Uncontrollable Societies Of Disaffected Individuals Disbelief And Discredit Volume :

Uncontrollable Societies of Disaffected Individuals Bernard Stiegler, 2012-12-17 Max Weber argued that the development of capitalism would lead to the progressive rationalization and disenchantment of society today this process is reaching its endpoint and capitalism is collapsing into a disturbing kind of irrationality It engenders spiritual misery a paralysis of the function of the human mind or spirit where reason disappears as a motive of hope a kingdom of ends in Kant's sense Absolute disenchantment afflicts all those who no longer have anything to expect from the development of hyper industrial society Those who are desperate become desperados and they are becoming more and more numerous No longer having anything to expect means at the same time no longer having anything to fear And the proliferating repressive mechanisms that are supposed to cope with the effects of this loss of authority turn out to be less and less effective For such measures engender more and more the opposite of that for which they were intended but in extreme and totally irrational unpredictable forms This is where we are today the technical system of the hyper industrial epoch can maintain its power only so long as it is backed up by blind trust but this trust is undermined by the destructive irrationality stemming from the liquidation of the kingdom of ends From the moment this trust is lost hyper power is inverted into hyper vulnerability and impotence The loss of motives of hope then expands encompassing all of us like a contagious illness But this all is no longer a we it is a panic

Emotional Capitalism Peter Wing-Kai Lok, 2024-02-23 As today's emotional capitalism increasingly carries out its core operation of regulating the psycho energy of individuals the need to analyse a variety of methods for emotional production becomes important By bringing together the works of Byung Chul Han Bernard Stiegler Emmanuel Levinas and Judith Butler this bold analysis offers a fresh perspective on the operation of emotional capitalism today with various possibilities for evolving a sensitivity to social injustice and the suffering of others through an ethical affective and bodily inter subjective connection

Educational Ills and the (Im)possibility of Utopia Joff Bradley, 2020-05-21 As a bold provocation to reimagine what the philosophy of education might mean in the 21st century this book responds to the exhaustion of present theoretical models and indeed the degradation of fabulative thought in its current prospectus The contributors from Asia the Americas and Europe proffer a frank response to the everyday reality of the classroom where teachers compete with electronic devices for the attention of students whose minds are literally elsewhere cocooned in the noospheric ether Outside of lecture halls the world is suffering the rise of fascism panic and anger driven by precarious employment and a looming fatalism and resignation in the face of ecological calamity These developments have led to an avalanche of psychical woes afflicting young people ranging from trauma the loss of hope and in extremis violence and suicide The concerned and committed writers of this volume therefore raise the timely question of the return of utopia as a fitting desperate and indeed necessary response to the ecological existential and pedagogical crises spreading across the planet At this most crucial juncture in human history the excellent contributions to this book offer singularly unique perspectives regarding the possibility impossibility of utopia This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Educational Philosophy and Theory Bernard Stiegler and the Philosophy of Education Joff P.N.

Bradley,David Kennedy,2021-05-13 This book is the first of its kind to critically examine the philosophy of Bernard Stiegler from the perspective of the philosophy of education The editors of this book firmly believe that in the coming years Stiegler s philosophy will assume increasing importance and influence in both digital studies and the philosophy of education as his thought is a prism through which to understand how we live and work and a means to anticipate what the future may hold for us all in the time of the Anthropocene They are of the view that Stiegler s work will have a permanent impact on the intellectual terrain of the twenty first century as his majestic conceptual architectonic will shape political social and pedagogical debates in the coming decades With this in mind the contributors of this book take up his gauntlet to understand the risks and opportunities of the digital pharmakon and its impact on the educational milieu The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Educational Philosophy and Theory The Sociology of Debt Mark

