Trauma Spectrum Robert Scaer, 2005-07-05 Bob Scaer a leading neurologist offers hope to those who wish to transform trauma and better understand their lives The Forgiveness Project Michael Barry, 2019 All religions value forgiveness but only Christianity requires it Internalizing anger is destructive to our spiritual health and can destroy families marriages and even churches But what about our physical health Is there a relationship between a spirit of unforgiveness and cancer Between forgiveness and healing How do you really forgive After thorough medical theological and sociological research and clinical experience at Cancer Treatment Centers of America CTCA author and pastor Michael Barry has made a startling discovery the immune system and forgiveness are very much connected Through the inspiring stories of five cancer patients Barry helps readers identify and overcome the barriers that prevent healing and peace See how a breast cancer patient named Jayne experienced spiritual and physical renewal when she learned to forgive Meet Cathy whose story illustrates how forgiveness can positively change relationships Be inspired by Sharon s story of spontaneous remission With each true account comes proven strategies tested and used by CTCA that readers can implement to find peace with their past relief from their hatefulness and hope for healing Competing titles may talk about forgiveness but none specifically address the connection between forgiveness and physical health or offer forgiveness as a specific step toward healing from cancer The Forgiveness Project presents scientific findings in easy to understand accessible language and offers practical steps to help Christians let go of past wrongs and find peace Trauma Practice Anna B. Stanley, PhD, 2019-09-24 I don t think I ve ever read a book that paints such a complex and accurate landscape of what it is like to live with the legacy of trauma as this book does while offering a comprehensive approach to healing from the foreword by Bessel van der Kolk A pioneering researcher gives us a new understanding of stress and trauma as well as the tools to heal and thrive Stress is our internal response to an experience that our brain perceives as threatening or challenging Trauma is our response to an experience in which we feel powerless or lacking agency Until now researchers have treated these conditions as different but they actually lie along a continuum Dr Elizabeth Stanley explains the significance of this continuum how it affects our resilience in the face of challenge and why an event that s stressful for one person can be traumatizing for another This groundbreaking book examines the cultural norms that impede resilience in America especially our collective tendency to disconnect stress from its potentially extreme consequences and override our need to recover It explains the science of how to direct our attention to perform under stress and recover from trauma With training we can access agency even in extreme stress environments In fact any maladaptive behavior or response conditioned through stress or trauma can with intentionality and understanding be reconditioned and healed The key is to use strategies that access not just the thinking brain but also the survival brain By directing our attention in particular ways we can widen the window within which our thinking brain and survival brain work together cooperatively When we use awareness to regulate our biology this way we can access our best uniquely human qualities our compassion courage curiosity creativity and connection with others By building our resilience we can train ourselves to make wise decisions and access choice even during times of incredible stress uncertainty and change With stories from men and women Dr Stanley has trained in settings as varied as military bases healthcare facilities and Capitol Hill as well as her own
