Turned Out Nice Again On Living With The Weather:

Turned Out Nice Again Richard Mabey, 2013-02-18 In his trademark style Richard Mabey weaves together science art and memoirs including his own to show the weather's impact on our culture and national psyche He rambles through the myths of Golden Summers and our persistent state of denial about the winter the Impressionists love affair with London smog seasonal affective disorder SAD do we all get it and the mysteries of storm migraines herrings falling like hail in Norfolk and Saharan dust reddening south coast cars moonbows dog suns fog mirages and Constable's clouds the fact that English has more words for rain than Inuit has for snow the curious eccentricity of country clothing and the mathematical behaviour of umbrella sales We should never apologise for our obsession with the weather It is one of the most profound influences on the way we live and something we all experience in common No wonder it's the natural subject for a greeting between total strangers Turned out nice again

Curating the Future Jennifer Newell, Libby Robin, Kirsten Wehner, 2016-08-12 Curating the Future Museums Communities and Climate Change explores the way museums tackle the broad global issue of climate change It explores the power of real objects and collections to stir hearts and minds to engage communities affected by change Museums work through exhibitions events and specific collection projects to reach different communities in different ways The book emphasises the moral responsibilities of museums to address climate change not just by communicating science but also by enabling people already affected by changes to find their own ways of living with global warming There are museums of natural history of art and of social history The focus of this book is the museum communities like those in the Pacific who have to find new ways to express their culture in a new place The book considers how collections in museums might help future generations stay in touch with their culture even where they have left their place It asks what should the people of the present be collecting for museums in a climate changed future The book is rich with practical museum experience and detailed projects as well as critical and philosophical analyses about where a museum can intervene to speak to this great conundrum of our times Curating the Future is essential reading for all those working in museums and grappling with how to talk about climate change It also has academic applications in courses of museology and museum studies cultural studies heritage studies digital humanities design anthropology and environmental humanities

The Cabaret of Plants Richard Mabey, 2015-10-22 In The Cabaret of Plants Mabey explores the plant species which have challenged our imaginations awoken our wonder and upturned our ideas about history science beauty and belief Picked from every walk of life they encompass crops weeds medicines religious gathering places and a water lily named after a queen Beginning with pagan cults and creation myths the cultural significance of plants has burst upwards sprouting into forms as diverse as the panacea the cure all plant ginseng a single root of which can cost up to 10 000 Newton's apple the

African vegetable elephant or baobab and the mystical night flowering Amazonian cactus the moonflower Ranging widely across science art and cultural history poetry and personal experience Mabey puts plants centre stage and reveals a true botanical cabaret a world of tricksters shape shifters and inspired problem solvers as well as an enthralled audience of romantics eccentric amateur scientists and transgressive artists The Cabaret of Plants celebrates the idea that plants are not simply the furniture of the planet but vital inventive individual beings worthy of respect and that to understand this may be the best way of preserving life together on Earth

Forecast Joe Shute, 2021-06-24 Join Joe Shute as he travels across Britain tracing the history of our seasons and discovering how they are changing We talk about them We plan our lives around them The changing seasons are part of us all But what happens when the weather changes beyond recognition Joe Shute has spent years unpicking Britain's love affair with the weather poring over the centuries of folklore customs and rituals our seasons have inspired But in recent years Shute has noticed a curious thing the British seasons are changing far faster and far more profoundly than we realise Daffodils in December frogspawn in November swallows that no longer fly home floods wildfires and winters without snow Nothing is behaving as it should sending nature into an increasing state of flux In Forecast Shute travels all over Britain tracing the history of the seasons and discovering the extent to which we are now growing disconnected from them While documenting these warped rhythms caused by the changing weather he records the parallels in his personal journey as he and his wife struggle to conceive a child This is a book that races to keep up with the march of the seasons as they rapidly change course It examines how the weather is reshaping the world around us and asks what happens to centuries of culture memory and identity when the very thing they subsist on is slipping away

Weathered Mike Hulme, 2016-06-15 Climate is an enduring idea of the human mind and also a powerful one Today the idea of climate is most commonly associated with the discourse of climate change and its scientific political economic social religious and ethical dimensions However to understand adequately the cultural politics of climate change it is important to establish the different origins of the idea of climate itself and the range of historical political and cultural work that the idea of climate accomplishes In Weathered Cultures of Climate distinguished professor Mike Hulme opens up the many ways in which the idea of climate is given shape and meaning in different human cultures how climates are historicized known changed lived with blamed feared represented predicted governed and at least putatively re designed The Shipping

Forecast Meg Clothier, 2024-10-24 There s a sea lover in every Brit The Shipping Forecast on Radio 4 has been keeping people in tune with the gloriously fickle British weather for a century and capturing our hearts and imaginations along the way Celebrating a hundred years since the first broadcast this book takes you to the heart of what the Shipping Forecast means to us as a nation Each of the ten chapters brings you on a fascinating exploration of a different area of our British maritime history from stormy weather up above to the seabed far below and from fishing boats and battleships to the songs and poems inspired by the forecast This joyous book invites you to sail away into the enchanting world of the forecast and is the perfect companion for anyone curious about our great British skies and seas
