Title: Everyday Literacy		Subject/Course: ELA (Literature)
Topic: Introduction to Class		Grade: 9th	Designer(s): Steven Conrad
Stage 1- Desired Results
Established Goals: Students of different backgrounds and abilities will form a common vocabulary when talking about literature. (My goal as a teacher to assess the different ability levels of my students both in reading and in writing.) EL.9.2 2006 - READING: Comprehension and Analysis of Texts. EL.9.4 2006 - WRITING: Processes and Features
Understandings: -Students will understand how literacy is seen in their everyday lives, they will understand how common engagement with literacy is a necessary and empowering skill. -Students will understand how common literary devices are used, why they're used, and when it's appropriate to use them in their own writing. -Students will understand the concept of code-switching.		Essential Questions: What counts as a literacy practice? Facebook? Graffiti? Music? Etc... How does literature relate to my life as an Indianapolis teenager? How is literacy changing? Should we let it evolve? Online English? Spanglish? Formal English? AAVE/BVE? How rigid should we be with rules?
Students will know... -Students will know different literary devices, such as theme, metaphor, tone/mood, etc. -Students will know the goals of this course. -Students will know the difference between formal and informal language, and they will know how to code-switch.		Students will be able to ... Students will be able to articulate the difference between common literary devices and modes of writing. Students will be able to argue/discuss the evolving nature of literacy, and they will be able to formally express their argument both in writing and speech. Students will be able to read different modes of literature (poetry, short story, music, etc.).
Stage 2- Assessment Evidence
Performance Tasks: -Students will formally respond to the essential question of whether or not we should let literacy practices evolve by writing an opinionated column for the newspaper, and they will argue their opinion to the class as well.		Other Evidence: -Students will complete a short daily reading/writing assessment, which helps demonstrate their understanding (and informs me of their ability levels). -Students will complete a daily exit pass informing me of something they learned and of a lingering question.
Stage 3- Learning Plan
Daily activities: Due Now individual reading and writing activity (chart skills to work on every morning in skills chart), and Exit Pass every day in which they explain to me one thing they learned and one question they still have. Others: Translate certain texts from one type of English to another (code-switching). Write a column or "Let it Out" to the Indianapolis Star explaining an opinion about evolving literacy (authentic assessment). Write small texts (poems, song lyrics) that apply the types of figurative language learned/reviewed in class to be posted around the class. Likely Texts: "Summer" by Walter Dean Myers, "Blackberry Eating," by Galway Kinnell, "The Road Not

Ubd Unit Plan On Sustainability:

TESOL and Sustainability Jason Goulah, John Katunich, 2020-05-14 In the burgeoning field of ecolinguistics little attention has been given to the ways in which English language teaching is and has become implicated in global ecological crises This book begins a dialogue about the opportunities and responsibilities presented to the TESOL field to re orient professional practice in ways that drive cultural change and engender alternate language practices and metaphors Covering a diverse range of topics including anthropogenic climate change habitat loss food insecurity and mass migration chapters argue that such crises require not only technological innovation but also cultural changes in how human beings relate to each other and their environment Arguing that it is incumbent upon the field of English language teaching to reckon with such cultural changes in how and what we teach TESOL and Sustainability addresses the ways in which discourses such as eco pedagogy the critique of neo liberalism non Western philosophy and post humanist thought can and must inform how and what is taught in ESL and EFL classrooms

Environmental Change in South-East Asia Raymond Bryant, Michael Parnwell, 2005-08-03 Environmental Change in South East Asia brings together scholars journalists consultants and NGO activists to explore the interaction of people politics and ecology Ostensibly green activities plantation forestry eco tourism hydro electricity are revealed as guises used by elites to promote their own political and economic interests Highlighting fatal flaws in presently exclusive economic and ecological approaches the authors stress that neither the quest for sustainable development nor the process of environmental change itself can be understood without reference to political processes
