Critique of Digitality Jan Distelmeyer, 2022-10-12 Dealing with digitality is one of the most urgent challenges of the present The increasing importance and spread of computer technology not only challenges societies and individuals this development also puts pressure on the concept of digitality which tries to grasp the totality and peculiarity of the conditions and consequences of electronic digital computing in all its forms However precisely because digitality is commonplace so should be its critique its analysis and assessment How can an analysis do justice to both fundamental characteristics and changing concrete forms infrastructures and practices How do the developments of a digitalization that programmatically encompasses forms of networking embedding and autonomization shape media cultures and societies How do artificial intelligence and algorithmic government relate to each other how does the immateriality of the digital fit with the materiality of computers How does the changing status and scope of this technology mediate itself This book introduces ongoing debates and develops its own approach to the critique of digitality asking about forms of interfaces and processes of governance This book is a translation of the original German 1st edition Kritik der Digitalität by Jan Distelmeyer published by Springer Fachmedien Wiesbaden GmbH part of Springer Nature in 2021 The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence machine translation by the service DeepL.com A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content so that the book will read stylistically differently from a conventional translation Springer Nature works continuously to further the development of tools for the production of books and on the related technologies to

Marina Grishakova,Maria Poulaki,2019-08-01 The variety in contemporary philosophical and aesthetic thinking as well as in scientific and experimental research on complexity has not yet been fully adopted by narratology By integrating cutting edge approaches this volume takes a step toward filling this gap and establishing interdisciplinary narrative research on complexity Narrative Complexity provides a framework for a more complex and nuanced study of narrative and explores the experience of narrative complexity in terms of cognitive processing affect and mind and body engagement Bringing together leading international scholars from a range of disciplines this volume combines analytical effort and conceptual insight in order to relate more effectively our theories of narrative representation and complexities of intelligent behavior This collection engages important questions on how narrative complexity functions as an agent of cultural evolution how our understanding of narrative complexity can be extended in light of new research in the social sciences and humanities how interactive media produce new types of narrative complexity and how the role of embodiment as a factor of narrative complexity acquires prominence in cognitive science and media studies The contributors explore narrative complexity

Ambient Literature Tom Abba, Jonathan Dovey, Kate Pullinger, 2020-11-30 This book considers how a combination of place based writing and location responsive technologies produce new kinds of literary experiences Building on the work done in the Ambient Literature Project 2016 2018 this book argues that these encounters constitute new literary forms in which the authored text lies at the heart of an embodied and mediated experience The visual sonic social and historic resources of place become the elements of a live and emergent mise en scène Specific techniques of narration including hallucination memory history place based writing and drama as well as reworking of traditional storytelling forms combine with the work of app and user experience design interaction software authoring and GIS geographical information systems to produce ambient experiences where the user reads a textual and sonic literary space These experiences are temporary ambiguous and unpredictable in their meaning but unlike the theatre the gallery or the cinema they take place in the everyday shared world The book explores the potentiality of a new literary form produced by the exchange between location aware cultural objects writers and readers This book and the work it explores lays the ground for a new poetics of situated writing and reading practices

Accidental Agents Martin Crowley, 2022-02-08 In the Anthropocene the fact that human activity is enmeshed with the existence and actions of every kind of other being is inescapable As a result the planetary ecological crisis has brought forth an urgent need to rethink understandings of human action One response holds that the transformations necessary to tackle today's crises will emerge from the distinctive capacity of human beings to transcend their environment Another school of thought calls for seeing action as composite produced by distributed networks of human and nonhuman agents Yet the first of these is open to charges of human exceptionalism while the second according to its critics lacks effective political traction Martin Crowley argues that a new conception of political agency is necessary to break this impasse Engaging with thinkers such as Bruno Latour Bernard Stiegler and Catherine Malabou Crowley proposes an original account of agency as both distributed and decisive Challenging the prevailing view of agency as exclusively human he explores how a politics that incorporates nonhuman agency can intervene in the real world examining timely issues such as climate related migration and digital algorithmic politics A major intervention into ongoing debates in posthumanism political ecology and political theory Accidental Agents reshapes our understanding of political agency in and for a more than human world

Nonhuman Photography Joanna Zylińska, 2024-07-02 A new philosophy of photography that goes beyond humanist concepts to consider imaging practices from which the human is absent as both subject and agent Today in the age of CCTV drones medical body scans and satellite images photography is increasingly decoupled from human agency and human vision In Nonhuman Photography Joanna Zylińska offers a new philosophy of photography going beyond the human centric view to consider imaging practices from which the human is absent Zylińska argues further that even those images produced by humans whether artists or amateurs entail a nonhuman mechanical element that is they involve the execution of technical and cultural algorithms that shape our image making devices as well as our viewing practices At the same time she notes photography is increasingly mobilized to document the precariousness of the human habitat and tasked with helping us imagine a better tomorrow With its conjoined human nonhuman agency and vision Zylińska claims photography functions as both a form of control and a life shaping force Zylińska explores the potential of photography for developing new modes of seeing and imagining and presents images from her own photographic project Active Perceptual Systems She also examines the challenges posed by digitization to established notions of art culture and the media In connecting biological extinction and technical obsolescence and discussing the parallels between photography and fossilization she proposes to understand photography as a light induced process of fossilization across media and across time scales
