Unequal Treatment Confronting Racial And Ethnic Disparities In Health Care With Cd:

Unequal Treatment Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Understanding and Eliminating Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care, 2002-10-02 Racial and ethnic disparities in health care are known to reflect access to care and other issues that arise from differing socioeconomic conditions. There is, however, increasing evidence that even after such differences are accounted for, race and ethnicity remain significant predictors of the quality of health care received. In Unequal Treatment, a panel of experts documents this evidence and explores how persons of color experience the health care environment. The book examines how disparities in treatment may arise in health care systems and looks at aspects of the clinical encounter that may contribute to such disparities. Patients' and providers' attitudes, expectations, and behavior are analyzed. How to intervene: Unequal Treatment offers recommendations for improvements in medical care financing, allocation of care, availability of language translation, community-based care, and other arenas. The committee highlights the potential of cross-cultural education to improve provider-patient communication and offers a detailed look at how to integrate cross-cultural learning within the health professions. The book concludes with recommendations for data collection and research initiatives. Unequal Treatment will be vitally important to health care policymakers, administrators, providers, educators, and students, as well as advocates for people of color. Unequal Treatment Brian D. Smedley, 2003 The book relates the findings of the National Institute of Medicine's Committee for Understanding and Eliminating Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care. The findings show that racial and ethnic minorities tend to receive a lower quality of healthcare in the United States than do non-minorities. Unequal Treatment Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Understanding and Eliminating Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care, 2009-02-06 Racial and ethnic disparities in health care are known to reflect access to care and other issues that arise from differing socioeconomic conditions. Ending Unequal Treatment Georges Benjamin,Jennifer De Voe,Francis Amankwah,Sharyl J. Nass,2024 Racial and ethnic inequities in health and health care impact individual well being contribute to millions of premature deaths and cost the United States hundreds of billions of dollars annually Addressing these inequities is vital to improving the health of the nation s most disadvantaged communities and will also help to achieve optimal health for all In 2003 the Institute of Medicine examined these inequities in Unequal Treatment Confronting Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care Because disparities persist the National Academies convened an expert committee with support from the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality and the National Institutes of Health The committee s report reviews the major drivers of health care disparities provides insight into successful and unsuccessful interventions identifies gaps in the evidence base and makes recommendations to advance health equity Publisher s website Unequal Treatment Revisited National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Board on Health Care Services, 2024-10-18 A National Academies committee hosted a public workshop series in 2023 Speakers invited by the committee discussed the current state of racial and ethnic health care disparities in the U S highlighted major drivers of health care disparities provided insight into successful and unsuccessful interventions identified gaps in the evidence base and proposed strategies to close those gaps and considered ways to scale and spread effective interventions to reduce racial and ethnic inequities in health care This workshop series is part of an ongoing consensus study examining the current state of racial and ethnic health care disparities in the U S building on the 2003 Institute of Medicine consensus report Unequal Treatment Confronting Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care The consensus study will publish its full conclusions and recommendations in summer 2024 Black and Blue John Hoberman, 2012-04-03 Black Blue is the first systematic description of how American doctors think about racial differences and how this kind of thinking affects the treatment of their black patients The standard studies of medical racism examine past medical abuses of black people and do not address the racially motivated thinking and behaviors of physicians practicing medicine today Black Blue penetrates the physician s private sphere where racial fantasies and misinformation distort diagnoses and treatments Doctors have always absorbed the racial stereotypes and folkloric beliefs about racial differences that permeate the general population Within the world of medicine this racial folklore has infiltrated all of the medical sub disciplines from cardiology to gynecology to psychiatry Doctors have thus imposed white or black racial identities upon every organ system of the human body along with racial interpretations of black children the black elderly the black athlete black musicality black pain thresholds and other aspects of black minds and bodies The American medical establishment does not readily absorb either historical or current information about medical racism For this reason racial enlightenment will not reach medical schools until the current race aversive curricula include new historical and sociological perspectives Harrison's Principles of Internal Medicine 19th Edition and Harrison's Manual of Medicine 19th Edition (EBook) VAL PAK J. Achieving Equity in Neurological Practice Bruce Ovbiagele, Sharon Lewis, Daniel José Correa, Reena Thomas, Larry Charleston IV, 2024-10-22 The recent high profile murders of George Floyd and other African American individuals along with the prevailing coronavirus disease COVID 19 pandemic have reinforced the notion that certain marginalized populations have worse health outcomes than other populations likely due to unequal and unjust policies and practices Neurological processes and prognoses frequently vary by sex gender race ethnicity socioeconomic status and geographic location In particular individuals of lower socioeconomic status and from minority racial and ethnic backgrounds have worse neurological health and often receive a lower standard of neurological care These inequities in neurological outcomes are attributed to wider societal social influences which impact how people live and how neurology is practiced Published evidence suggests that healthcare providers and the healthcare system contribute to inequities in neurological care for vulnerable and underserved populations However educating neurology care providers about these issues and training them to provide equitable care for these patients can potentially improve neurology care access delivery and outcomes In this book we provide the theoretical background scientific evidence and experiential knowledge warranted to properly care for vulnerable underserved patients with neurological diseases at the levels of the provider and system This book examines the root causes of neurological health inequities across a broad range of topics and offers possible solutions for achieving neurological health equity Initial chapters help to frame the overall issue of neurological health equity Subsequent chapters evaluate neurological health equity from the clinical practice standpoint with a focus on select populations and subspecialty care delivery settings Lastly we discuss the bigger picture with regard to the pipeline of practitioners and purview of policy makers This text is relevant for neurology residents and fellows multidisciplinary neurological care practitioners neurologists neurosurgeons advanced practice providers hospitalists emergency physicians critical care physicians pharmacists and allied health personnel and public health researchers and health policy makers The book is divided into three sections Principles Neurological Conditions and Priorities The first section establishes the framework and explains various key terminologies and concepts which undergird the care of vulnerable and undeserved patient populations The second section Neurological Conditions covers key neurological diseases by sub specialty describing published evidence of care and outcome disparities gaps in knowledge practical techniques for bridging these disparities on provider and system levels The third section Priorities identifies important areas of focus and improvement targeting trainees researchers community partners stakeholder organizations and policy makers which would be crucial for implementing sustained societal level enhancements in the neurological health of these vulnerable populations
