A1 concepts and terminology used within sociology

There are numerous ways that concepts and terminology are used within sociology to understand how concepts and perspectives are applied to the study of health and social care there for I will now be discussing the following.

Social class:

Social class refers to the idea that the population is divided into groups based on their economic wealth for example like a hierarchy of individuals that share the same social class with similar wealth there are different types of social classes and they are usually split into three groups as following : working class, this class is known as individuals of society that are part of manual jobs and receive minimum wage there for they would be considered as bottom of the hierarchy they usually work in labouring and factory based jobs. Individuals in working class tend to have low level of education and there can be numerous reasons to why individuals have low education and not being able to pursue higher level of education but one being is the fact working class people find it harder to afford equipment for school and being able to afford books to better their education there for it makes it difficult for them to participate in social mobility (idea of moving from classes) a reason being is because of restrictions not allowing them . people in working have no choice but to remain in their social position because their inability to move up there for they must remain in their jobs however it can be argued that working class can achieve social mobility for example looking at Richard Branson he was from a working-class background but was able to move to the upper class however the likelihood of working class partaking in social mobility is very unlikely, but it can be achieved. According to functionalist social stratification is healthy and Pocobello, Rob Saunders, Jaakko Seikkula, Sebastian von Peter, 2025-07-30 Open Dialogue OD is a low hierarchical mental health service model that originated in Finland in the 1980s following a change on two different levels. First, a culture of dialogical communication between staff, users, and caregivers was established. Secondly, community-based multi-disciplinary teams were organized to offer primarily outpatient services. Immediate help in crisis, continuity of support by the same team, a low medication approach, and a primarily psychotherapeutically oriented approach are key principles of OD that have been further elaborated upon over time during the past decades. OD promotes mutual trust and open exchange between the involved stakeholders. It is based on a mental health care epistemology that prioritizes human values, everyday relationships, and context-bound understandings over symptoms and clinical diagnostics. Transparency is of high value. All information is shared, and all voices are to be heard, thereby recognizing diversity and reflecting power differentials during the whole process of support. OD is now practiced in various regions around the globe, i.e. in several countries in Europe as well as in Australia, Japan, Latin America, and the USA. Studies in Western Lapland demonstrated various outcomes such as reducing the prevalence and incidence of so-called chronic mental illness, need for disability benefits, and intake of neuroleptic medication while increasing functional remission and taking up work on the first labour market. However, these outcomes primarily originate in studies that have investigated the OD in countries of its origin, leading to the question of whether they are transferrable to other healthcare contexts. This question is crucial since OD varies internationally in its adaption to local health care systems and contingencies instead of representing a clearly demarcated intervention. This Research Topic is interested in gaining an international perspective on OD. It will assemble papers and contributions that report and comment on local OD practices, describe and analyze their outcomes and impact, and inform future directions worldwide. Manuscripts that are co-authored by peers, survivors, and user researchers are especially welcomed. All manuscripts will be peer-reviewed. We are interested in qualitative, quantitative, and mixed method original research on OD, reporting on empirical research such as the results of intervention studies, clinical or pilot trials, systematic reviews or mini reviews that summarize the results of empirical studies on OD, case reports that highlight an unexpected situation or outcome of an OD course of support, policy and practice reviews on local regulations and guidelines that are relevant for OD, hypotheses papers that present novel arguments, interpretations, or theoretical models in relation to OD, perspective articles that present a viewpoint on a specific area of investigation in relation to OD, conceptual analysis articles that explore the concepts and issues behind OD, papers on training and instructions that describe innovative curricula, courses, and teaching formats concerning OD, data reports presenting a description or a research dataset on OD, brief research reports that present original research and/or preliminary findings on OD with fewer details, commentary and opinion papers that provide critical comments or contribute viewpoints on recent research findings.
