

Victoria Queen for 63 years 1837 - 1901	1820	Victoria was born in 1819.
	1830
	1840	Victoria came to the throne in 1837, just after she turned 18. 1840 was an eventful year for Victoria: - she married her German cousin, Prince Albert - got pregnant - got shot at while out in her carriage - she was unharmed - gave birth to her first child, a daughter, also called Victoria 1841: Victoria gave birth to a son, Albert Edward 1842: Victoria was shot at again twice, by two different men - again she was unharmed. In total there were 8 attempts on her life while she was queen. 1843: Victoria gave birth to Alice In the same year, Charles Dickens published A Christmas Carol following on from the success of several other novels 1844: Victoria gave birth to Alfred Between 1845 and 1849, Ireland suffered a terrible famine, often called the Potato Famine. A million people died, and a million more emigrated, many of them to America. 1846: Victoria gave birth to Helena 1847: the 10-hour Act limited working hours to ten-hours per day 1848: Victoria gave birth to Louise
	1850	1850: Victoria gave birth to Arthur 1851: The Great Exhibition was held in Hyde Park from May to October, celebrating industrial design and technology from all over the world. The exhibition included the first public flushing toilets for the use of visitors. These cost a penny to use, which is where we get the phrase 'to spend a penny'. 1851: Victoria gave birth to Leopold
		LUCY WOULD HAVE BEEN BORN IN 1854.
		1854: Florence Nightingale travelled out to the Crimea to nurse British soldiers wounded in battle. In the same year, London Paddington railway station opened, designed by Isambard Kingdom Brunel. 1857: Victoria gave birth to Beatrice. All nine of Victoria's children survived to adulthood, which was very unusual at that time, even in wealthy families. 1859: Charles Darwin published On the Origin of Species outlining his theory of evolution by natural selection.
	1860	1861: Prince Albert died, aged just 42. Victoria went into deep mourning and disappeared from public. 1863: the first underground railway opened between Paddington and Farringdon, using gas-lit carriages pulled by a steam engine. 1865: Lewis Carroll published Alice's Adventures in Wonderland 1866: the Sanitary Act forced authorities to improve sewers, access to clean water, and street cleaning. 1870: the Elementary Education Act was passed, which started to improve the education of children aged between 5 and 12.
		THE SHIMMER ON THE GLASS TAKES PLACE IN 1866.
	1870	1876: Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone. 1877: Thomas Edison invented the phonograph for recording and replaying sound, before moving on to inventing electric light. In the 1870s and 1880s bicycles known as penny farthings became popular. These had a very large front wheel and a small rear wheel.
	1880	1881: the Natural History Museum opened in London 1888: Victoria's eldest grandson, the son of her daughter, Victoria, became Emperor of Germany. He was Kaiser Wilhelm, leader of Germany during the First World War. In the same year Jack the Ripper murdered five women in East London.
	1890	1893: the author, Oscar Wilde, was arrested and sentenced to two years imprisonment and hard labour for being gay. The hardship he suffered in prison contributed to his death in 1900, aged just 46. 1897: Guglielmo Marconi sent the first wireless communication, from Bristol to South Wales. This was the birth of radio.
	1900	Queen Victoria died in 1901, and her son Edward became king. This marked the end of Victorian times, and the beginning of Edwardian England.

Time Was Away Julia Edwards:

Time Was Away Julia Edwards, 2015-12-08 Life doesn't give us many second chances One autumn evening almost fourteen years after she vanished from his life Daniel catches a glimpse of his childhood sweetheart Having seen her he finds he cannot forget her again When Daniel Matlock's proposal to his girlfriend is rejected his world is turned upside down Hoping to make a fresh start he leaves London and returns to the place where he spent his summer holidays as a boy in the heart of the New Forest Too late he realises that the success of his new life depends on finding Hetty his childhood friend and first love But nobody seems to remember her Only when he meets Matthias Werner a former officer in the Luftwaffe does he begin to piece together what happened to her But his search for her has unexpected consequences and brings him into conflict with someone who will stop at nothing to keep the truth from coming out Testimony Taken by the Committee

Charles M. Sheldon, 1903 Painting the Inhabited Landscape Margaretta M. Lovell, 2023-03-27 The impulse in much nineteenth century American painting and culture was to describe nature as a wilderness on which the young nation might freely inscribe its future the United States as a virgin land that is unploughed unfenced and unpainted Insofar as it exhibited evidence of a past its traces pointed to a geologic or cosmic past not a human one The work of the New England artist Fitz H Lane however was decidedly different In this important study Margaretta Markle Lovell singles out the more modestly scaled explicitly inhabited landscapes of Fitz H Lane and investigates the patrons who supported his career with an eye to understanding how New Englanders thought about their land their economy their history and their links with widely disparate global communities Lane's works depict nature as productive and allied in partnership with humans to create a sustainable balanced political economy What emerges from this close look at Lane's New England is a picture not of a virgin wilderness but of a land deeply resonant with its former uses and a human history that incorporates rather than excludes Native Americans as shapers of land and as agents in that history Calling attention to unexplored dimensions of nineteenth century painting Painting the Inhabited Landscape is a major intervention in the scholarship on American art of the period examining how that body of work commented on American culture and informs our understanding of canon formation

President Abraham Lincoln is known as the Great Emancipator the Savior of the Union and an American martyr to the people who read about him But that was not how his sons knew him Presidential historian Alan Manning invites readers to see not the thoughtful burdened president delivering the Gettysburg Address to a war torn nation but a man quietly reading bedtime stories to his sleepy eyed sons and not the resolute commander in chief seeking out winning generals and forming war policy but a man wrestling with his own grown son s desire to join the army and go off to war A combination of history biography and family culture this book follows Lincoln from his growing law practice in Springfield through the turbulent war years in the White House highlighting the same challenges that many fathers face today balancing a successful career with paternal responsibilities a perspective largely ignored by previous Lincoln biographers thus helping to complete the portrait of one of the most popular significant and complex figures in American history Child-garden of Story, Song and Play ,1900
