The Care and Handling of Art Objects Marjorie Shelley, 2019-06-25 The Metropolitan Museum of Art

houses one of the world's largest and most comprehensive collections of works of art from antiquities to modern and contemporary material. Their preservation is a responsibility shared by the many individuals employed at the Museum who oversee and have direct contact with the collection on a daily basis. The Care and Handling of Art Objects, first published in the 1940s and continually updated, offers a guide to the best practices in handling and preserving works of art while on display, in storage, and in transit. It explains many of the fundamental principles of conservation that underlie these methods. One of its goals is to make the complexities of caring for a collection readily accessible. The first part offers basic guidelines for the preservation of the diverse types of materials and art objects found in the Met. Each chapter addresses the physical characteristics specific to the particular category and the environmental handling and housing factors to which one should be alert to prevent damage and ensure their preservation. Written by experts in the respective specialty, it addresses the Museum's vast holdings, summarizing the most critical preservation issues, many of which are amplified by photographs. As the table of contents makes evident, these range from paintings on canvas and works on paper and photographs to furniture and objects made of stone, wood, and metals to arms and armor, upholstery, ethnographic materials, and many others. Part II succinctly describes factors that affect the collection as a whole, among them current environmental standards for temperature, relative humidity, light exposure, storage, and art in transit. Based on Museum protocols, it addresses emergency preparedness and response and integrated pest management. For easy reference, it includes charts on storage and display conditions, on factors contributing to deterioration, and a glossary of conservation terms, principles, and housing materials referenced in the individual chapters. Drawing upon the knowledge of conservators, scientists, and curators from many different departments, as well as technicians and engineers whose expertise crosses boundaries of culture, chronology, medium, and condition, The Care and Handling of Art Objects is primarily directed to staff at the Met. It is no less an invaluable resource for students, collectors, small museums, museum study programs, art dealers, and members of the public who want to enhance their understanding of how works of art are safeguarded and the role environment, handling, and materials play in making this possible.

3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Kim Timby, 2015-07-31. Scholars are increasingly investigating photography's broad cultural role, expanding our understanding of the diversity of photographic practices. Kim Timby contributes to this new history of photography by examining the multifaceted story of images that animate with a flick of the wrist or appear vividly three-dimensional without the use of special devices, both made possible by the lenticular process. Using French case studies, this volume broadly weaves 3D and animated lenticular imagery into scientific and popular culture, from early cinema and color reproduction to the birth of modern advertising and the market for studio portraits, postcards, and religious imagery. The motivations behind the invention and reinvention of this pervasive form of imagery from the turn of the twentieth century through the end of the pre-digital era shed new light on our relationship to photographic realism and on the forceful interplay in photography between technological innovation and the desire to be entertained 3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Between Utopia and Entertainment is a profusely illustrated and engaging interdisciplinary study of a wide ranging body of images that have fascinated viewers for generations

Developing Mission Joseph W. Ho, 2022-01-15 In Developing Mission Joseph W Ho offers a transnational cultural history of US and Chinese communities framed by missionary lenses through time and space tracing the lives and afterlives of images cameras and visual imaginations from before the Second Sino Japanese War through the first years of the People's Republic of China When American Protestant and Catholic missionaries entered interwar China they did so with cameras in hand Missions principally aimed at the conversion of souls and the modernization of East Asia became by virtue of the still and moving images recorded quasi anthropological ventures that shaped popular understandings of and formal foreign policy toward China Portable photographic technologies changed the very nature of missionary experience while images that missionaries circulated between China and the United States affected cross cultural encounters in times of peace and war Ho illuminates the centrality of visual practices in the American missionary enterprise in modern China even as intersecting modernities and changing Sino US relations radically transformed lives behind and in front of those lenses In doing so Developing Mission reconstructs the almost lost histories of transnational image makers subjects and viewers across twentieth century China and the United States

Gabriel Lippmann's Colour Photography Hanin Hannouch, 2025-10-01 Physicist Gabriel Lippmann's 1845-1921 photographic process is one of the oldest methods for producing colour photographs So why do the achievements of this 1908 Nobel laureate remain mostly unknown outside niche circles Using the centenary of Lippmann's death as an opportunity to reflect upon his scientific photographic and cultural legacy this book is the first to explore his interferential colour photography Initially disclosed in 1891 the emergence of this medium is considered here through three shaping forces science media and museums A group of international scholars reassess Lippmann's reception in the history of science where he is most recognised by going well beyond his endeavours in France and delving into the complexity of his colour photography as a challenge to various historiographies Moreover they analyse colour photographs as optical media thus pluralising Lippmann photography's ties to art cultural and imperial history as well as media archaeology The contributors also focus on the interferential plate as a material object in need of both preservation and exhibition one that continues to fascinate contemporary analogue photographers This volume allows readers to get to know Lippmann grasp the interdisciplinary complexity of his colourful work and ultimately expand his place in the history of photography
