Since the spread of classical design and construction amongst the upper echolons of British society in the late seventeenth century traditional construction methods have largely fallen by the wayside Centuries later as the construction industry faces up to its environmental responsibilities this book explores its rich and ancient tradition to provide tried and trusted solutions to modern day construction problems By way of introduction the ancient and historical lifestyles that dictated the nature of traditional construction are explored before focussing on its health and ecological benefits As well as cultural background this book includes a detailed scientific description of traditional building materials and their constituents which draws a sharp contrast with modern petrochemical based materials The studies of traditional buildings included reveal the sustainability of features such as natural ventilation and breathing walls and comparisons with modern construction methods show how they could prevent sick building syndrome The author argues that maintenance for long life by contrast with the modern concept of life cycle costing is at the nub of sustainability and underlies the contribution traditional building construction can make to tackling climate change Over 250 original photos and over fifty bespoke diagrams illustrate the features techniques and characteristics of traditional construction that could make such a valuable contribution to the industry today The inclusion of a close study of how these methods relate to British building regulations makes this book a practical guide for construction professionals as well as an authoritative resource for students and policy makers Best

Rabbat, 2017-07-05 The courtyard house is one of the most enduring architectural forms transcending regional historical and cultural boundaries Its balance of simple appropriate construction environmental control and social and familial structures continues to engage architects and architectural historians That the courtyard house is still relevant today is indicated through its ability to accommodate continual transformation without losing any of its formal integrity and cultural roots This book presents a series of viewpoints on courtyard houses from different periods and in different regions around the world from the Harem courtyards of the Topkapi Palace and the low cost housing settlements of Protectorate Casablanca to contemporary design strategies for courtyard houses in the arid Gulf region Together the essays illuminate issues of particular relevance in architectural art historical and conservation discourses today At Home in the Eighteenth Century Stephen G.
