Times Now Or Ya Es Tiempo:

Between the Lines Monique-Adelle Callahan, 2011-04-22 Between the Lines examines the role of three women poets of African descent Frances Harper Cristina Ayala and Auta de Souza in shaping the literary history of the Americas Despite their different geographic locations each shared common concerns and wrestled in their works with the sociopolitical predicaments of the late nineteenth century Their verse vigorously examined slavery and confronted the existential struggle against boundaries imposed by race nation and gender The writers each conceived of the poem as a dynamic forum where new concepts of individual and collective freedoms could be imagined In their work readers encounter the poem as a site of cross cultural exchange a literary space in which the boundaries of nation can be redefined Between the Lines places national poetics in a global economy of identities histories and languages It looks to poetry to demonstrate how people translate from one cultural or linguistic arena to another how literary expression writes identities and how language is used to conceptualize history The book is the first to juxtapose Cuba Brazil and the United States in a study of nineteenth century women s poetry and the first to include the Lusophone literary tradition in a comparative study of African descendants in Latin America the U S and the Caribbean With close readings and expertly rendered translations Monique Adelle Callahan situates the work of these three poets in a hemispheric context that opens up their writing to new interpretations and expands the definition of African American literature

Stites Mor, 2012-05-27 In Transition Cinema Jessica Stites Mor documents the critical role filmmakers the film industry and state regulators played in Argentina's volatile and unfinished transition from dictatorship to democracy She shows how during periods of both military repression and civilian rule the state moved to control political film production and its content distribution and exhibition She also reveals the strategies that the industry independent filmmakers and film activists employed to comply with or circumvent these regulations Stites Mor traces three distinct generations of transition cinema each defined by a seminal event that shifted the political economy of national filmmaking The first generation of filmmakers witnessed and participated in civil uprisings such as the Cordobazo in 1969 and faced waves of repression violence and censorship This generation gave rise to vibrant underground exhibitions and film clubs and eventually became symbolically linked to the Peronist Left and radical militancy Following the 1983 return to civilian rule a second generation of political filmmakers emerged at the center of public debates when Buenos Aires became the locus for state level cultural programs to address human rights and collective memory Building on that legacy a third generation of filmmakers explored new modes of activist and political filmmaking aided by digital technology They pioneered new genres such as the street phenomenon of cine piquetero and introduced resistance politics and social movements into highly visible public spaces In this captivating work Stites Mor examines how social movements political actors filmmakers and government and industry institutions all became deeply enmeshed in the project of Argentina's transition cinema She demonstrates how film emerged as the chronicler of political struggles in a dialogue with the past present and future whose message transcended both cultural and national borders

Pornographic Sensibilities Nicholas R. Jones, Chad Leahy, 2020-11-29 Pornographic Sensibilities stages a conversation between two fields Medieval Early Modern Hispanic Studies and Porn Studies that traditionally have had little to say to each other The collection offers innovative new approaches to the study of gendered and sexualized bodies in medieval and early modern textual production including literary and historical documents The volume's embrace of the interpretative tools of Porn Studies also inscribes a critical provocation in what ways can contemporary modes of reading the past serve to freshly illuminate not only the contours of that same past but also the very critical assumptions of the present upon which fields like medieval and early modern Hispanic Studies are built In this way Pornographic Sensibilities encourages at once both rigorous historicizations of pre and early modern culture and playful engagement with presentism considered here as a critical tool to undress the hidden assumptions of both past and present This move substantively challenges long held critical orthodoxies among scholars of pre Enlightenment periods for whom the very category of pornography itself has often problematically been framed as an anachronism when applied to their work