Featherstone,2019-05-08 Over the course of the last ten years the issue of debt has become a serious problem that threatens to destroy the global socio economic system and ruin the everyday lives of millions of people This collection brings together a range of perspectives of key thinkers on debt to provide a sociological analysis focused upon the social political economic and cultural meanings of indebtedness The contributors to the book consider both the lived experience of debt and the more abstract processes of financialisation taking place globally Showing how debt functions on the level of both macro and microeconomics the book also provides a more holistic perspective with accounts that span sociological cultural and economic forms of analysis Automatic Society, Volume 1 Bernard Stiegler,2017-01-17 In July 2014 the Belgian newspaper

Le Soir claimed that France Belgium the United Kingdom Italy Poland and the United States may lose between 43 and 50 per cent of their jobs within ten to fifteen years Across the world integrated automation one key result of the so called data economy is leading to a drastic reduction in employment in all areas from the legal profession to truck driving from medicine to stevedoring In this first volume of a new series the leading cultural theorist Bernard Stiegler advocates a radical solution to the crisis posed by automation and consumer capitalism more generally He calls for a decoupling of the concept of labour meaningful intellectual participation from employment dehumanizing banal work with the ultimate aim of eradicating employment altogether By doing so new and alternative economic models will arise where individuals are no longer simply mined for labour but also actively produce what they consume Building substantially on his existing theories and engaging with a wide range of figures from Deleuze and Foucault to Bill Gates and Alan Greenspan Automatic Society will appeal to students and scholars across the social sciences and humanities as well as anyone concerned with the central question of the future of work The Ethos of Digital Environments Susanna Lindberg,Hanna-Riikka Roine,2021-05-27 While self driving cars and autonomous weapon systems have received a great deal of attention in media and research the general requirements of ethical life in today's digitalizing reality have not been made sufficiently visible and evaluable. This collection of articles from both distinguished and emerging authors working at the intersections of philosophy, literary theory, media and technology does not intend to fix new moral rules. Instead, the volume explores the ethos of digital environments, asking how we can orient ourselves in them and inviting us to renewed moral reflection in the face of dilemmas they entail. The authors show how contemporary digital technologies model our perception, narration as well as our conceptions of truth and investigate the ethical, moral and juridical consequences of making public and societal infrastructures computational. They argue that we must make the structures of the digital environments visible and learn to care for them. The Lost Spirit of Capitalism Bernard Stiegler, 2014-05-19. Max Weber famously argued that the rise of capitalism in early modern Europe was premised on the emergence of a distinctive set of attitudes including the pursuit of profit for its own sake, which he called the spirit of capitalism. Today, when capitalism has spread across the globe, the spirit of capitalism would appear to reign supreme. In this important book, Bernard Stiegler takes a very different view: what we are witnessing today is not the triumph of the spirit of capitalism but rather its demise, as our contemporary hyper-industrial societies become increasingly uncontrollable, profoundly irrational and incapable of inspiring hope. Disenchantment and despair have become the everyday lived experiences of countless individuals. Far from being a moment of liberation, May 68 was just the first symptom of our increasing disenchantment and spiritual misery. The libidinal energy that originally underpinned capitalism has become an unbound force unleashing drives that can no longer be contained. Is there an alternative? Stiegler argues that the development of alternatives must begin with a new industrial policy designed to recognize that technologies are what Plato called pharmaka, meaning both poison and cure. Industrial society has a future only if we can create technologies that foster relations of care, otium for people whose spirit has been exhausted by contemporary consumerism. We must develop an ecology not only to protect the planet but also to renew the exploited energies of human desire. This volume, the third in a trilogy that includes The Decadence of Industrial Democracies and Uncontrollable Societies of Disaffected Individuals, will consolidate Stiegler's reputation as one of the most original philosophers and cultural theorists of our time. Planet Utopia

Mark Featherstone, 2017-02-17. It has become clear that utopian thought has returned to the political scene. Featherstone traces the history of utopia and also discusses a number of contemporary case studies. This examination of the nature of utopian politics in the twenty-first century will be essential reading for political scientists and sociologists. Disbelief and Discredit: Uncontrollable societies of disaffected individuals, Radical Philosophy, 2013
