Awoyemi, 2003 Core Competencies in Adolescent Health and Development for Primary Care Providers WHO, World Health Organization, 2015-03-31 The aim of this document is to help countries develop competency based educational programmes in adolescent health and development in both pre service and in service education In addition it provides guidance on how to assess and improve the structure content and quality of the adolescent health component of pre service curricula By fostering the capacity of health care providers in adolescent health care and development the document supports the implementation in countries of the Global Standards for Quality Health Care Services for Adolescents The ultimate goal of this competency framework is to increase the quality of health care services provided to adolescents by improving the education of primary health care providers Your Guide to Higher Education in Ghana Godfried Funkor, 2007 School Mental Health Stan Kutcher, Yifeng Wei, Mark D. Weist, 2015-05-05 The realisation that most mental disorders have their onset before the age of twenty five has focused psychiatric research towards adolescent mental health This book provides vivid examples of school mental health innovations from eighteen countries addressing mental health promotion and interventions These initiatives and innovations enable readers from different regions and disciplines to apply strategies to help students achieve and maintain mental health enhance their learning outcomes and access services worldwide Through case studies of existing programs such as the integrated system of care approach in the USA the school based pathway to care framework in Canada the therapeutic school consultation approach in Turkey and the REACH model in Singapore it highlights challenges and solutions to building initiatives even when resources are scarce This will be essential reading for educators health providers policy makers researchers and other stakeholders engaged in helping students achieve mental health and enhance their learning outcomes

Children as Partners for Health Pat Pridmore, David Stephens, 2000-03 The Child to Child health education approach now in use in more than 80 countries views children as active promoters and not just receivers of health This is an exploration of how far such child centred philosophies can work in cultures where people do not necessarily share Western assumptions about the role of the child in society They analyze the theories and concepts underlying Child to Child and the reasons for its rapid spread Theory is then compared with practice drawing on case studies from both industrialised and Third World countries Lessons are drawn from its successes and failures implications made clear for policy makers planners implementers and evaluators and recommendations made for future action and research Development and Women's Reproductive Health in Ghana, 1920-1982 Holly Ashford, 2022-12-09 This book investigates the history of women s reproductive health in Ghana arguing that between the 1920s and 1980s it was largely driven by discourses of development and population control rather than a concern for women s health or rights Between the 1920s and 1980s the choices that

Ghanaian women made regarding their reproductive health were defined by development policy and practice Spanning the colonial and immediate postcolonial periods this book demonstrates that whilst the substance of development discourse shifted over time principles of development continued to be used to impact and legitimise reproductive health policy and practices well after independence The book explores Ghana s pluralist health system the introduction of maternal and child welfare the dominance of the Red Cross in Ghana s maternal and child health landscape nationalist pronatalism and global population activism In order to understand how global iterations of development and health policy impacted ordinary lives in Ghana the author uses evidence from multiple levels including private papers national archives and records of international and transnational organisations Providing balanced archival perspectives the book includes extensive oral history interviews carried out with both rural Ghanaian women and traditional birth attendants as well as with midwives doctors and family planning fieldworkers This book will have an important impact on a number of historical fields including Ghanaian history global health history global histories of population and family planning and histories of development It will be of interest to researchers and students in the history of public health development Africa Ghana and gender
