Tropical Forest Conservation And Industry Partnership An Experience From The Congo Basin:

Tropical Forest Conservation and Industry Partnership Connie J. Clark, John R. Poulsen, 2012-03-16 Historically the conservation of forests and wildlife has focused on the creation of national parks and reserves. However, only 9% of protected areas are larger than 14 000 hectares, likely making them too small to conserve ecosystem services and prevent loss of wide ranging keystone species such as elephant and leopard. New approaches are needed that extend conservation beyond protected area boundaries into areas where economic considerations prevail. The book describes one such emerging model of conservation: the integration of the private sector into partnerships to protect biodiversity and improve forest management. While such partnerships are being created in nearly every sector of resource extraction, detailed analyses of how such partnerships work and whether they benefit biodiversity conservation are rare. Using a case study from the Congo Basin, the book examines principles of conservation and partnership and provides technical and methodological details to replicate an innovative conservation model. It presents concrete solutions for expanding conservation across multi use landscapes, a necessary action as industry expands to all the corners of the globe.

Great apes and FSC: implementing 'ape friendly' practices in Central Africa's logging concessions, Extractive Industries and Ape Conservation Arcus Foundation, 2014-03-27 Rigorously and objectively examines the evolving context within which great ape and gibbon habitats are increasingly interfacing with extractive industries.

Corporate Responsibility and Sustainable Development Lez Rayman-Bacchus, Philip Walsh, 2015-11-19 Corporate responsibility and sustainable development are two concepts that may be able to reconcile many of the big challenges facing the world: challenges such as tensions between respect for the natural environment, social justice and economic development; the long view versus short term imperatives; and the competing priorities between developed and developing economies. This book explores the gaps and overlaps between corporate responsibility and sustainable development These concerns overlap because they implicate corporate practices state development policy challenges the concerns and priorities of non governmental organisations and the potential for innovative forms of organisation to address these challenges This collection examines these questions in terms of tensions and interdependencies between competing claims to resources rights and responsibilities strategy and governance between public and private interest and the implications for equity and the common good over the long term This is a valuable resource for researchers lecturers practitioners postgraduate and final year undergraduates in business strategy international business and international management public sector policy and management international development political economy It is also suitable for more specialist courses on sustainability corporate responsibility governance and international development

Antelope Conservation Jakob Bro-Jorgensen, David P. Mallon, 2016-06-08 Antelopes constitute a fundamental part of ecosystems throughout Africa and Asia where they act as habitat architects dispersers of seeds and prey for large carnivores The fascination they hold in the human mind is evident from prehistoric rock paintings and ancient Egyptian art to today's wildlife documentaries and popularity in zoos In recent years however the spectacular herds of the past have been decimated or extirpated over wide areas in the wilds and urgent conservation action is needed to preserve this world heritage for generations to come As the first book dedicated to antelope conservation this volume sets out to diagnose the causes of the drastic declines in antelope biodiversity and on this basis identify the most effective points of action In doing so the book covers central issues in the current conservation debate especially related to the management of overexploitation habitat fragmentation disease transmission climate change populations genetics and reintroductions The contributions are authored by world leading experts in the field and the book is a useful resource to conservation scientists and practitioners researchers and students in related disciplines as well as interested lay people

Biodiversity Monitoring and Conservation Ben Collen, Nathalie Pettorelli, Jonathan E. M. Baillie, Sarah M. Durant, 2013-05-06 As the impacts of anthropogenic activities increase in both magnitude and extent biodiversity is coming under increasing pressure Scientists and policy makers are frequently hampered by a lack of information on biological systems particularly information relating to long term trends Such information is crucial to developing an understanding as to how biodiversity may respond to global environmental change Knowledge gaps make it very difficult to develop effective policies and legislation to reduce and reverse biodiversity loss This book explores the gap between global commitments to biodiversity conservation and local action to track biodiversity change and implement conservation action High profile international political commitments to improve biodiversity conservation such as the targets set by the Convention on Biological Diversity require innovative and rapid responses from both science and policy This multi disciplinary perspective highlights barriers to conservation and offers novel solutions to evaluating trends in biodiversity at multiple scales

