellectual project called University Abolition Studies
