Managing and Interpreting D-Day's Sites of Memory Geoffrey Bird, Sean Claxton, Keir Reeves, 2016-03-02 More than seventy years following the D Day Landings of 6 June 1944 Normandy's war heritage continues to intrigue visitors and researchers. Receiving well over two million visitors a year the Normandy landscape of war is among the most visited cultural sites in France. This book explores the significant role that heritage and tourism play in the present day with regard to educating the public as well as commemorating those who fought. The book examines the perspectives, experiences and insights of those who work in the field of war heritage in the region of Normandy where the D Day landings and the Battle of Normandy occurred. In this volume practitioner authors represent a range of interrelated roles and responsibilities. These perspectives include national and regional governments and coordinating agencies involved in policy planning and implementation, war cemetery commissions, managers who oversee particular museums and sites and individual battlefield tour guides whose vocation is to research and interpret sites of memory. Often interviewed as key informants for scholarly articles, the day to day observations, experiences and management decisions of these guardians of remembrance provide valuable insight into a range of issues and approaches that inform the meaning of tourism, remembrance and war heritage as well as implications for the management of war sites elsewhere. Complementing the Normandy practitioner offerings, more scholarly investigations provide an opportunity to compare and debate what is happening in the management and interpretation at other World War II related sites of war memory such as at Pearl Harbor, Okinawa and Portsmouth UK. This innovative volume will be of interest to those interested in remembrance, tourism, war heritage, dark tourism, battlefield tourism, commemoration, D Day and World War II. China's Japan Policy: Learning from the Past Amrita Jash, 2023-11-03 The book establishes a linkage between perceptions and foreign policy by exploring how China's behavior towards Japan is driven by mental shortcuts. The study is focused on the aspect of historical memories and how it factors in China's Japan Policy. It explores the linkage between perceptions born from the past, their interpretations in the present and thereby the shaping of policy behavior of China towards Japan. The author delves beyond the realist and liberal interpretations of international politics which assume that states interests and material capabilities are a given in the international system thus offering a conceptual understanding of Sino Japanese relations in the twenty first century Rewriting History in Manga Nissim Otmazgin, Rebecca Suter, 2016-06-15 This book analyzes the role of manga in contemporary Japanese political expression and debate and explores its role in propagating new perceptions regarding Japanese history Chinese and Japanese Films on the Second World War King-fai Tam, Timothy Y. Tsu, Sandra Wilson, 2014-10-24 This book examines representations of the Second World War in postwar Chinese and Japanese cinema Drawing on a wide range of scholarly disciplines and analysing a wide range of films it demonstrates the potential of war movies for understanding contemporary China and Japan It shows how the war is remembered in both countries including the demonisation of Japanese soldiers in postwar socialist era Chinese movies and the pervasive sense of victimhood in Japanese memories of the war However it also shows how some Chinese directors were experimenting with alternative interpretations of the war from as early as the 1950s and how despite the resurgence of nationalism in Japan since the 1980s the production of Japanese movies critical of the war has continued Narratives of Sorrow and Dignity Bardwell L. Smith, 2013-07-11 Bardwell L Smith offers a fresh perspective on mizuko kuyo the Japanese ceremony performed to bring solace to those who have experienced miscarriage stillbirth or abortion Showing how old and new forms of myth symbol doctrine praxis and organization combine and overlap in contemporary mizuko kuyo Smith provides critical insight from many angles the sociology of the family the power of the medical profession the economics of temples the import of ancestral connections the need for healing in both private and communal ways and perhaps above all the place of women in modern Japanese religion At the heart of Smith's research is the issue of how human beings experience the death of a life that has been and remains precious to them While universal these losses are also personal and unique The role of society in helping people to heal from these experiences varies widely and has changed enormously in recent decades In examples of grieving for these kinds of losses one finds narratives not only of deep sorrow but of remarkable dignity Religious Pluralism, State and Society in Asia Chiara Formichi, 2013-10-01 Taking a critical approach to the concept of religious pluralism this book examines the dynamics of religious co existence in Asia as they are directly addressed by