

Connecting the foot control

Remove the cord from the foot control and place the control under the table. Insert the foot control plug with the marking "UP" upward into the socket on the right-hand side of the machine.

Connecting to the wall outlet

The voltage (V) and frequency (Hz) are indicated under the base of the machine. Check that these values correspond to those of the electricity source before connecting the machine.

Free arm/Extension table

Trouser legs and sleeves can be drawn onto the free arm, making it easy to sew, mend or patch these parts.

When you need a larger working surface, attach the extension table. Fit the two studs into the holes at the rear of the free arm. Pull out the catch under the front of the table and release it in order to fix the table.

Main switch

The light and the machine are turned on by pressing the inner part of the main switch.

Reverse feed button

As long as you keep the reverse feed button depressed the machine will sew in reverse but will revert to ordinary sewing as soon as you release it. Excellent for fastening off.

Presser bar lever

By means of the presser bar lever at the rear of the machine, the presser foot can be raised and lowered. When raising, the presser foot will remain in the raised position, but the height can be increased by 3 mm by pushing the presser bar lever upward and holding it in this position. This is useful when you want to put garments with thick seams under the presser foot.

The presser foot should be lowered while sewing.

Presser foot pressure

The presser foot pressure can be adjusted with the aid of a marked dial on the left side of the machine. Normal pressure is obtained by setting the dial at the white dot. The higher the number, the greater the pressure.

By setting the dial at the symbol  the presser foot pressure is completely released. This setting should be used when free-hand sewing with the darning foot (extra accessory), i.e. darning, monogramming, machine embroidery and quilting.

If you turn the graded dial for the presser foot pressure to the lowest number, it is possible to darn with presser foot A. Lower the feed dog and move the fabric forward, backward and sideways by hand.

Lowering the feed dog

You lower the feed dog by pushing in the upper part of the push-button. In order to raise the feed dog again push in the lower part.

The feed dog should be lowered for a certain type of darning and when sewing on buttons. It is also easier to get thick garments under the presser foot if the teeth of the feed dog are not above the level of the stitch plate.
