The Territories Of Science And Religion:

The Territories of Science and Religion Peter Harrison, 2015-04-06 Peter Harrison takes what we think we know about science and religion dismantles it and puts it back together again in a provocative new way It is a mistake to assume as most do that the activities and achievements that are usually labeled religious and scientific have been more or less enduring features of the cultural landscape of the West Harrison by setting out the history of science and religion to see when and where they come into being and to trace their mutations over time reveals how distinctively Western and modern they are Only in the past few hundred years have religious beliefs and practices been bounded by a common notion and set apart from the secular And the idea of the natural sciences as discrete activities conducted in isolation from religious and moral concerns is even more recent dating from the nineteenth century Putting the so called opposition between religion and science into historical perspective as Harrison does here for the first time has profound implications for our understanding of the present and future relations between them The Territories of Human Reason Alister E. McGrath, 2019 The Territories of Human Reason is the first major study to explore the emergence of multiple situated rationalities It focuses on the relation of the natural sciences and Christian theology but its approach can easily be extended to other disciplines The Landscapes of Science and Religion Nick Spencer, Hannah Waite, 2025-01-24 The relationship between science and religion has long been a heated debate and is becoming an ever more popular topic The scientific capacity to manipulate and change humans and their environment through genetic engineering life extension and AI is going to take a huge leap forward in the twenty first century provoking endless debates around humans playing God But what do we mean by this Asking this question is surprisingly hard work Attempts to essentialise science let alone religion quickly run into trouble Where are the boundaries Whose definition of science is definitive Which concept of religious is the authoritative one Ultimately neither science nor religion can be pinned down to one single meaning or definition Rather they encompass a family of definitions that relate to one another in a complex web of shifting ways Drawing on extensive research with over a hundred leading thinkers in the UK including Martin Rees Brian Cox Susan Greenfield A C Grayling Ray Tallis Linda Woodhead Steve Bruce Adam Rutherford Robin Dunbar Francesca Stavrakopoulou and Iain McGilchrist The Landscapes of Science and Religion takes the much needed step of asking what science and religion actually are before turning to the familiar question of how they relate to one another Building on this by paying particular attention to those who sense some form of conflict here Spencer and Waite explore where the perceived conflict really lies What exactly are people disagreeing about when they disagree about science and religion and what if anything can we do to improve that disagreement and bring about a fruitful dialogue between these two important human endeavours Science, Religion, and the Protestant Tradition James C. Ungureanu, 2019-10-03 The story of the conflict thesis between science and religion the notion of perennial conflict or warfare between the two is part of our modern self understanding As the story goes John William Draper 1811 1882 and

Andrew Dickson White 1832 1918 constructed dramatic narratives in the nineteenth century that cast religion as the relentless enemy of scientific progress And yet despite its resilience in popular culture historians today have largely debunked the conflict thesis Unravelling its origins James Ungureanu argues that Draper and White actually hoped their narratives would preserve religious belief For them science was ultimately a scapegoat for a much larger and more important argument dating back to the Protestant Reformation where one theological tradition was pitted against another a more progressive liberal and diffusive Christianity against a more traditional conservative and orthodox Christianity By the mid nineteenth century narratives of conflict between science and religion were largely deployed between contending theological schools of thought However these narratives were later appropriated by secularists freethinkers and atheists as weapons against all religion By revisiting its origins development and popularization Ungureanu ultimately reveals that the conflict thesis was just one of the many unintended consequences of the Protestant Reformation The Territories of Human Reason Alister E. McGrath,2018 The Territories of Human Reason explores the emergence of multiple situated rationalities It focuses on the relation of the natural sciences and Christian theology but its approach can easily be extended to other disciplines It provides a robust intellectual framework for discussion of transdisciplinarity which has become a major theme in many parts of the academic world McGrath offers a major reappraisal of what it means to be rational which will have significant impact on older discussions of this theme He sets out to explore the consequences of the seemingly inexorable move away from the notion of a single universal rationality towards a plurality of cultural and domain specific methodologies and rationalities This groundbreaking volume will provoke intense discussion and debate Christian Faith in an Age of Science William North Rice,1904 The Poet of Science William North Rice,1919 Some New World Peter Harrison,2024-04-18 This masterful contribution to intellectual history offers a better understanding of secular modernity by focusing on naturalism supernaturalism and belief Science and Religion Around the World John Hedley Brooke,Ronald L. Numbers,2011-01-14 The past quarter century has seen an explosion of interest in the history of science and religion But all too often the scholars writing it have focused their attention almost exclusively on the Christian experience with only passing reference to other traditions of both science and faith At a time when religious ignorance and misunderstanding have lethal consequences such provincialism must be avoided and in this pioneering effort to explore the historical relations of what we now call science and religion the authors go beyond the Abrahamic traditions to examine the way nature has been understood and manipulated in regions as diverse as ancient China India and sub Saharan Africa Science and Religion around the World also provides authoritative discussions of science in Judaism Christianity and Islam as well as an exploration of the relationship between science and the loss of religious beliefs The narratives included in this book demonstrate the value of plural perspectives and of the importance of location for the construction and perception of science religion relations The quarterly journal of science and annals of mining, metallurgy, engineering, industrial arts, manufactures, and technology ,1876 Religion, Science, and Empire Peter Gottschalk,2013 Peter Gottschalk offers a compelling study of how through the British implementation of scientific taxonomy in the subcontinent Britons and Indians identified an inherent divide between mutually antagonistic religious communities England's ascent to power coincided with the rise of empirical science as an authoritative way of knowing not only the natural world but the human one as well The British scientific passion for classification combined with the Christian impulse to differentiate people according to religion led to a designation of Indians as either Hindu or Muslim according to rigidly defined criteria that paralleled classification in botanical and zoological taxonomies Through an historical and ethnographic study of the north Indian village of Chainpur Gottschalk shows that the Britons presumed categories did not necessarily reflect the Indians concepts of their own identities though many Indians came to embrace this scientism and gradually accepted the categories the British instituted through projects like the Census of India the Archaeological Survey of India and the India Museum Today's propagators of Hindu Muslim violence often cite scientific formulations of difference that descend directly from the categories introduced by imperial Britain Religion Science and Empire will be a valuable resource to anyone interested in the colonial and postcolonial history of religion in India The Church and Science Bertram Coghill Alan Windle,1917 The Golden Treasury of the History, Topography, Literature, Science, Art, and Religion of the Various Countries of the Globe James Hunter,1887 The Union Seminary Review ,1928 Quarterly Journal of Science, and Annals of Mining, Metallurgy, Engineering, Industrial Arts, Manufactures, and Technology ,1876 Journal of Science ,1876 The American Journal of Science ,1888 The American journal of science and arts "The" Quarterly Journal of Science ,1876 The Popular Science Monthly ,1893 Special Report of Proceedings, Etc ,1908