governments or indirectly managed by groups and individuals It looks at the quality of relations that emerge in encounters among people of different religious traditions or among people who hold different visions within the same tradition Chapters focus in particular on the places of everyday religious diversity in Asian societies in order to explore how religious groups have confronted new situations of religious diversity The book goes on to explore the conditions under which active religious pluralism emerges or not from material contexts of diversity Excavating the Power of Memory in Japan Glenn D Hook, 2018-02-02 Excavating the power of memory offers a succinct examination of how memory is constructed embedded and disseminated in contemporary Japanese society The unique range and perspective of this collection will provide an understanding not found elsewhere It starts with a lucid introduction of how memory plays a political and wider social role in Japan Four case studies follow The first takes up the divergence in memory at the national and subnational levels by analysing the memory of the battle of Okinawa and US military accidents in Okinawa prefecture illuminating how memory in the prefecture embeds Okinawans as victims of mainland Japan and of the United States The second explores whether Japan's membership of the International Criminal Court represents a shift in the Japanese government's negative remembrance of the International Military Tribunal for the Far East demonstrating how both courts are largely portrayed as being disconnected in political debates The third offers an analysis of the surviving letters of the Kamikaze pilots in order to interrogate and compare their presumed identity in the dominant collective memory and their own self identities The fourth untangles how the memory of winds in Japanese fishing communities remains an expression of social thought that presides over the transmission of meaning about fishermen's geographical surroundings This book was previously published as a special issue of the Japan Forum

Sites of imperial memory Dominik Geppert, Frank Muller, 2016-05-16 Europe's great colonial empires have long been a thing of the past but the memories they generated are still all around us They have left deep imprints on the different memory communities that were affected by the processes of establishing running and dismantling these systems of imperial rule and they are still vibrant and evocative today This volume brings together a collection of innovative and fresh studies exploring different sites of imperial memory those conceptual and real places where the memories of former colonial rulers and of former colonial subjects have crystallised into a lasting form The volume explores how memory was built up re shaped and preserved across different empires continents and centuries It shows how it found concrete expression in stone and bronze how it adhered to the stories that were told and retold about great individuals and how it was suppressed denied and neglected

Handbook of Contemporary Japanese Religions Inken Prohl, John K. Nelson, 2012-09-03 Representing work by some of the leading scholars in the field the chapters in this handbook survey the transformation and innovation of religious traditions and practices in contemporary Japan The Politics of War Memory in Japan Kamila Szczepanska, 2014-05-09 Since the 1990s questions of Japanese wartime conduct apologies for aggression and compensation to former victims of the country's imperial policies have been brought to the fore of national and regional politics The state is undoubtedly the most important actor in the process of memory production and along with conservative legislators and the grass root revisionist movement there has been a consistent trend towards denying or undermining the existing acknowledgments of responsibility for Japan's wartime past However to fully comprehend war memory in Japan due attention must be paid to competing discourses that demand an alternative view and only then can the complexity of Japanese war memory and attitudes towards the legacies of the Asia Pacific war be understood The Politics of War Memory in Japan examines the involvement of five civil society actors in the struggle over remembering and addressing the wartime past in Japan today In studying progressive war memory activists it quickly becomes clear that the apologia by conservative politicians cannot be treated as representative of the opinion of the majority of the Japanese public Indeed this book seeks to remedy the disparity between studies devoted to the official level of addressing the history issue and the grass root historical revisionist movement on the one side and progressive activism on the other Furthermore it contributes to scholarly debates on the state of civil society in Japan challenging the characterisation of Japanese civil society as a depoliticised space by demonstrating a more contentious side of civil society activism Drawing important new empirical research this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Japanese civil society Japanese politics Japanese history and memory in Japan
