Winston Churchill was driven by a belief that the English were a superior race whose goals went beyond individual interests to offer an enduring good to the entire world. No better example exists than Churchill's resolve to stand alone against a more powerful Hitler in 1940 while the world's democracies fell to their knees. But there is also the Churchill who frequently inveighed against human rights nationalism and constitutional progress, the imperialist who could celebrate racism and believed India was unsuited to democracy. Drawing on newly released documents and an uncanny ability to separate the facts from the overblown reputation by mid-career Churchill had become a global brand. Richard Toye provides the first comprehensive analysis of Churchill's relationship with the empire. Instead of branding Churchill as a simple hero or villain of history, Toye demonstrates how the statesman evolved over time. He challenges the reader to understand Churchill's need to reconcile the demands of conscience with those of political conformity.

Imagination and the University Jacob Bronowski, Henry Steele Commager, Gordon W. Allport, Paul H. Buck, 1964-12-15. This volume, the Frank Gerstein Lectures for 1963, is the second series of Invitation Lectures to be delivered at York University. The theme, Imagination and the University, was appropriate for, as President Murray Ross states in this Foreword, it is in its early years that a university is sufficiently flexible to utilize imagination in its structure and in its curriculum. York University was in its third year when the Lectures were given. Four distinguished scholars present their views on the importance of an imaginative approach to the different academic disciplines and to the conduct of life in contemporary society as a whole. Jacob Bronowski, speaking on Imagination in Art and Science, draws a clear and striking analogy between the role of imagination in mathematics and in poetry, drawing on his own experiences and contributions in both areas. He stresses that all creative works in art or science must conform to the universal experience of mankind and to the private experiences of each man; the work of science as of art moves us profoundly in mind and in emotion when it matches our experience and at the same time points beyond it. Henry Steele Commager shows how important is the contribution to be made by an imaginative approach to politics, where, as in other fields of human experience, it must not be separated from reality if it is to find expression in something more than words. He points to examples from the past and the present and asks for more imagination in public thinking, if it fits our actions to the reality of change, citing the urgency of such twentieth-century phenomena as the status of Communist China, the predicted population explosion, and the threat of nuclear war. Professor Commager believes that the universities provide the key to this kind of approach, being a supreme example of the creative capacity of mankind, whose function it is to serve the commonwealth of learning. A different kind of insight is offered by Gordon W. Allport, whose subject is Imagination in Psychology. He believes that the present impertinence of psychology can best be cured by endowing it with more imagination. He demands a pluralistic approach to psychological investigation, which would not deny the insights yielded by traditional methods with their characteristic minute analyses, but whose goal would be to fashion a conception of the human person that would exclude nothing that is valid and at the same time preserve an ideal of rational consistency. This could lead in turn to a clear definition of the root motives of mankind even to discovering new formulas for international peace by offsetting particularistic political demands Finally Paul H Buck describes the Harvard House Plan as an example of Imagination and the Curriculum This plan modelled on the Oxford Cambridge College system which is also followed in some Canadian universities is an attempt to make all aspects of undergraduate life a process of education And a truly liberal education for today and tomorrow Professor Buck is confident will combine a programme of general education a programme of specialism and a collegiate way of living

Churchill David Cannadine, 2018-09-06 An entirely new perspective on Churchill and his paintings told in his own words and including material never before published edited and introduced by David Cannadine Across almost 50 years Winston Churchill produced more than 500 paintings His subjects included his family homes at Blenheim and Chartwell evocative coastal scenes on the French Riviera and many sun drenched depictions of Marrakesh in Morocco as well as still life pictures and an extraordinarily revealing self portrait painted during a particularly troubled time in his life In war and peace Churchill came to enjoy painting as his primary means of relaxation from the strain of public affairs In his introduction to Churchill The Statesman as Artist David Cannadine provides the most important account yet of Churchill's life in art which was not just a private hobby but also from 1945 onwards an essential element of his public fame The first part of this book brings together for the first time all of Churchill's writings and speeches on art not only Painting as a Pastime but his addresses to the Royal Academy his reviews of two of the Academy's summer exhibitions and an important speech he delivered about art and freedom in 1937 The second part of the book provides previously uncollected critical accounts of his work by some of Churchill's contemporaries Augustus John's hitherto unpublished introduction to the Royal Academy exhibition of Churchill's paintings in 1959 and essays and reviews by Churchill's acquaintances Sir John Rothenstein Professor Thomas Bodkin and the art critic Eric Newton The book is lavishly illustrated with reproductions of many of Churchill's paintings some of them appearing for the first time Here is Churchill the artist more fully revealed than ever before

Churchill and Company David Dilks, 2012-12-18 Winston Churchill the great wartime leader and peacetime Prime Minister is one of the dominating figures of the 20th century In this stimulating and original book David Dilks the eminent historian of modern Britain and a leading Churchill scholar provides a fascinating source of new discoveries and insights He shows Churchill not only as a war leader and international statesman but also as a private person with a rich variety of interests enthusiasms friendships and rivalries Churchill's relations with other leading politicians and statesmen of the age both within Britain and internationally illuminate his handling of friends and enemies Sometimes these categories were not easily separated for a long while Churchill thought of Stalin as a friend or at least a comrade in arms and only with extreme reluctance did he come to look upon him ultimately as an enemy He regarded Roosevelt with admiration and gratitude yet the balance of evidence suggests that the President felt less warmly towards him especially after 1943 Dilks casts new and penetrating light on Churchill during World War II including his dramatic and troubled relationship with Charles de Gaulle where political problems were softened by Churchill's love of France. The aftermath of World War II, relations with Stalin, the Soviet Union and the Cold War all dominated Churchill's subsequent career. The last chapter draws attention to the influence of history on statesmen and others, not least because no public man of the last century, with the possible exception of de Gaulle, has influenced on Churchill's scale or with his effectiveness the writing and the making of history. Whether in or out of office, Churchill's influence has been felt in all areas of British politics and national life. David Dilks brings Churchill to life for all those interested in modern British and international history, whether student, specialist or general reader.
