Freeth, Rafael Treviño, 2024-01-08 The question of whether to disclose that a text is a translation and thereby give visibility to the translator has dominated discussions on translation throughout history Despite becoming one of the most ubiquitous terms in translation studies however the concept of translator in visibility is often criticized for being vague overly adaptable and grounded in literary contexts This interdisciplinary volume therefore draws on concepts from fields such as sociology the digital humanities and interpreting studies to develop and operationalize theoretical understandings of translator visibility beyond these existing criticisms and limitations Through empirical case studies spanning areas including social media research reception studies institutional translation and literary translation this volume demonstrates the value of understanding the visibilities of translators and translation in the plural and adds much needed nuance to one of translation studies most pervasive polarizing and imprecise concepts      The Routledge Handbook of the History of Translation Studies Anne Lange, Daniele Monticelli, Christopher Rundle, 2024-03-20 The Routledge Handbook of the History of Translation Studies is an exploration of the history of translation and interpreting studies TIS as a field of intellectual enquiry The volume covers the evolution of thinking on translation from the earliest discourses in Assyria Egypt Israel China India Greece and Rome up to the early 20th century when TIS emerged as an identifiable academic field The volume also traces the institutionalization of TIS and its key concepts from their beginnings in the 1920s in Ukraine up to their contemporary interdisciplinary manifestations Written by leading international scholars many of whom played a direct role in the events they describe the chapters in this volume provide a comprehensive and in depth account of the birth and consolidation of translation and interpreting studies as a thriving interdisciplinary With a focus on providing readers with the methodological and theoretical tools they need to conduct research as well as background in the historiography of TIS this handbook is an indispensable resource for all students and researchers of translation and interpreting studies      Translation and Language in Nineteenth-Century Ireland Anne O'Connor, 2017-03-16 This book provides an in depth study of translation and translators in nineteenth century Ireland using translation history to widen our understanding of cultural exchange in

The Translator's Visibility Larisa Cercel,Alice Leal,2025-05-05 This collection illuminates the epistemological and philosophical underpinnings of Lawrence Venuti's seminal The Translator's Invisibility extending these conversations through a contemporary lens of epistemic justice while also exploring its manifestations and transposing it to different disciplines and contexts The volume is divided into five parts The opening chapters provide contemporary foundations and a clear epistemological apparatus to conceptualise the debate on the translator's visibility and explore some of the philosophical underpinnings of the debate The following chapters offer analysis of some contemporary manifestations and illustrations of the translator's visibility among translators and translation thinkers and restage the debate in diverse contexts such as in European Union identity politics and Chinese Buddhist translation and disciplines such as film studies A final chapter takes stock of the impact of machine translation to critically reflect on the future of translation and translator studies This book will be of interest to students and scholars in translation and interpreting studies philosophy cultural studies and literary studies as well as the humanities more broadly

Contra Instrumentalism Lawrence Venuti,2019-07-01 Contra Instrumentalism questions the long accepted notion that translation reproduces or transfers an invariant contained in or caused by the source text This instrumental model of translation has dominated translation theory and commentary for more than two millennia and its influence can be seen today in elite and popular cultures in academic institutions and in publishing in scholarly monographs and in literary journalism in the most rarefied theoretical discourses and in the most commonly used clichés Contra Instrumentalism aims to end the dominance of instrumentalism by showing how it grossly oversimplifies translation practice and fosters an illusion of immediate access to source texts Lawrence Venuti asserts that all translation is an interpretive act that necessarily entails ethical responsibilities and political commitments Venuti argues that a hermeneutic model offers a more comprehensive and incisive understanding of translation that enables an appreciation of not only the creative and scholarly aspects of what a translator does but also the crucial role translation plays in the cultural and social institutions that shape human life

Positionalities of Translation Studies Garda Elsherif,Joanna Sobesto,2025-06-12 This volume explores historical cultural linguistic and anthropocentric influences on Translation Studies TS It brings together nuanced individual self reflexive case studies and juxtaposes them in order to provoke discussion on the role of contemporary researchers in the discipline of TS As well as reflecting on the historical and geographical dimensions of the situatedness of TS the book builds on existing reflections on the local political and linguistic positions of TS and examines the practical and methodological consequences of these discussions By considering insights and perspectives from various disciplines the contributors refer to the current state of the art in TS and reconstruct the discussions held on Eurocentrism anthropocentrism and the historicity of TS that have been discussed in isolation so far This volume maps potential relations between them and introduces an analytical concept of positionality that highlights commonalities among various discourses As well as theoretical and historical analysis the contributors ask how to methodologically deal with this inevitable positioning of research in contemporary research practice The contributions cover various aspects of positionalities and its influences on translation research including gender anthropocentrism experiential knowledge and geopolitics They also explore various histories of translation studies in different temporal spatial and linguistic settings such as China Chinese Iran Persian the Netherlands English Ukraine Ukrainian Russian and France French thereby highlighting that TS as a discipline is not a monolith but consists of various histories interconnected with each other

Making the 'Invisible' Visible? Martyn Gray, 2024 This book examines the criteria against which translated works are assessed in the year 2022 It not only provides a novel cross cultural insight into reviewing practices assessing how translations are reviewed differently in the United Kingdom France and Germany but it also compares the way in which reviewers for different platforms from a popular platform open to reviews from the general public through mainstream broadsheets and cultural supplements to specialised literary magazines assess translated works The book takes its inspiration from The Translator's Invisibility A History of Translation in which Lawrence Venuti examines the reviewing of translations and contends that fluency is the main criterion against which translations are read and assessed by reviewers ultimately rendering the translator invisible The book therefore provides a timely and thorough update to Venuti's study and offers insights into the status of translation in book reviews