Biodiversity Conservation and Poverty Alleviation Dilys Roe, Joanna Elliott, Chris Sandbrook, Matt Walpole, 2012-11-16 Biodiversity conservation and poverty alleviation are both important societal goals demanding increasing international attention While they may seem to be unrelated the international policy frameworks that guide action to address them make an explicit assumption that conserving biodiversity will help to tackle global poverty Part of the Conservation Science and Practice Series published with the Zoological Society of London this book explores the validity of that assumption The book addresses a number of critical questions Which aspects of biodiversity are of value to the poor Does the relationship between biodiversity and poverty differ according to particular ecological conditions How do different conservation interventions vary in their poverty impacts How do distributional and institutional issues affect the poverty impacts of interventions How do broader issues such as climate change and the global economic system affect the biodiversity poverty relationship at different scales This volume will be of interest to policy makers practitioners and researchers concerned with understanding the potential and limitations of integrated approaches to biodiversity conservation and poverty alleviation

Protected Areas Lucas N. Joppa, Jonathan E. M. Bailie, John G. Robinson, 2016-02-10 Protected areas spearhead our response to the rapidly accelerating biodiversity crisis However while the number of protected areas has been growing rapidly over the past 20 years the extent to which the world's protected areas are effectively conserving species ecosystems and ecosystem services is poorly understood Highlights new techniques for better management and monitoring of protected areas Sets guidelines for the decision making processes involved in setting up and maintaining protected areas Fully international in scope and covering all ecosystems and biomes

Applied Population and Community Ecology Jim Hone, 2012-06-20 Part of the Zoological Society of London's Conservation Science and Practice Series Applied Population and Community Ecology evaluates theory in population and community ecology using a case study of feral pigs birds and plants in the high country of south eastern Australia In sequence the book reviews the relevant theory and uses long term research over a quarter of a century on the population ecology of feral pigs and then community ecology of birds and plants to evaluate the theory The book brings together into one volume research results of many observational experimental and modelling studies and directly compares them with those from related studies around the world The implications of the results for future wildlife management are also discussed Intended readers are ecologists graduate students in ecology and wildlife management and conservation and pest managers

Elephants and Savanna Woodland Ecosystems Christina Skarpe, Johan T. du Toit, Stein R. Moe, 2014-04-02 During the nineteenth century ivory hunting caused a substantial decrease of elephant numbers in southern Africa Soon after that populations of many other large and medium sized herbivores went into steep decline due to the rinderpest pandemic in the 1890s These two events provided an opportunity for woodland establishment in areas previously intensively utilized by elephants and other herbivores The return of elephants to currently protected areas of their former range has greatly influenced vegetation locally and the resulting potential negative effects on biodiversity are causing concern among stakeholders managers and scientists This book focuses on the ecological effects of the increasing elephant population in northern Botswana presenting the importance of the elephants for the heterogeneity of the system and showing that elephant ecology involves much wider spatiotemporal scales than was previously thought Drawing on the results of their research the authors discuss elephant caused effects on vegetation in nutrient rich and nutrient poor savannas and the potential competition between elephants on the one hand and browsers and mixed feeders on the other Ultimately this text provides a comprehensive review of ecological processes in African savannas covering long term ecosystem changes and human wildlife conflicts It summarises new knowledge on the ecology of the sub humid African savanna ecosystems to advance the general functional understanding of savanna ecosystems across moisture and nutrient gradients

Regional action plan for the conservation of western lowland gorillas and central chimpanzees 2015-2025, 2014-01-01 The action plan lays out a conservation strategy for gorillas and chimpanzees in Western Equatorial Africa The Endangered central chimpanzee Pan troglodytes troglodytes and the Critically Endangered western lowland gorilla Gorilla gorilla gorilla are undergoing a dramatic decline due to poaching disease and habitat loss driven by demands for bushmeat a lack of law enforcement by corruption and by increased access to their once remote habitat like the recent expansion of industrial agriculture This document is the product of the second regional workshop on conservation planning for the two subspecies of great ape which brought together senior representatives of the wildlife authorities in the six range states protected area managers NGOs scientists wildlife health experts industry representatives and donors These stakeholders assessed great ape conservation needs for the next 10 years building on an action plan published in 2005 to develop a new plan of action that will serve as a guide for range state governments donors and conservation organisations to target conservation investment in the region
