The Uncensored War The Media And Vietnam:

The Uncensored War Daniel C. Hallin, 1989-04-14 Vietnam was America's most divisive and unsuccessful foreign war. It was also the first to be televised and the first of the modern era fought without military censorship. From the earliest days of the Kennedy-Johnson escalation right up to the American withdrawal and even today the media's role in Vietnam has continued to be intensely controversial. The Uncensored War gives a richly detailed account of what Americans read and watched about Vietnam. Hallin draws on the complete body of the New York Times coverage from 1961 to 1965, a sample of hundreds of television reports from 1965-73 including television coverage filmed by the Defense Department in the early years of the war and interviews with many of the journalists who reported it to give a powerful critique of the conventional wisdom both conservative and liberal about the media and Vietnam. Far from being a consistent adversary of government policy in Vietnam, Hallin shows the media were closely tied to official perspectives throughout the war, though divisions in the government itself and contradictions in its public relations policies caused every administration at certain times to lose its ability to manage the news effectively. As for television, it neither showed the literal horror of war nor did it play a leading role in the collapse of support; it presented a highly idealized picture of the war in the early years and shifted toward a more critical view only after public unhappiness and elite divisions over the war were well advanced.

The Uncensored War Daniel C. Hallin, 1989 Don dam pa'i chos kyi's rnam par rgyal ba ... mdo, 1949 Defence and the Media in Time of Limited War Peter R Young, 2013-09-13 First Published in 2004 Events in the Gulf Crisis of 1990-91 have highlighted the importance of the increasingly complex and difficult relations between Defence and the Media in time of War, especially in time of limited conflict when the well-being let alone the security of the home nation may not be affected. This problem has become especially acute given the growth of the new high technology media and its global spread and immediacy. The question of how to reconcile the competing demands for secrecy on the one hand and the public's right to know on the other is fast emerging as a major question of our times. In Brisbane during 3-5 April 1991 there was held what is believed to be the first ever International Conference on the topic of Defence and the Media in Time of Limited Conflict to look at this and other issues stemming from the problem. Jointly funded by the Queensland University of Technology and the Australian Department of Defence, the three-day Conference was a major success, attracting 160 delegates from Great Britain, the United States, Zambia, Papua New Guinea, Brunei, New Zealand, France, Indonesia, and of course Australia. This volume publishes nearly all the papers delivered at this conference whose main focus was on post-1945 limited wars, especially Vietnam, Northern Ireland, the Falklands, Grenada, and the Gulf, all of which receive detailed analysis.

Media and Society into the 21st Century Lyn Gorman, David McLean, 2009-02-17 Media and Society into the 21st Century captures the breathtaking revolutionary sweep of mass media from the late 19th century to the present day. Updated and expanded new edition including coverage of recent media developments and the continued impact of technological change. Newly reworked chapters on media war

War and the Media Paul M. Haridakis, Barbara S. Hugenberg, Stanley T. Wearden, 2014-01-10 Mass communication is used by governments to support their war efforts while media images are created or manipulated to inform persuade or guide the consumers of those images But this book looks beyond the obvious The contributors examine historical and contemporary examples that reflect the role of the media or mass communication or both during wartime The essays highlight the centrality of communication to the perpetuation and to the resolution of war suggesting that the symbiotic relationship between communication and war is as important to understand as war itself
