Two Or Three Things I Know For Sure

Carolyn Perry, Mary Weeks-Baxter

Two Or Three Things I Know For Sure:

Two or Three Things I Know for Sure Dorothy Allison, 1996-08-01 Bastard Out of Carolina nominated for the 1992 National Book Award for fiction introduced Dorothy Allison as one of the most passionate and gifted writers of her generation. Now in Two or Three Things I Know for Sure she takes a probing look at her family's history to give us a lyrical complex memoir that explores how the gossip of one generation can become legends for the next. Illustrated with photographs from the author's personal collection Two or Three Things I Know for Sure tells the story of the Gibson women, sisters, cousins, daughters, and aunts, and the men who loved them, often abused them, and nonetheless shared their destinies. With luminous clarity Allison explores how desire surprises and what power feels like to a young girl as she confronts abuse. As always, Dorothy Allison is provocative, confrontational, and brutally honest. Two or Three Things I Know for Sure, steeped in the hard-won wisdom of experience, expresses the strength of her unique vision with beauty and eloquence. The Advocate, 1995-09-05 The Advocate is a lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, LGBT monthly newsmagazine. Established in 1967, it is the oldest continuing LGBT publication in the United States. The Emperor Has No Clothes Tema Okun, 2010-10-01 The Emperor Has No Clothes: Teaching About Race and Racism to People Who Don't Want to Know offers theoretical grounding and practical approaches for leaders and teachers interested in effectively addressing racism and other oppressive constructs. The book draws both on the author's extensive experience teaching about race and racism in classroom and community settings and from the theory and practice of a wide range of educators, activists, and researchers committed to social justice. The first chapter looks at the toxic consequences of our western cultural insistence on profit, binary thinking, and individualism to establish the theoretical framework for teaching about race and racism. Chapter two investigates privileged resistance, offering a psycho-social history of denial, particularly as a product of racist culture. Chapter three reviews the research on the construction and reconstruction of dominant culture, both historically and now, in order to establish sound strategic approaches that educators, teachers, facilitators, and activists can take as we work together to move from a culture of profit and fear to one of shared hope and love. Chapter four lays out the stages of a process that supports teaching about racist, white supremacy culture, explaining how students can be taken through an iterative process of relationship-building, analysis, planning, action, and reflection. The final chapter borrows from the brilliant, brave, and incisive writer Dorothy Allison to discuss the things the author knows for sure about how to teach people to see that which we have been conditioned to fear, knowing. The chapter concludes with how to encourage and support collective and collaborative action as a critical goal of the process. Writing as a Way of Healing Louise DeSalvo, 2000-03-17 In this inspiring book based on her twenty years of research, highly acclaimed author and teacher Louise DeSalvo reveals the healing power of writing. DeSalvo shows how anyone can use writing as a way to heal the emotional and physical wounds that are an inevitable part of life. Contrary to what most self-help books claim, just writing won't help you; in fact, there's abundant evidence that the wrong kind of writing

can be damaging DeSalvo's program is based on the best available and most recent scientific studies about the efficacy of using writing as a restorative tool With insight and wit she illuminates how writers from Virginia Woolf to Henry Miller to Audre Lorde to Isabel Allende have been transformed by the writing process Writing as a Way of Healing includes valuable advice and practical techniques to guide and inspire both experienced and beginning writers

Taboo, 2005 Sharing Breath Sheila Batacharya, Yuk-Lin Renita Wong, 2018-10-31 Treating bodies as more than discursive in social research can feel out of place in academia As a result embodiment studies remain on the outside of academic knowledge construction and critical scholarship However embodiment scholars suggest that investigations into the profound division created by privileging the mind/intellect over the body/spirit are integral to the project of decolonization The field of embodiment theorizes bodies as knowledgeable in ways that include but are not solely cognitive The contributors to this collection suggest developing embodied ways of teaching learning and knowing through embodied experiences such as yoga mindfulness illness and trauma Although the contributors challenge Western educational frameworks from within and beyond academic settings they also acknowledge and draw attention to the incommensurability between decolonization and aspects of social justice projects in education By addressing this tension ethically and deliberately the contributors engage thoughtfully with decolonization and make a substantial and sometimes unsettling contribution to critical studies in education
