environmentally sensitive mine as told by the people who developed and worked it In 1978 a geologist working for the Homestake Mining Company discovered gold in a remote corner of California s Napa County This discovery led to the establishment of California s most productive gold mine in the twentieth century Named the McLaughlin Mine it produced about 3 4 million ounces of gold between 1985 and 2002 The mine was also one of the first attempts at creating a new full scale mine in California after the advent of environmental regulations and the first to use autoclaves to extract gold from ore One Shot for Gold traces the history of the McLaughlin Mine and how it transformed a community and an industry This lively and detailed account is based largely on oral history interviews with a wide range of people associated with the mine including Homestake executives geologists and engineers as well as local neighbors of the mine officials from county governments townspeople and environmental activists Their narratives supported by thorough research into mining company documents public records newspaper accounts and other materials chronicle the mine from its very beginning to its eventual end and transformation into a designated nature reserve as part of the University of California Natural Reserve System A mine created at the end of the twentieth century was vastly different from the mines of the Gold Rush New regulations and concerns about the environmental economic and social impacts of a large mine in this remote and largely rural region of the state required decisions at many levels One Shot for Gold offers an engaging and accessible account of a modern gold mine and how it managed to exist in balance with the environment and the human community around it Seloc's
