Stamatis Zografos,2019-06-12 Architecture and Fire develops a conceptual reassessment of architectural conservation through the study of the intimate relationship between architecture and fire Stamatis Zografos expands on the general agreement among many theorists that the primitive hut was erected around fire locating fire as the first memory of architecture at the very beginning of architectural evolution Following the introduction Zografos analyses the archive and the renewed interest in the study of archives through the psychoanalysis of Jacques Derrida He moves on to explore the ambivalent nature of fire employing the conflicting philosophies of Gaston Bachelard and Henri Bergson to do so before discussing architectural conservation and the relationship between listed buildings the function of archives and the preservation of memories from the past The following chapter investigates how architecture evolves by absorbing and accommodating fire while the penultimate chapter examines the critical moment of architectural evolution the destruction of buildings by fire with a focus on the tragic disaster at London s Grenfell Tower in 2017 Zografos concludes with thoughts on Freud s drive theory He argues the practice of architectural conservation is an expression of the life drive and a simultaneous repression of the death drive which suggests controlled destruction should be an integral part of the conservation agenda Architecture and Fire is founded in new interdisciplinary research navigating across the boundaries of architecture conservation archival theory classical mythology evolutionary theory thermodynamics philosophy and psychoanalysis It will be of interest to readers working in and around these disciplines Architectural Conservation in Asia John H. The Conservation Movement: A History of Architectural Preservation Miles Glendinning, 2013-01-17 Winner of the 2016 Antoinette Forrester Downing Award presented by the Society of Architectural Historians In many cities across the world particularly in Europe old buildings form a prominent part of the built environment and we often take it for granted that their contribution is intrinsically positive How has that widely shared belief come about and is its continued general acceptance inevitable Certainly ancient structures have long been treated with care and reverence in many societies including classical Rome and Greece But only in modern Europe and America in the last two centuries has this care been elaborated and energised into a forceful dynamic ideology a Conservation Movement infused with a sense of historical destiny and loss that paradoxically shared many of the characteristics of Enlightenment modernity The close inter relationship between conservation and modern civilisation was most dramatically heightened in periods of war or social upheaval beginning with the French Revolution and rising to a tragic climax in the 20th century age of totalitarian extremism more recently the troubled relationship of heritage and global commercialism has become dominant Miles Glendinning's new book authoritatively presents for the first time the entire history of this architectural Conservation Movement and traces its dramatic fluctuations in ideas and popularity ending by questioning whether its recent international ascendancy can last indefinitely

The Imperial Politics of Architectural Conservation Reyhan Sabri, 2019-07-15 This book documents the changing role of the Islamic Waqf institution in Cyprus and the conservation of Waqf heritage buildings of Ottoman and Western origins Previously ignored archives of documents detailing the conservation of Waqf buildings during Ottoman and British rule allow a fine grained analysis of the colonial introduction of Western approaches to heritage conservation Colonial rule saw major legislative and administrative changes to the originally autonomous Ottoman Waqf institution which had already been subject to reforms under the Ottoman regime Under British rule Western heritage concepts and modern architectural conservation discourses became the core conservation principles in Cyprus Earlier centralisation attempts during the Ottoman Tanzimat 1831 1876 and the procedural technical and political reconfigurations during the British colonial era in Cyprus 1878 1960 were key factors of the transformation of the Waqf's traditional building upkeep system. These imperial interventions, their orientalist mindset and the rise of nationalism finally led to the erosion of Waqf in Cyprus as a non-Western and sustainable form of building conservation. This study reveals how the Western approach, the forms of expertise it privileges and pragmatic diversions from this practice for political purposes were useful in neutralizing the legitimacy of local practices except in cases where opportunistic recognition of their utility played a role in inter-communal, colonial, nationalist and inter-imperial politics.

Values in Cities James Lesh, 2022-09-23. Examining urban heritage in twentieth-century Australia, James Lesh reveals how evolving ideas of value and significance shaped cities and places. Over decades, a growing number of sites and areas were found to be valuable by communities and professionals. Places perceived to have value were often conserved. Places perceived to lack value became subject to modernisation, redevelopment and renewal. From the 1970s, alongside strengthened activism and legislation with the innovative Burra Charter 1979, the values-based model emerged for managing the aesthetic, historic, scientific and social significance of historic environments. Values thus transitioned from an implicit to an overt component of urban architectural and planning conservation. The field of conservation became a noted profession and discipline. Conservation also had a broader role in celebrating the Australian nation and in reconciling settler colonialism for the twentieth century. Integrating urban history and heritage studies, this book provides the first longitudinal study of the twentieth-century Australian heritage movement. It advocates for innovative and reflexive modes of heritage practice responsive to urban social and environmental imperatives. As the values-based model continues to shape conservation worldwide, this book is an essential reference for researchers, students and practitioners concerned with the past and future of cities and heritage. The Foreword and Chapter 1 Introduction of this book are available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com. Adaptive Reuse Liliane Wong, 2016-11-21. Building in existing fabric requires more than practical solutions and stylistic skills. The adaptive reuse of buildings, where changes in the structure go along with new programs and functions, poses the fundamental question of how the past should be included in the design for the future. On the background of long years of teaching and publishing and using vivid imagery from Frankenstein to Rem Koolhaas and beyond, the author provides a comprehensive introduction to architectural design for adaptive reuse projects. History and theory, building typology, questions of materials and construction, aspects of preservation, urban as well as interior design are dealt with in ways that allow to approach adaptive reuse as a design practice field of its own right.

