An Ethnography of Faith. Personal Conceptions of Religiosity in the Soutpansberg, South Africa, in the Early 20th Century Caroline Jeannerat,2023-01-20 Research into the history of Christian missions in the context of colonialism has focused primarily on missions as institutions and on the ways in which people were integrated into the economic political and ideological spheres of imperial powers Reduced to an experience occurring within a person faith was deemed unapproachable by scientific methods This has in effect constituted a silence regarding the everyday experience of religiosity among those drawn to Christianity The Ethnography of Faith is a detailed study of the ways in which people engage with and experience the religious in order to recognise and understand this suppressed voice of religiosity In her analysis of the Lutheran church in the Soutpansberg of early 20th century South Africa Caroline Jeannerat listens closely to how people describe their own faith and that of others in the archive in accounts of work done in texts written for mission publications in songs composed for church services in letters and newspaper articles and in oral memories A careful reading of this archive for breaks for misunderstandings and oppositions for sentiments of agreement praise compatibility and claims of shared experiences identifies negotiations of meaning which give indications of conceptualisations of faith that stand in distinction to those of the missionaries and their expectations

Rural Development and the Construction of New Markets Paul Hebinck,Sergio Schneider,Jan Douwe van der Ploeg,2014-09-15 This book focuses on empirical experiences related to market development and specifically new markets with structurally different characteristics than mainstream markets Europe Brazil China and the rather robust and complex African experiences are covered to provide a rich multidisciplinary and multi level analysis of the dynamics of newly emerging markets Rural Development and the Construction of New Markets analyses newly constructed markets as nested markets Although they are specific market segments that are nested in the wider commodity markets for food they have a different nature different dynamics a different redistribution of value added different prices and different relations between producers and consumers Nested markets embody distinction viz a viz the general markets in which they are embedded A key aspect of nested markets is that these are constructed in and through social struggles which in turn positions this book in relation to classic and new institutional economic analyses of markets These markets emerge as steadily growing parts of the farmer populations are dedicating their time energy and resources to the design and production of new goods and services that differ from conventional agricultural outputs The speed and intensity with which this is taking place and the products and services involved vary considerably across the world In large parts of the South notably Africa farmers are structurally combining farming with other activities By contrast in Europe and large parts of Latin America farmers have taken steps to generate new products and services which exist alongside ongoing agricultural production This book not only discusses the economic rationales and dynamics for these markets but also their likely futures and the threats and opportunities they face Erika Sutter: Seen with Other Eyes Gertrud
