

A close-up photograph of a cat's face, focusing on its right eye which is a striking blue. The cat has light-colored fur with darker patches around its eyes and on its ears. Its whiskers are long and white, extending across the lower part of the frame. The background is a soft, out-of-focus light color.

The Lost Girls Andrew Radford, 2007 The Lost Girls analyses a number of British writers between 1850 and 1930 for whom the myth of Demeter's loss and eventual recovery of her cherished daughter Kore Persephone swept off in violent and catastrophic captivity by Dis God of the Dead had both huge personal and aesthetic significance This book in addition to scrutinising canonical and less well known texts by male authors such as Thomas Hardy E M Forster and D H Lawrence also focuses on unjustly neglected women writers Mary Webb and Mary Butts who utilised occult tropes to relocate themselves culturally and especially in Butts's case to recover and restore a forgotten legacy the myth of matriarchal origins These novelists are placed in relation not only to one another but also to Victorian archaeologists and especially to Jane Ellen Harrison 1850-1928 one of the first women to distinguish herself in the history of British Classical scholarship and whose anthropological approach to the study of early Greek art and religion both influenced and became transformed by the literature Rather than offering a teleological argument that moves lock step through the decades The Lost Girls proposes chapters that detail specific engagements with Demeter Persephone through which to register distinct literary cultural shifts in uses of the myth and new insights into the work of particular writers

Cashing Out SM Reine, 2017-08-18 William Faulkner Daniel Joseph Singal, 2000-11-09 Amid all that has been published about William Faulkner one subject the nature of his thought remains largely unexplored But as Daniel Singal's new intellectual biography reveals we can learn much about Faulkner's art by relating it to the cultural and intellectual discourse of his era and much about that era by coming to terms with his art Through detailed analyses of individual texts from the earliest poetry through Go Down Moses Singal traces Faulkner's attempt to liberate himself from the repressive Victorian culture in which he was raised by embracing the Modernist culture of the artistic avant garde To accommodate the conflicting demands of these two cultures Singal shows Faulkner created a complex and fluid structure of selfhood based on a set of dual identities one that of a Modernist author writing on the most daring and subversive issues of his day and the other that of a southern country gentleman loyal to the conservative mores of his community Indeed it is in the clash between these two selves Singal argues that one finds the key to making sense of Faulkner
