The tiny house movement is gaining momentum and popularity for its cost effectiveness and simplicity. People who support this movement are happy to live in a downsized home; their tiny house is a lifestyle that they adopt, adapt, and are happy in doing so. While one might argue the disadvantages of living in a tiny space, the financial freedom that it brings along cannot be disregarded. The average size of a house in the United States of America was 1 500 square feet in the 1950's, now when the family sizes are shrinking, the average house size is 2 400 square feet. The lavish spaces in a 2 400 square foot house lie dormant for most part of the year. One such classic example is the living room which serves its purpose for a couple of hours during the Christmas season; the rest of the time its existence is hardly noticed or acknowledged. Ditto for the multiple bathrooms, the huge dining room, bedrooms, and garage parking. The cost one pays for a huge home that is hardly used is hefty: a mortgage that stretches almost until the end of one's retirement. Add to this the maintenance cost and the carbon footprint of a huge house.
