Fighting Sports, Gender, and the Commodification of Violence Victoria E. Collins, 2021-04-07 Fighting Sports Gender and the Commodification of Violence Heavy Bag Heroines offers a glimpse into the cultural terrain of women's boxing as it manifests in everyday gyms for novice boxers Taking an ethnographic approach Victoria E Collins examines broad understandings of gender violence self defense commodification and health and fitness from the point of view of women who engage the sport Collins unpacks dominant assumptions about gender and the sport through her participants' understandings of gender norms social assumptions about physicality sexuality as well as challenges to masculine and feminine performativity Central to this study is the appropriation and marketing of the boxers' work out in cardio boxing gym spaces i.e. fitness boxing where the sport has increasingly been packaged commodified and sold to predominantly middle class white female consumers as a means to not only improve their health and fitness but also to defend themselves against a would be attacker The body project for women in the sport of boxing therefore should not only be framed as a form of resistance but one of physical feminism

Fit for Consumption Jennifer Smith Maguire, 2007-09-06 This is the first text to offer a comprehensive socio cultural and historical analysis of the current fitness culture Fitness today is not simply about health clubs and exercise classes or measures of body mass index and cardiovascular endurance Fit for Consumption conceptualizes fitness as a field within which individuals and institutions may negotiate if not altogether reconcile the competing and often conflicting social demands made on the individual body that characterize our current era Intended for researchers and senior undergraduate and postgraduate students of sport leisure cultural studies and the body this book utilizes the US fitness field as a case study through which to explore the place of the body in contemporary consumer culture Combining observations in health clubs interviews with fitness producers and consumers and a discourse analysis of a wide variety of fitness texts this book provides an empirically grounded examination of one of the pressing theoretical questions of our time how individuals learn to fit into consumer culture and the service economy and how our bodies and selves become fit for consumption
