Author of x, y, z, & Dimensions of Science Fiction

"The tradition of the writer-critic, established in the 1950s by James Blish, Damon Knight, James Gunn, and a few others, has been a consistent and important part of science fiction scholarship, carried on after the 1950s by Algis Budrys, Norman Spinrad, Alexei Panshin, Samuel Delany, and most recently Damien Broderick..."

under the editorship of Moorcock and had himself shifted gear into the next mode of SF publishing as editor of the paperback anthology series New Writings in SF Boston and Broderick's series will become the definitive critical histories of these important British magazines Complete with indices of names and titles cited Alien Starswarm / Human's Burden (Wildside Double #6) Robert Sheckley, Damien Broderick, Rory Barnes, 2010-10-01 In the tradition of the old Ace Doubles flip one book over to read the second title here is the sixth Wildside Double ALIEN STARSWARM by Robert Sheckley Salvatore commands the battleship Endymion He's seen his share of battles and fought them bravely too So he doesn't hesitate when beautiful Princess Hatari pleads for his help She wants to regain her throne but it may be more than Salvatore can accomplish for the deadly race known as the Balderdash has taken over the planet Melchior and now even his own men have turned against him HUMAN'S BURDEN by Damien Broderick and Rory Barnes Poor Jack Wong is a clueless cadet at the Unified Space Academy when his pod is stranded on a planet of disgusting aliens All he wants to do other than escape is to fulfill his proud duty to advance Earth Culture's Primary Heuristic Wherever possible find the weak spot in an alien civilization and interfere as much as possible for the benefit of humanity It's the Human's Burden But everything comes unstuck made worse by his irritating Machiavellian AI And that's just the start of Jack's troubles in space and time

Building New Worlds, 1946-1959 John Boston, Damien Broderick, 2013-02-13 Building New Worlds is a history of a pivotal decades long episode in the birth and growth of today's science fiction Enthralling and amusing it's written with affection and wit This is no dry modishly theorized academic analysis Nor is it a rah rah celebration of the Good Old Days Here is a candid and astute reader's response to a magazine that by today's standards was often comically bad but was also immensely important in its time and improved like the Little Engine or maybe Starship That Could New Worlds is best remembered today as the fountainhead of the New Wave of audacious experimental SF in the second half of the 1960s under editor Michael Moorcock But these first pioneering issues from 1946-59 were edited by the magazine's founder John Ted Carnell 1912-72 Carnell was a pillar of the old style UK SF establishment but gamely supportive of innovators most famously of the brilliant J G Ballard Brian W Aldiss and John Brunner whose early work he nurtured The story of how New Worlds got started survived and got better is essential to the history of the genres of the fantastic in the UK and indeed the world And huge fun to read Watch for the companion volumes New Worlds Before the New Wave and Strange Highways dealing with New World's companion magazine Science Fantasy The Ruined Queen of Harvest World Damien Broderick, 2011-02-01 A story for everyone who ever loved the work of the late great SF writer Cordwainer Smith From An Introduction to The Ruined Queen of Harvest World Perhaps nobody in all the world had ever written the future so well hauntingly yearningly as Cordwainer Smith And then he had gone barely more than half a century old We would never learn the rest of those stories that history of the deep future that golden journey oh oh oh Well certainly I'm not foolish enough to imagine I might add to them might emulate that distinctive voice building layer by layer its deceptively simple confection But some reverberation of the voice of Cordwainer Smith drums away down inside and finally I let it speak not mimicry of the inimitable but a respectful bow toward Smith's shade with a wry grin and maybe a wink At the Publisher's request this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software DRM applied Time Considered as a Series of Thermite Burns in No Particular Order Damien Broderick, 2011-05-25 Time travel changing history forestalling atrocities it's not a job for the weak For one thing the things people in the future wear At the Publisher's request this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software DRM applied Anatomy of Science Fiction Donald E. Morse, 2006 This wide ranging collection of essays re opens the connection between science fiction and the increasingly science fictional world Kevin Alexander Boon reminds us of the degree to which the epistemology of science fiction infects modern political discourse Kory Pintor explores the narrative structures of utopian estrangement and Tamara Bockney and Brian Attebery take us deeper into the cultural exchanges between science fiction and the literary and political worlds In the second half Donald Morse Nicholas Ruddick and Olivia Federmayer look at the way in which science fiction has tackled major ethical issues while Amy Novak and Kálmán Matolcsy consider memory and evolution as cultural batteries The book ends with important discussions of East German and Hungarian science fiction by Usch Kiausch and Donald Morse respectively I envisage that the book will find a market both among academics and as a recommended text to undergraduates as it offers interesting essays on important readers The tendency for science fiction to be offered as a literature class to science majors is not usually considered but this book would be particularly appropriate for such a market Dr Farah Mendelsohn Middlesex University Twenty-first-century British and Irish Novelists Michael R. Index to Science Fiction Anthologies and Collections William Contento, 1978 Strange Constellations Russell Blackford, Van Ikin, Sean McMullen, 1999-05-30 Australia has long been thought of by Europeans as an exotic and mysterious land During the nineteenth century it was envisioned much as the moon and Mars are today a distant and uncharted place with hidden possibilities for explorations and adventures The continent captured the imagination of European writers in the 1800s and with its settlement Australia became the setting for tales of lost worlds and ancient civilizations Australia has since developed a rich national literature and perhaps because of its novelty and wilderness it has inspired numerous science fiction writers This book provides a critical survey of the history of Australian science fiction from its nineteenth century origins to the present The volume proceeds chronologically with an introductory section on the origins of Australian science fiction before 1925 It then turns to the rise of traditional science fiction in Australia from 1926 to 1959 with discussions of such writers as James Morgan Walsh Norma Hemming and Wynne Whiteford A section on the period from 1960 to 1974 examines the growing national recognition given to such Australian science fiction writers as David Rome and Jack Wodhams while a section on science fiction between 1975 and 1984 reviews the rise of small presses and the growth of literary criticism of the genre in Australia A final section addresses the maturation of Australian science fiction from 1985 to 1998 with attention to Aussiecon Two Extensive bibliographic information concludes the volume Science-fiction Studies ,
