E. Fellowes,2025-09-26 This contributed volume addresses the global scale of urbanization and its impacts on biodiversity By adding human capital cities are incubators for new ideas and technologies creating the possibility for socially and environmentally sensitive growth but this is rarely seen Urban ecology an essential field that supports planning based on environmental perspectives is a new science in tropical countries This book discusses the social inequity embedded in tropical cities and explores how this inequity also materializes in biodiversity with poor neighborhoods of tropical cities lacking sufficient access to green space and therefore reduced access to the benefits of nature and poor support for biodiversity With the current biodiversity crisis the traditional approach to protecting pristine areas is insufficient The chapters in this volume illustrate how tropical cities can act as spaces for biological conservation Ecological literacy can help cities reconcile the needs of both people and of nature This book compiles studies by experts from more than 100 institutions and 29 countries on the ecology and biodiversity of tropical cities at multiple scales and applies their studies to urban planning and management The audience for this book includes researchers students and professionals working on environmental social economic cultural political architectural and development projects in urban areas offering a deep and timely discussion of their influence on the fauna and flora of tropical cities The Eurasian Huchen, Hucho hucho J. need to gather available data on the Eurasian huchen an important salmonid species has been forced by a plain and unfortunately common fact of our times the numbers and distribution of this biggest of salmonids have begun to decline and its range has begun to shrink A seminar on the huchen the European form of the species Hucho hucho held in Zilina in February 1973 as a result of a suggestion of the Section for the Conservation of Fauna of the Slovak Zoological Society indicated very clearly the sad situation Data on the biology of the huchen are regrettably scarce despite several recent papers Ivaska 1951 Svetina 1962 Prawochenski and Kolder 1968 with the aim of filling this gap Supposing that without a thorough knowledge it is practically impossible to conserve any plant or animal species the participants of the seminar concluded that the existing knowledge on the huchen should be compiled in an exhaustive monograph The first such outline originated in 1977 under the authorship of J Holcik K Hensel and L Skacel and was submitted as a research report to some of the central authorities Even during the compilation of the report it became evident however that there is no difference between the huchen and its relative the taimen Consequently we immediately began revising our first report which took over three years
