Resistance Shane Moran,2021-04-19 In Resistance Sol Plaatje and South Africa Shane Moran studies Sol Plaatje the founding secretary of what was to become the African National Congress ANC and his work within the context of colonial politics and resistance Arguing for a return to the study of one of the founders of anti racism Moran explores issues of land reform human rights and the legacy of colonialism Through an in depth analysis of Plaatje s resistance to racial domination

Moran examines the nature of the struggles that continue within and beyond South Africa today. In particular, Moran analyzes events from the beginning of the previous century that shaped post 1994 South Africa, such as the resolution of the ANC to expropriate land without compensation.

Higher Education Pathways Ashwin, Paul, Case, Jennifer M., 2018-12-14. In what ways does access to undergraduate education have a transformative impact on people and societies? What conditions are required for this impact to occur? What are the pathways from an undergraduate education to the public good, including inclusive economic development? These questions have particular resonance in the South African higher education context, which is attempting to tackle the challenges of widening access and improving completion rates in a system in which the segregations of the apartheid years are still apparent. Higher education is recognised in core legislation as having a distinctive and crucial role in building post-apartheid society. Undergraduate education is seen as central to addressing skills shortages in South Africa. It is also seen to yield significant social returns, including a consistent positive impact on societal institutions and the development of a range of capabilities that have public as well as private benefits. This book offers comprehensive contemporary evidence that allows for a fresh engagement with these pressing issues.

Decolonisation in Universities Jonathan Jansen, 2019-08-01. In this collection of case studies and stories from the field, South African scholars come together to trade stories on how to decolonise the university. Shortly after the giant bronze statue of Cecil John Rhodes came down at the University of Cape Town, student protestors called for the decolonisation of universities. It was a word hardly heard in South Africa's struggle lexicon, and many asked: What exactly is decolonisation? This edited volume brings together the best minds in curriculum theory to address this important question. In the process, several critical questions are raised: Is decolonisation simply a slogan for addressing other pressing concerns on campuses and in society? What is the colonial legacy with respect to curriculum, and can it be undone? How is the project of curriculum decolonisation similar to or different from the quest for postcolonial knowledge, indigenous knowledge, or a critical theory of knowledge? What does decolonisation mean in a digital age where relationships between knowledge and power are shifting? The book combines strong conceptual analyses with novel case studies of attempts to do decolonisation in settings as diverse as South Africa, Uganda, Tanzania, and Mauritius. Such a comparative perspective enables reasonable judgements to be made about the prospects for institutional take-up within the curriculum of century-old universities.