Critical Built Heritage Practice and Conservation Johnathan Djabarouti, 2024-01-23. Critical Built Heritage Practice and Conservation: Evolving Perspectives supports an alternative point of departure for engaging with the historic built environment by critically questioning the legitimacy of dominant conservation concepts and methods that are often taken for granted within building conservation, architecture and adaptive reuse. The meaning of heritage is changing. From pastness to presentness from preservation to participation and from tangible to intangible heritage is increasingly understood as a dynamic social and intangible process across many disciplines. Consequently the role and remit of the built heritage practitioner and in particular the architectural conservationist is becoming progressively complex and in need of a critical gaze. Is restoration really a falsehood from beginning to end? Should the condition of existing materials determine the conservation method? Is authenticity really an inherent quality within old buildings? By engaging with a critical interpretation of heritage this book makes space for practitioners to consider the evolution of their own role within a rapidly changing context of built heritage practice. Reinforced by a shift in emphasis from materials to meanings a socio-material outlook is proposed which champions an enhanced focus on intangible heritage within the built heritage sector whilst still acknowledging the physical condition of old buildings is a priority for many stakeholders. This book has been written with practitioners, students and educators of architectural conservation in mind although will also be of relevance to the broader built heritage industry as well as academics, researchers and heritage students with a passion for contemporary dialogues in heritage studies.

Understanding Urbanism Dallas Rogers, Adrienne Keane, Tooran Alizadeh, Jacqueline Nelson, 2020-07-21

Understanding Urbanism presents built environment students with the latest approaches to studying urbanism. The book is written in an accessible and easy to understand format by leading urban academics and practitioners with decades of teaching and practical experience. As students move through the chapters they will develop a critical understanding of the different ways architects, urban and social planners, urban designers, heritage professionals, engineers and other built environment professionals design our cities. Importantly the book shows how and why the built environment professional of the future will need to work within the Indigenous context of cities in countries like Australia, New Zealand, the United States and Canada.

Architectural Documentation: Built Environment, Modernization, and Turkish Nationalism Serra Akboy-Ilk, 2022-09-06

Against the backdrop of building a new country this study explores and evaluates the documentation culture in early republican Turkey. Having fought the Turkish War of Independence 1919-22 against the Allied Powers the revolutionaries led by legendary leader Mustafa Kemal Atatürk 1881-1938 came to engage with the idea of the West and its cultural origin. With the proclamation of the Republic of Turkey in 1923 the constitution abolished the 600-year-old Ottoman Empire including the dynastic cultural, economic, educational and governmental institutions. In the redemption of the nation within the modern history of civilizations cultural Westernization and technical modernization became the model for the newly found nation-state. While the new country became the subject of reformation historic architecture was called upon to grant the aura of a glorious past to the Turks. Through the materialization of Türk Tarih Tezi the Turkish History Thesis the founding leaders focused on the origin of Turks and the everlasting spirit of the Turkish state. In this pursuit architectural heritage signified the formative power to represent the past Supported by state agencies scholars with supreme patriotic zeal and diligence travelled across the remotest corners of the country to document and study the historic architecture of the nation To date the complicated question of a national identity embodied in the built environment has dominated the contemporary scholarship on early republican historiography Akboy I lk s study however distinguishes itself with its focus on architectural documentation which became an agent of history writing in the early years of the nation state Curated by the ideologies of the state the formal documentation findings extensively informed the republican plot of the modern progress of Turks For scholars interested in a closer reading of the crossing boundaries between architectural heritage and nation building in the case of the modernization of Turkey this book is revealing and provocative in bringing forward architectural documentation a remarkably overlooked subject in studies of the area

Cultural Heritage as Civilizing Mission

Michael Falser,2015-03-04 This book investigates the role of cultural heritage as a constitutive dimension of different civilizing missions from the colonial era to the present It includes case studies of the Habsburg Empire and German colonialism in Africa Asian case studies of post colonial India and the Dutch East Indies Indonesia China and French Indochina and a special discussion on 20th century Cambodia and the temples of Angkor The themes examined range from architectural and intellectual history to historic preservation and restoration Taken together they offer an overview of historical processes spanning two centuries of institutional practices wherein the concept of cultural heritage was appropriated both by political regimes and for UNESCO World Heritage agendas The Monumental Challenge of Preservation Michele Valerie Cloonan, 2023-08-15 The enormous task of preserving the world's heritage in the face of war, natural disaster, vandalism, neglect, and technical obsolescence. The monuments, movable, immovable, tangible and intangible, of the world's shared cultural heritage are at risk. War, terrorism, natural disaster, vandalism, and neglect make the work of preservation a greater challenge than it has been since World War II. In The Monumental Challenge of Preservation, Michele Cloonan makes the case that at this critical juncture we must consider preservation in the broadest possible contexts. Preservation requires the efforts of an increasing number of stakeholders. In order to explore the cultural, political, technological, economic, and ethical dimensions of preservation, Cloonan examines particular monuments and their preservation dilemmas. The massive Bamiyan Buddhas, blown up by the Taliban in 2001, are still the subject of debates over how or whether to preserve what remains, and the U.S. National Park Service has undertaken the complex task of preserving the symbolic and often ephemeral objects that visitors leave at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. To take just two of the many examples described in the book, Cloonan also considers the ongoing genocide and cultural genocide in Syria, the challenges of preserving our digital heritage, the dynamic between original and copy efforts to preserve the papers and architectural fragments of the architect Louis Sullivan, and the possibility of sustainable preservation. In the end, Cloonan suggests we are what we preserve and don't preserve. Every day we make preservation decisions individually and collectively that have longer term ramifications than we might expect. Methodical Approach to the Restoration of Historic Architecture Calogero Bellanca, 2011
